

OREGON NEWS NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

Principal Events of the Week Briefly Sketched for Information of Our Readers.

Expenditures for educational purposes in Marion county for 1921 totaled $772,298.46.

Business was suspended in Bend Wednesday, the date of the annual merchants' picnic.

September 15 and 16 has been set as the dates for the 12th annual Hood River county school fair.

Lloyd Murray, who escaped from the state hospital at Salem six months ago, was captured near Seio.

Work has been begun on construction of the foundation of Astoria's proposed new $300,000 hotel.

Rev. Joseph Hoberg, well-known Methodist minister, died at his home in McMinnville. He was 94 years old.

An organization for the co-operative marketing of their crops is being formed by grape growers of Josephine county.

Ten thousand persons are expected to attend the celebration September 9 of the completion of the new railroad to Vernonia.

Bartlett pear shipments started last week from the Rogue river valley, the first few carloads being consigned to Salem canneries.

With the opening of the annual hop picking season a few days away, Lane county growers are predicting a shortage of help in the fields.

Members of the Progressive Business Men's club of Portland presented 20 band instruments to the state training school boys at Salem.

Plans are practically completed for the second annual northwest hay and grain show, which is to be held in Pendleton September 18-23.

Fire swept through a half block of the business section of Stayton, completely destroying the buildings and doing damage estimated at $45,000.

Damage estimated by fire officials at $50,000 was caused by a fire which swept through the Webster garage in Portland and burned 33 motor vehicles.

A small pocket of gold, seven miles from Kerby, yielded over $1200 in free gold. Two prospectors stumbled on the vein and took the metal out in three days.

Plans for one of the most extensive displays ever made to represent Lane county at the state fair at Salem is being worked out by officials of the local board.

A measure authorizing the city council of Eugene to issue bonds in the sum of $15,000 for the purchase of a new firepump truck, will be on the November ballot.

Approximately $13,000,000 voted for the relief of the ex-service men has been obligated by claims already approved by the world war veterans state aid commission.

A coyote suspected of having rabies was shot on East Main street in Klamath Falls by Frank Pecholt, after the animal had bitten a dog and frightened residents of the neighborhood.

Ole Paulson, 50, gave himself up to Sheriff Ed Ellingsen at Marshfield, declaring that he had burned his $7000 dance hall at Coaledo on July 16 after it had just been furnished. The hall was insured for $6000.

The new grade of the La Grande-Joseph highway is now open and the old Wallowa hill grade, which was one of the most treacherous of mountain roads in eastern Oregon, is no longer used by automobilists.

Oil tests being made in the Sweet Home country are boosting the value of the land there, and in some cases persons owning property adjacent to the scenes of operation are asking prohibitive prices or refusing to sell.

Prunes are looking well in Douglas county, but continue to drop heavily in Lane and Marion counties, according to the summary of crop conditions in Oregon issued by the department of agriculture for the week ending August 15.

Approximately 1600 persons will be employed in the Silem canneries during the next six weeks, when more than 3750 tons of pears and 1800 tons of blackberries will be processed and prepared for shipment to the eastern markets.

An eastern blacksnake measuring five feet two inches in length was killed near the depot at Heppner. This is the first specimen of blacksnake ever found in this part of Oregon and speculation is rife as to how and when his snakeship arrived.

Unless loganberry growers of the Willamette valley are assured of not less than six cents a pound for their product next season, many of them will dig up their vines and engage in other business. This was the announcement made at a meeting of a large number of growers held at Liberty. Last year loganberries sold as low as 2½ cents a pound, while this season most of the berries were marketed at four cents.

Approximately 22 per cent of the automobiles now operating in Oregon are non-resident machines, according to a report by the state highway department. The report was based on observations covering 4000 miles of road.

Carl D. Shoemaker, state master fish warden, has announced that the request made to the fish commission by packers and fishermen for a five-day extension of the spring fishing season, which closes at noon August 25, will not be granted.

According to a report from Deputy Game Warden Shoemaker of Newport the state game department will soon plant the Yaquina bay with a goodly supply of silver-side salmon and trout. The report stated that 300,000 salmon would be planted and 175,000 trout.

Admiral Gregory, chief of the bureau of yards and docks of the navy department, spent a couple of days at Astoria inspecting the Tongue Point naval base property and conferring with Lieutenant-Commander Church relative to development of the station.

Oregon is to receive from the federal government an allotment of 46 Liberty motor trucks, according to Herbert Nunn, state highway engineer, on return from American lake, Washington, where he completed arrangements for shipping the carriers into this state.

Buck herds, when three or more of them are running together in Crook, Deschutes, Klamath, Lake and Jackson counties, must be dipped twice between August 15 and November 15, according to announcement made by Dr. W. H. Lytle, secretary of the state sanitary livestock board.

Another of Salem's oldest landmarks has given way in the march of progress. A crew of men have torn down a dwelling erected by George Neal in the year 1850. The house was plastered and lathed and in its day was one of the most pretentious structures in Oregon. It was located in North Salem.

Appointment of Captain C. D. Rauch of Portland as referee to take testimony in the injunction proceedings instituted against appearance of the so-called Green fish bill, an initiative measure designed to close the Columbia river to all except gill net fishermen, was announced by Judge G. G. Bingham at Salem.

Work on the third unit of the Oregon Pulp and Paper company's plant at Salem has been started. This unit will provide facilities for the manufacture of bond papers and will give employment to approximately 75 men. The new unit will cost $300,000 and will increase the total cost of the plant to more than $1,000,000.

Picking of fuggle hops started in Marion county Monday, and the picking of clusters should start within the next two weeks. The recent rains proved beneficial to the hops, and estimates have placed the yield at 55,000 bales. Earlier in the season it was predicted that the entire crop would not exceed 40,000 bales.

Ground at Twelfth avenue East and Hilyard street in Eugene has been selected for the site of the new $100,000 hospital to be erected by the Eugene Bible university, according to announcement. In addition to the city building a 32-acre tract south of Eugene has been selected for a sanitarium and convalescent building.

The Shea hill section of the Foster-Cascadia road now has the official approval of the federal government. Copy of the agreement signed by Secretary of Agriculture Fall has been received by the Linn county court, whereby the government gives $38,000 to aid in the improvement of the roadway. Linn county will match this sum.

A new attendance record for national guard drill in a harvest and vacation month was set for July, 1922, by the Oregon national guard, according to the monthly report of drill attendance issued by George A. White, adjutant-general. A total of 1763 citizen soldiers attended each one of the four drills held in armories during the month.

Potato diseases are less prevalent in Deschutes county this season than last, according to Professor Hyslop, of the Oregon Agricultural college, who has completed his field inspection for seed certification. As a result 30 per cent of the registered fields passed inspection, which is a high percentage considering the high standard required.

Solution of the acute problem facing the pear growers of the Rogue River valley was reached when the Umpqua Valley Canning company leased the cold storage plant of the Roseburg Ice company. On account of the railroad situation the growers found themselves unable to ship any except their very best fruit, and it appeared that heavy losses would occur. The cannery has not sufficient capacity to take care of the surplus as it ripens, but by obtaining the cold storage plant can continue the season until the latter part of October, and will, in this manner, take care of all fruit which cannot be shipped in a fresh condition. The cannery expects to put up about 400 tons of pears this year.
