FLIES ARE DOING WELL

This summer just because a great many people think it's economy to let their horses go without nets. That's a mistake.

TREAT YOUR HORSE LIKE A MAN!

He'll do better work, be less nervous and require less feed when protected from insects. It's near the end of the season just when flies bite hardest and stick tightest. Nets are cheapest now—not at cost, but with mighty small profit—some at 50 cents, some at $5, and all prices between.

Many hop growers in this vicinity have been compelled to get their pickers from distant points of the valley. The local pickers are inadequate to the local demand. Most all of the growers, so far as we have learned, will employ white labor almost exclusively.

"Pap" Hodgkin celebrated his 68th birthday Monday by inviting several personal friends to dine with him at the City Restaurant. "Pap" is one of Independence's most noted characters, he having been one of the first merchants to locate in South Independence. He has been associated with this community socially and financially for more than 25 years. "Pap" Hodgkin is respected by every one, and no figure upon our streets is better known than his. May his days be long among us.

Quite a delegation of Independence people joined the pleasure seeking crowd at Newport over Sunday. Among the number who left here Saturday for the sea shore were: J. S. Cooper, J. M. Vanduy, H. Hirschberg, A. J. Goodman, Mrs. J. S. Cooper and Miss Maud Cooper.

From W. W. Walker we learn that J. Olsson raised the best piece of wheat that has ever been known in the Chahalem Valley, and probably the best in the Willamette Valley. A six acre field yielded a little over fifty bushels to the acre. If any one can beat it hold up your hand.—Lafayette Times.

Wallace Hontley had his bicycle stolen last Saturday night from the porch of Mr. O. D. Rider's residence, two miles below town. Diligent search was made Sunday for some trace of the stolen property, and late in the evening the bicycle was found hid away in the fence corner of Mr. J. A. Brown's orchard, about three-quarters of a mile south of Mr. Rider's. No clew has been found to the party who committed the theft. It is the opinion of some that Mr. Hontley has been made the victim of a practical joke on the part of some thoughtless person. It is the general opinion, however, that the thief concealed the bicycle for the purpose of gaining time to make way with the property.

Mr. E. T. Henkle received a letter Monday from Corvallis stating that Mr. Lon Henkle's two little girls met with a serious accident while riding in a wagon on their father's farm near Philomath. Prof. Haines, a Philomath school teacher, was driving the wagon across a bridge when the team became frightened and backed the wagon off the bridge into a gulch some twenty feet deep. The professor escaped without serious injury, but the older girl had both arms and one lower limb broken and the younger girl also had one leg broken besides both of them were badly bruised about the face. Mr. Lon Henkle is a brother of G. W. and E. T. Henkle of this city.

Marshal Tupper received a letter Monday from the sheriff of Yamhill county calling attention to the theft of a saddle mare, taken from a hitching post in McMinnville late Saturday afternoon. The animal is described as a light gray, about 14 hands high, weight 800 pounds, slightly crippled in the fore feet, end of tail cut square.

The Statesman describes the O. R. & N. Co's new light draft steamer, Gypsy, as follows: "The little steamer is 100 feet long by 23 feet beam and probably will not draw light more than 10 inches of water. In very ordinary water she will carry 40 tons of freight and 100 tons in good water and will have a capacity for 50 passengers."

Our town is topsy turvy to hear those artistic comedians and perennial song birds the Misses Webling in the dearest bits of acting ever seen in this city. These famous artists will greet the people of Independence and vicinity at the Opera House on Tuesday evening, September 3, under the auspices of the members of the Rebekah Degree.

J. S. S. Powell, the Buena Vista hop-grower, was up Thursday after supplies. He brought samples of this year's crop of hops that explain why the Oregon hop is attaining the highest reputation of any hop in the world.

In 1883 and 1884 Mr. Powell's yard produced a ton per acre, but this year will surpass that yield by several hundred pounds. His yard will be ready for the pickers Sup. 5.—Corvallis Times.

Judge Magers, of McMinnville, has been shooting birds during the close season. Some busybody made complaint to Protector McGuire, and even the distinction of being clothed with the judicial ermine of the mighty commonwealth of "old Yamhill" could not save his honor from the penalty of the law. The judge, when arraigned before the justice, paid his fine, the same as any other man, and going home philosophically laid away his fowling piece until such time as he can hunt the grey grouse and game pheasant without fear of the watchful eye of Protector McGuire being upon him.

Mr. E. T. Henkle received a letter Monday from Corvallis stating that Mr. Lon Henkle's two little girls met with a serious accident while riding in a wagon on their father's farm near Philomath. Prof. Haines, a Philomath school teacher, was driving the wagon across a bridge when the team became frightened and backed the wagon off the bridge into a gulch some twenty feet deep. The professor escaped without serious injury, but the older girl had both arms and one lower limb broken and the younger girl also had one leg broken besides both of them were badly bruised about the face. THE MISSES WEBLING.

The famous Misses Webling will give an interesting dramatic recital at the Opera hall in this city on Tuesday evening, September 3. The program will consist of "Columbia," an original patriotic sketch prepared especially for the Misses Webling and acted by them before delighted audiences in both Europe and America. They will also render numerous Shakesperian selections. "The Dance of Life Roses," a most charming, piquant and unique rendition, has excited the applause of crowded houses and the encomiums of the press on both continents. No one should neglect this rare opportunity to hear these talented entertainers in the art dramatic. Admission 35 and 25 cents.

STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

The State Agricultural College at Corvallis easily ranks among the first educational institutions in the state, indeed, if not or the coast.

The college is located in one of the most enterprising towns of the state, where the natural hygienic conditions are good and which scientific improvements have made almost perfect. Corvallis is a city of churches, therefore the moral and religious surroundings of the college are unexcelled.

The scientific equipment of this institution is the best in the state; 22 instructors; 261 students; 209 graduates; four courses of study—Agriculture, Mechanical, Household Economy, and Bachelor of Science; military training by U. S. officer; society elevating; surroundings healthful; tuition absolutely free; no incidental fee; all expenses including clothing, about $14.10 per month, or $141.00 per school year.

Fall term begins Thursday, September 19, 1895. For further particulars address President Bloss, Corvallis, Oregon.

HOME AGAIN.

Mr. W. E. Cressy and family arrived home Monday afternoon from Southern California, where they have been residing for the past nine months. They came overland by rail and are glad to again be back in Independence. Mr. Cressy says that he has all of Southern California climate that he wants, that it may be conducive to the health of consumptives but is not specially beneficial otherwise. He found the climate quite detrimental to his health, in fact he has been an invalid for several months, having to seek the mountain resorts above Pasadena. Mr. Cressy says that he has lost over twenty pounds in aviorpous since leaving last fall, and, in his opinion, the rain and cool climate of Western Oregon is much better adapted to his physical make-up than the climate of California. He says that he was never better pleased to get back to Oregon, and that our smoke laden atmosphere is more exhilarating than the oxygenless air of the valley country of Southern California.

Mr. Cressy says the financial stringency has effected the business of California equally as much as it has this state; that wages are low and employment hard to find, there being twenty men for every job. Taken altogether Oregon is a better poor man's country than California, there are better opportunities here than there. Land is cheaper, the cost of living is cheaper, there is more social equality and educational facilities are equally as good, besides this country is not yet in the
