EXPRESSED WILL OF PEOPLE

"First American Constitution" Grew Out of Feeling of Dissatisfaction With Conditions.

The term "First American Constitution" is frequently applied by writers to what is better known historically as the "Fundamental Orders of Connecticut." Many people in Massachusetts having become dissatisfied with a law that none but church members should vote or hold office, at length determined to form other settlements. Other town organizations migrated almost bodily from Massachusetts to what was then the wilderness. These were Newton, Watertown and Dorchester, which had their names changed, respectively, to Hartford, Wethersfield and Windsor.
Along with them went their governing organizations and a general court for the three towns was afterward formed.

Jan. 14, 1639, this little community formed the first written American Constitution at Hartford. This Constitution springs directly from the will of the people, and neither English king nor parliament, nor Colonial council, nor governor had anything to do with it. The orders provided for two general representative assemblies each year, composed of delegates from each town, one for the election of governor and magistrates, the other for making the laws. These fundamental orders as they were called, were the beginnings of democratic government in America.

KEY TO ANCIENT HISTORY

Greek Papyri Have Revealed Practically All That is Known of Greco-Roman World.

Greek papyri were documents for ancient history which supplied a personal view of things. They described classes not represented in history as usually written and helped in the study of popular psychology of the Greco-Roman Egypt, and by analogy, also, to some extent, the Greco-Roman world.

The papyri illustrated the history of administration, showing it in actual working, and not in theory. There was not much in the papyri on mystery cults, but there were interesting religious documents, such as the hymn to Isis. The papyri mostly illustrated the popular attitude to religion, popular piety and impiety. They were also useful for early Christianity, Egypt being the native country of monasticism.

The economic decay of the Roman empire, popular education, and the history of the Greek language, were also illustrated by papyri. The borrowings of Christianity could be traced from older paganism from the papyri, and the Christian and pagan attitudes could thus be contrasted.

Historic Lies.

Two of the most famous lies relate to the last hours of Nelson. Everyone knows that the real signal at Trafalgar which he ordered was "Nelson expects every man to do his duty." The other lie is about the coat he wore on his quarter deck. He is reported to have silenced the affectionate im-portunity of his officers, entreating him to conceal the stars on his breast, by saying, "In honor I gained them, and in honor I will die with them." This is the great style, but it is untrue. Dr. Arnold heard the facts from Sir Thomas Hardy. Nelson wore on the day of battle the same coat which he had worn for weeks, having the order of the bath embroidered upon it; and when his friend expressed some apprehension of the badge, he answered that he was aware of the danger, but that it was "too late then to shift his coat." The fabricated saying is magnificent: why destroy it?

Stirring Things Up.

Gertrude is 4 years of age. She faces the world fearlessly, looks it squarely in the eye, and if it doesn't track exactly to suit her she tells it things. Her mamma had gone away the other day and left Gertrude in the care of her grandma, and, after a clash of wills, Gertrude had been put into a room to remain for a specified length of time. "If you stir out of that room before I tell you you may," cautioned grandma severely. "I am going to spank you." Gertrude stood with arms akimbo for a moment and then retorted in a tone of finality: "Well! When you spank me you will find that business is certainly beginning to pick up in this neighborhood."—The Argonaut.

3,000-Year-Old Story.

Do you know which is the oldest work of fiction?
It is the "Tale of Two Brothers," written over three thousand years ago by the librarian to King Merneptah, the supposed Pharaoh of the Exodus.
The story was written for the amusement of the king's son, who afterward reigned as Seti the Second.
He has signed his name in two places on the manuscript, and these are probably the only surviving autographs of a king of Egypt.
The "Tale of Two Brothers" is written on nineteen sheets of papyrus in a bold hieratic hand. It was purchased in 1837 by the British museum from a Mme. d'Orbigny.

Their Business.
"I read about a meeting of deaf and dumb painters. How do you think they got along?"
"It ought to be easy for painters to get along with the sign language."

WILLIAM NESMITH AFTER FARM AT RICKREALL

Suit of William G. Nesmith, formerly of Rickreall, to recover a 300-acre farm from Levi Ankey, present owner of record of the Nesmith farm, is in progress in the federal court, says the Dallas Observer.

Mr. Nesmith is the youngest son of Senator J. W. Nesmith. The acreage in question is the old family homestead located a few miles east of Rickreall on the Salem road. The plaintiff conveyed the land to Mrs.
Ankey in 1899.

The contention of Mr. Nesmith is that the transaction was a mortgage and not a sale, and that being a mortgage, he had a right to redeem it.
Mrs. Ankey was a sister of Mrs. Nesmith. Levi Ankey is not in attendance at the trial, having made a deposition.
He is represented by Ben C. Day, while Mr. Nesmith is represented by W. P. Lord. Among the witnesses are C. N. McArthur, congressional representative, a nephew of the plaintiff.

Coddling Moth Spray Due Soon

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis—Spray for the second generation of coddling moths will be due in the Willamette valley generally, August 5 to 15, says A. L. Lovett, entomologist of the O. A. C. experiment station. In Douglas, county August 1 to 10 is the date named.
"The brood will be scattered and undoubtedly some moths will be active prior to these dates," says Prof. Lovett. "However, applications made will afford maximum protection from the main brood of worms."

Extension Hort. Man Appointed

Clayton L. Long, manager of a 1000-acre fruit ranch at Mentor, O., has been appointed extension horticulturist for Oregon by the State Agricultural College. He is a native of Ohio, has lived much of the time on a fruit farm, and is a master of horticulture from the Ohio University. He took charge of the work August 1st.

Aside from the news print paper, only a few grades of building and mill wrapping paper are made at British Columbia pulp plants, but hemlock-spruce sulphite fiber is shipped to outside mills for the production of bond, manila, tissue, pure fiber, printings, and other high-grade papers requiring a strong, tough, white fiber; this same system could probably be followed with pulp plants located in Alaska.

The lumber industry of the United States now has its principal producing center in the Pacific Northwest, where the timber resources are located; it is predicted that the pulp wood producing center of the future will be in Alaska and the Pacific Northwest, for the same reason.

Secretary of Agriculture Meredith believes that the development of the forest and hydro-electric resources of Alaska is a practical means of increasing the supplies of the newsprint available for the United States, and therefore eventually lessening the paper shortage, now so acute.
