Let Your Children Learn on a Good Piano

A poor Piano has no musical quality of tone. This lack of tone quality is a serious menace to the "ear." Also in a poor Piano the action is hard and irregular, and the fingers and hands are improperly trained. Therefore, if you intend to have your children learn to play, provide them with a good Piano. It is a mistake to think that a cheap or poor Piano is good enough for them to "bang on"—their first impressions are lasting ones—start their training right—them the best you can afford. Consider quality and not cheapness. A good, reliable dealer has good Pianos at moderate (not cheap) prices, and sells them on convenient terms.

Dealers in Steinway and Other Pianos, Pianola and Duo Art Pianos, Aeolian Player Pianos, Player Rolls, Etc.
