

RED CROSS CALLS ARMISTICE WEEK

Partnership Rather Than Monarchy Is Asked to Complete War Relief.

hundreds of thousands of people in the prime of life die in the United States every year from wholly preventable diseases. This is nothing short of a disaster which is a continuing one and will be permanent unless the people co-operate with one another to use the knowledge and wealth already in existence to bring the nation into a better day. The Red Cross through its millions of members comprising every element in every community, many of them themselves victims of the foes that cut short human life and rob it of its sweetness, can serve nation and community as can no other agency in supplementing, reinforcing, and supporting well-directed efforts for the conservation of the most precious things in the world, human life and happiness.

5. America Has Set the Pace in a World Red Cross Movement.

The League of Red Cross Societies of all nations has been formed through the inspiration of the Red Cross achievement of the United States. This League has no executive power whatever over the Red Cross of any nation, but will extend into every nation the benefits of a national, voluntary Red Cross society on the American model, to deal with problems of health and child welfare and to cope with the relief problems that are so pressing over so great a part of the earth's surface. Through these organizations many nations will meet their own problems which would otherwise be appealing to America for relief and assistance. The United States, whose people have shown the world how thus to rise out of despair into hope, must keep the Red Cross banner floating high. The success or failure of this great world movement of practical idealism will depend largely upon the manner in which the American people answer the THIRD RED CROSS ROLL CALL.

War Task of the Red Cross is Not Yet Fully Performed.

Men still in service, and to their homes at home, to discharged soldiers yet fully adjusted to the life of civilian life, to 30,000 boys and girls convalescing in Military

The Red Cross button is the most widely worn button in the world. Thirty million men and women and children in the United States now wear this emblem of countless good deeds accomplished. For the third year in America comes universal opportunity to wear it.

There are many instances of how this button, bearing upon a white background a tiny cross, has been worn and treasured. One morning in a distant northwest county, a man whose ruddy, optimistic countenance was clothed with ruddy beard, asked the Red Cross chairman if he had another button like the one he wore. The chairman gave him his own. "I have twelve children," explained the man. "I gave my button to the twelfth, a new arrival, this morning. When I have anything good the whole

RED CROSS GIRLS FEED THOUSANDS OF DOUGHBOYS

Since the armistice, twenty-five canteens, operated by Red Cross Chapters in Idaho, Oregon, and Washington have dispensed 23,379 gallons of coffee, and 224,236 dozen sandwiches, to soldiers, sailors, and marines en route. The hospitality of these canteens was accepted nine hundred thousand times, often by men who would have gone hungry but for the Red Cross service thus rendered. Figures show that these men, through the courtesy of the Red Cross, drank 8,497 gallons of lead drinks; used 6,663 bars of soap, and 37,713 paper towels; ate 57,491 chocolate bars, 16,329 pounds of candy, 14,754 dozen cookies, 74,915 dozen doughnuts, 9,488 dozen hot rolls; wrote 426,400 post cards furnished and stamped by the Red Cross; and to their own discomfort during a certain period, wore 12,250 influenza masks. All this, to say nothing of 22,956 full meals.

During this time 1847 sick men were aided by the canteen, seventy-nine of them being removed from trains as too sick to travel, and receiving immediate hospital attention.

Canteen work is nearly over, but the Red Cross still has vitally important work to do. Every membership in the Third Red Cross Roll Call will be a vote of confidence in the American Red Cross.

BUENA VISTA SHORT STOPS

Harve Nash who is working in Salem, was an over Sunday visitor with home folks.

J. M. Nash, wife and daughter Lucile of Salem, Sundayed with the former's parents Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Nash.

CALLS 'EM TO CHURCH WITH HALF-PAGE AD

Rev. Jesse Guy Smith, pastor of the Church of Christ, Oxford, Ind., builds his church in both men and money on the budget system and by advertising. A half-page advertisement in his home paper every week has stirred up the town of 1200 until virtually every member is engaged in some branch of the activity. The contents of the half-page ad deals editorially on interesting subjects, treated from a very human standpoint and with appeal to the man outside the church.

OLDEST SETTLER PASSES

Short funeral services were held at the undertaking parlors Sunday afternoon over the remains of Grandpa Heffley who passed away Friday at his home north of town. He was quite aged in years and had never been sick a day in his life until only a few days of his death. While Mr. Heffley had for over twenty years been a resident of Polk county, he kept close at home, alternating the time with his sons and their families and was not widely known to the general public. He was a man of high character and was warmly regarded by those who knew him. He was born in Dayton, Ohio, but spent a large part of his life in Indiana, at Wolcott, where his wife died a little over twenty years ago. Since that time he has lived in Oregon. He was the father of four sons and two daughters, a son and a daughter being dead. Born in 1822 he was probably the oldest man in Polk county. When he was born James Monroe was president and cast his first presidential ballot at the time James K. Polk and Henry Clay were the opposing candidates. His Indian home was not far from the battle ground of Tippecanoe where General William Henry Harrison won fame as a soldier. His remains were taken back to Indiana for burial beside his wife. Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Heffley accompanied them and will stay until February visiting in Indiana, and at Huntington, West Virginia.

George Carbury and wife Sundayed with friends at Woodburn.
