Buena Vista's New School House.

A meeting that may eventually mean much to the town of Buena Vista and to the adjacent country, was held in Buena a week ago. At this time the scheme of building a new school house was thoroughly discussed, and a vote taken to decide the question of whether it were best to repair the old building or erect a new one. The vote stood: five for repairing, and fourteen for rebuilding.

Another meeting is to be held Monday, when ideas will be advanced by those in authority, and plans perfected regarding the sort of building to be erected, and the probable cost; and other matters will be disposed of. Bids will then be advertised for, and the proposition brought into tangible form.

The idea at present prevailing among school patrons, is to erect a neat, two-room building, one story high.
