 We were shown this week a number of old photographs owned by J. A. Mills' mother. They contained on the back revenue stamps that had been used many years ago. The photograph on the stamp is the likeness of George Washington, and the stamp is the same size as the red postage stamp now used. The revenue stamp used then is different from the one used during this year, both in shape and also that each stamp had printed on its face for what it should be used; if a stamp was for a bank check it had printed just below the picture on the stamp "bank check." Mr. Mills also informs us that during the use of these stamps, which was about 1866, that photographs also had to have a revenue stamp attached thereto.

 C STREET,
 INDEPENDENCE, OREGON.

Mrs. S. H. Allport, Johnstown, Pa., says: "Our little girl almost strangled to death with croup. The doctors said she couldn't live, but she was instantly relieved by One Minute Cough Cure. A. S. Locke."

Mr. J. H. Patterson, living south of town, was taking a horse to the field when passing under a tree he was in some manner thrown to the ground, how, even he is unable to explain. He was found unconscious a while later. No permanent injury is anticipated.

George Wilson Hurt.
 While feeding a hay baler on the John Byers place below town on Monday evening just at quitting time, Mr. Wilson was pushing the hay into the baler with his foot, which has become a very careless habit among feeders. He was removing his foot, when the foot he was standing on slipped and he fell into the baler and his leg was caught just below the knee. He yelled for the driver to stop the team, but the horses hearing the loud yell started up and before they could be stopped his leg was badly mangled. He was taken to his home in West Independence, where he is now under the care of Dr. E. L. Ketchum. It is not known whether the leg can be saved or not.
 Mr. Wilson is a member of the Odd Fellows lodge here, but owing to some carelessness has allowed his dues to run behind, so he is really entitled to no benefit at the hands of the order. But as usual, the lodge is willing to do all it can for a needy member.

In cases of cough or croup give the little one One Minute Cough Cure. Then rest easy and have no fear. The child will be all right in a little while. It never fails. Pleasant to take, always safe, sure and almost instantaneous in effect. A. S. Locke.
