Don't delay.

In this line we have them made up in pure white celluloid of the best quality. They are in many beautiful shapes and combine usefulness and beauty. Any person may well be proud to receive one for a present. Very cheap.

Be sure to see them.

Now here is where we are all right. The prices on books have gone down more than any other article we believe. We have some beautiful gift books and some in cheaper binding. All kinds of binding and good selection of authors.

Get your choice early.

Another great decline in these goods. The manufacturers now recognize Photo Albums as a luxury and prices are now lower than ever known. We also have autograph albums and scrap books, a very complete line.

Delay means disappointment.

Are as popular as ever and we have purchased an elegant assortment in new and beautiful design and finish. Sunday and public school teachers will find booklets and cards of all kinds, sizes and prices for their classes.

Avoid the rush holiday week.

This is a line tedious to buy, so come in and get an early chance. We have presents that will delight the children of all ages, sizes and dispositions—steam engines, trains, brownie games, building blocks, toy theaters, musical tops, etc.

Again come early.

We are all right again in this line. We have many kinds of dolls, big dolls, little dolls, pretty dolls, ugly dolls, dolls dressed and undressed, boy dolls and girl dolls, dolls with and without hair, any kind of dolls.

Come late if not early.

Anything we have for Christmas will make a nice tree ornament, but especially for that purpose we have many pretty little ornaments such as glass balls, celluloid balls, candles and tinsel ornaments.

Choose early.

A nice line of bibles and testaments, teachers bibles with and without index, leather and celluloid binding. Another very nice present to a friend would be a year's subscription to some good magazine. We take all subscriptions.

Thanks to all for past patronage.

In addition to the above lines there is many things we can not mention in an ad of this kind. We ask you to give us a call, we have plenty of clerks and would like to show you through.

This week's issue concludes the second volume of the INDEPENDENCE ENTERPRISE. Two years ago this newspaper craft was first launched upon the uncertain sea of Polk county journalism, under anything else than favorable circumstances. The financial conditions of the people of the county were against the probability of its success. Its warmest friends feared for its existence, and its enemies scoffingly predicted that within two short months it would fold its little hands and sleep the quiet sleep that knows no awakening. But the ENTERPRISE lived and it still lives. It is no longer an experiment, it is an established fact, and ranks amongst the first, if not the first of Polk county's newspapers. It has been the persistent aim of its publishers to give the people a new and clean local paper, and the people have appreciated the fact and given the paper a very flattering support. The ENTERPRISE's motto has been "Onward," and it will still persist in carrying this motto inscribed upon its banner. We do not care to make our patrons rash promises, but if their support in the future is as cordial as it is now we can guarantee them a first-class local newspaper.

The Dallas Observer man has been listening to the rumbling of the political thunder on the street corners and out of the babel of voices he learned that "On the republican side, Independence would like to name the clerk, Moomouth the senator, Dallas the county judge and sheriff; Jackson has a candigate for county commissioner and a representative, Dixie would name the assessor, and Buena Vista wants one legislator and McCoy the other." Of course, our contemporary is too cautious a politician to claim that his information has a more substantial basis than the irresponsible talk of country and town folk on the street corners.

A BRIGHT idea, or what she mistook for a bright idea, entered the silly head of a buxom young Port Angeles widow the other day. She had been visiting in Victoria, and wanted to turn a penny to help pay the expenses of her visit. The easiest way to do this, it occurred to her, would be to smuggle in a few pounds of opium on her return home. Of course there was some risk connected with such a venture, but what inquisitive customs officer would think of searching her big balloon sleeves for the clandestine drug? But alas and alack for the unsophisticated young widow! Five cans of the smuggled drug were removed from her flowing sleeves and she was removed from the custom house in a hysterical swoon. The lady is said to belong to one of the "best" families, but she certainly should not be so indiscreet as to do anything to bring the balloon sleeve into disrepute.

PRINTER'S INK, the business man's vade mecum and best friend, a little journal which he should not be without, gives the following sensible advice: "Plain words in your ads and plain dealing in your store will make plain sailing in your business."

Pass Him Around.
Editor Snyder, of the McMinnville Transcript, may be in a perfectly good humor, but in the following article he writes a good deal like we feel when our indignation gets the better of our amiability:

The manager of the Congo Oil Co., named E. Wilson, contracted with us for dates and advertising to the amount of $3, and with a great deal of gusto informed us that he would be here all of this week, would want more printing done and would pay the bill all in a lump. But he knew he was lying all the time. Sometimes between 12 o'clock and morning Sunday he skipped the town with all of his company and his effects say Bud Carberry, and the pianist, who he left with salary due. And Transcript is not the only loser by the thieving escapade. They roomed at Mrs. Rennie's, and the lady is out the bill due her. We are not kicking, but in the best of humor; and all we have to say is that if the Oregon Wonderful Remedy company's medicine is as treacherous as the manager they sent to this place, they may as well cancel all orders at once. LITTLE JOKER.

PERRYDALE.

Correspondence to the ENTERPRISE.

E. C. Keyt is complaining of rheumatism.

H. B. Tingle visited Portland this week on business.

J. H. Butler and family, of Ballston, visited friends in town Sunday.

Charley Myer has finished his work for Wise & Keyt and returned home.

About all the old iron has been gathered up on the road as far as this place.

D. L. Keyt is treating the roof of his house to a coat of paint. J. H. Ware is doing the work.

The farmers in this vicinity are busy putting in grain. The ground is said to work quite well.

Willie Keyt, who is attending school at Mounmouth, visited his parents Saturday and Sunday.

Mattie Howe returned home from the Sisters' school at Salem this week, and entered school here.

Two of our business men settled their differences with their lists Friday. Too much talk caused the trouble.

Last Friday while Mr. and Mrs. Enes were making apple butter the latter's apron caught fire and in their efforts to put it out both had their hands severely burned.

Some children set fire to some straw piled against Mr. Enes' woodshed last Saturday and but for prompt action on the part of D. L. Keyt and J. H. Ware their house would have been burned. Allowing children to play with matches is dangerous business. Old Hickory.

An Important Office.

To properly fill its office functions, it is important that blood be pure. When it is in a condition, the body is almost certain to be healthy. A complaint at this time is catarrh in some of its various forms. A slight develops the disease in some of its droppings of corruption passing to the lungs bring on consumption. The only way to cure this disease is to purify the blood. The obstinate cases of catarrh yield the medical powers of Hood's Sarsaparill as if by magic, simply cause it reaches the seat of the case, and by purifying and vitalizing the blood, removes the cause. Not only does Hood's Sarsaparill do this but it gives renewed vigor to the whole system, making possible for good health to be supreme.
