Monmouth

Walter M. Pierce, democratic candidate for governor, was on our streets Monday talking to the voters. Mr. Gentle gave a lecture at the Baptist church last Sunday night. Some other good speaker will be chosen for next Sunday at the same place.

Monmouth Grange meets this Friday evening to initiate some new members. This order has decided to meet twice each month during the winter in order to get all of the work done.

Oliver Waller is visiting with his brother, L. W. Waller.

The Civic club was reorganized last Saturday with Mrs. Landers as president. It will meet again next Saturday at the high school building. The subject of apubic park will be discussed; also a war will be waged on weeds growing in the streets and along the parkings and vacant lots. Our slogan should be a "Town Beautiful."

Dr. Powell is busy taking pickers to and from his walnut orchard north of town. The nut crop is good this year.

Melting Carbon.

Carbon may be melted and maintained in a liquid condition, according to the experiments of a French investigator. The heating was effected under great pressure in the electric furnace, and a curious phenomenon was noticed at 1,500 atmospheres, namely, that after a brief failure of the arc, the current refused to pass even when the power was much increased. It is supposed that as the carbon passed into liquid and transparent state, it assumed a rare allotropic form, becoming a non-conductor. The test was too brief for a study of this condition, but was made to include a sudden cooling of the molten carbon by a flooding with water of the interior of the pressure vessel. The minute diamonds were recognized in the gray powder thus obtained, the result being, however, not wholly satisfactory.

Cause for Dudgeon.

"What's the excitement next door?" "Some bill collectors are quarreling over their seniority rights."

"Their what?" "A grocer's representative who has been after the Gadders for six months claims he was pushed aside by a laundryman with a bill less than two weeks old."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

CITY IN BRIEF

Mrs. O. D. Butler, Mrs. A. L. Thomas and Mrs. Z. C. Kimball spent last Friday and Saturday in Portland.

A representative of the state dairy and food inspector's office in Salem has been inspecting this week local business houses coming under the supervision of this department and there have been several instances of where he has expressed appreciation of the excellent conditions he found and the apparent desire of all to comply with the regulations.

Feed the bees now if they are going to be fed. They should not be disturbed in the winter unless absolutely necessary. If they are to be moved this also should be done at once rather than during the winter, unless one can wait until spring.
