

A Kind Word From Eugene.

Parker Special.

Mrs. P. A. Bradley, a former resident of Parker, writes that they are well pleased with their new home in Eugene. William Jr. is working with the contractors and builders, Williams & Leonadr, who are doing considerable carpenter work in Eugene this spring. Mrs. Bradley says the town is on the boom and the number of new buildings under construction has added greatly to the improvement of the town and enhanced the value of real estate, and that they could readily dispose of their property for several hundred dollars profit, but they are well satisfied and have no inclination to sell. Mrs. Bradley also says: "We miss our newsy home paper, the ENTERPRISE. We have noticed great improvement in the sample copies we have received lately. We will shortly pay a visit to old Polk and send in our subscription to the ENTERPRISE."

It is Significant.

In many of the most progressive magazines of the present day are pages devoted to illustrations of artistic homes and there are columns of matter setting forth facts and fancies relative to the building of "the home beautiful." The fact is significant and worthy of consideration.

Time was when the front door yard of many homes was utilized as the kitchen garden, cabbages, onions and garlic flourished near the front gate and pigs, turkeys and geese roamed at will in the yard just outside.

Children reared in such homes could hardly be expected to feel the same reverence for the parental roof as did those young folks whose surroundings were more refined and homelike and a partial realization of this fact led to reform. The onions and garlic have mostly been relegated to the back garden and flowers are seen in the front yard but there is still room for improvement everywhere.

In all natures there lurks a love for the beautiful. Like all other characteristics this tract is more pronounced in some individuals than in others, but all possess it to some extent. It is a taste that should be encouraged and cultivated for it leads to higher ideas and ideals and tends finally towards a more cultured and refined civilization.

The "home beautiful" movement is worthy of attention and should interest one and all. You may not be able to do much towards beautifying your home or your immediate surroundings, but you can do something.

Clean up about the ranch let flowers supplant weeds in the door yard, let fences be kept in order buildings touched up with a little paint, old sheds torn down or rebuilt into usefulness, worthless machinery put away, hedges trimmed, chickens and stock kept at a reasonable distance from the house lot, trash hauled away and burnt and a thousand other odd jobs looked after, to the end that the home place may be neat, tidy and pleasant.

Every city, town and hamlet should encourage the "home beautiful" idea, for it means the making of homes that are home like, cheerful and attractive to old and young, homes that are a delight to those who dwell in them and one which the stranger with in our gates shall gaze with untiring eyes.

It means another step along the line of progress and another allure-ment for the home seeker who shall visit our locality and it means finally that as brown locks turn to silver and as sparkling eyes grow dim with the fading light of years, our children shall gaze back in memory and declare that no place on earth was ever so delightful as the abode of their childhood. Is the "home beautiful" idea not worth thinking about?

Buena Vista School

As the warm days of spring time come again there is in the Buena school room the usual inertia and disposition toward idleness that characterizes every school at this season of the year.

Notwithstanding this fact, there is an enrollment of 38. Prof. B. L. Murphy is the efficient principal, Mrs. Murphy being again in charge of the primary department since the resignation last week of Miss Catharine Coon. The Buena school closes this year May 29th, and there will be the usual commencement exercises, notice of which will appear later.

Mrs. Mattney, who lives near Presbyterian church, is very ill.

In "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

The Anaconda Standard of Tuesday, February 3, 1903, endorses the play: "Edson's 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' Company presented that old-time drama at the Margaret theatre last evening. The play was well rendered by a capable company. There are several members worthy of special mention. Little Olga Steek as Eva was at home and easily carried off the honors. She has a beautiful voice. Lulu Sutton as the chief Topsy proved herself to be an actress of ability. Mr. Edson as Legree is an actor of merit. W. S. Le-cempt plays Uncle Tom very accept-ably. In fact the whole cast is above the average for Uncle Tom shows. The scenery and effects were good and added much to the good performance." This company appears at Independence April 29 for two nights.

Parker Going Ahead.

Parker Special.

We cannot fail to notice that Parker has "gone away back" and taken a back seat in the row of aspirants for premiums in the present contest. But we are not at all discouraged by the outlook, and should we be entirely crowded out when the hand shaking time and presentation of premiums occurs we shall still feel duly recompensed for the time we have spent in working for the benefit of the ENTERPRISE. We realized the hopelessness of our case when it was first presented and entered the contest wholly without hopes of winning a prize. Our limited territory certainly offers no great inducement to the prospective prize winner. But we should not expect to be remunerated in dollars and cents for every little duty we perform, and, therefore, we are not discouraged by the height of the ladder of which we have mounted
