Early Day Folk County Fair .- Last Sunday's Statesman publishes the following item from an old issue dated May 19, 1855: "At a meeting of the Polk County Agricultural society, held at Dallas on the 5th day of May, 1855. it was voted that said society hold its annual fair for the present year, on Thursday and Friday, the 11th and 12th days of October, at Dallas." The editor of this paper remembers attending that "agricultural fair." He was then a little tow-headed boy and to his juvenile imagination it was a very considerable affair. There was a fine display of cereals and vegetables. The virgin soil then produced at its besthuge squashes, mammoth cabbages, great big potatoes, splendid melous, wheat and rye that grew five and six feet tall, with heads six and eight inches long. The display was limited in quantity and variety but magnificent J. A. Veness recently returned from in quality. It is difficult for the farmer of today to match the cereal and
