Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me." Biblical Proof of Men Before Adam.

Rev. F. A. Duffy, of New York.

That Adam was not the first man is evidenced by science, history and scripture. On Cain's expulsion from Eden his great fear was that he should be put to death for the murder of his brother. If there were no men on earth, who could slay him? The country Nod, whither he migrated, was inhabited. In Cain's exile we read he was accompanied by a wife. She could not be his sister, for Adam had no daughters till after the birth of Seth. Nor could she be Seth's daughter, for Cain was married before Seth was born. Before the birth of his first born, Enoch, Cain began to build a city. Who helped him to build if there were no other man on earth?

But there were several races of men existing at that particular time on the earth. In Gen. xxi, 1-4, we have five races mentioned. The Nephilim were one of these. They were remarkable for their great stature—"giants". They existed before and after the flood, a proof that the deluge was of limited extent. A branch of this race was the Rephaim—Og, king of Bashan, and Gath were Nephilites. A peculiarity of the Rephaim was that they had six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot. The Gihonim are also mentioned in Gen. vi, 4. We also read of the Beni Elohim—"sons of Elohim." The Elohimities are subsequently mentioned in several passages. They were in the garden of Eden before Adam was. There they had charge of "the tree of knowledge," and, judging from subsequent uses of the word, they exercised judicial functions. "And the Lord God formed Adam of the dust of the ground" (Gen. ii, 7.) The word, translated "dust" is apher. Apher cannot possibly mean comminuted particles of earth, because Adam was not made of such particles. The primary meaning of apher is the metal lead. Natural objects and colors have been used in all ages as designations of men. We ourselves speak of the copper colored race. Similarly a variety of species of men was designated as the "laden colored race," or Apherites Adam belonged. "God said: Let us make Adam into our image," a proof of his modification or evolution.

We find in different orders of animal life mentioned by Moses an ascending series which culminates in Adam's formation. This is in thorough harmony with geological and biological facts. The ascending series of Genesis is arranged under seven distinct appellations. They are: 1. Sheritz; 2. Oph; 3. Tanilm; 4. Behemah; 5. Remes; 6. Keyeth; 7. Adam. The English translation, following precedent runs counter to science and to Moses by rendering Keyeth by "beasts." Two instances will suffice to show the absurdity of such a translation. "Adam called his wife's name Eve." The Hebrew for Eve is Kavvah, which is but another form of Kayyah. Thus, to follow the English translation, we should render it, "And Adam called his wife's name—beast!" Second, Kayeth is applied, to God to express his continued or eternal existence. How wrong, then, to translate the word by "beast." Kayeth were men of an inferior race to Adam. The Kayeth are associated with the Adamites of flood in the rule and moral government of the world.

are today quite as good, if not better, than ever. Law has always been the nearest gateway for political position, and, until recent years, for social distinction. So much was that the case that De Tocqueville, writing nearly seventy-five years ago, and contending that an aristocracy was necessary to the welfare of even popular government, agreed that the United States was no exception to the rule, for there, he said, the bar took the place of that balanced, conservative body which in other countries existed by virtue of heredity. How much of that situation remains true today is a matter for question, but the seeker after a life calling will see every page of his country's history studded with the names of great lawyers. So, if ambition for public influence and station be the searcher's motor, the law is the best suited for him. He needs for capital at the start only a month's rent and a copy of the statutes.

The successful lawyer must have as excess baggage ease of expression and an indefinable adaptability for throwing one's self wholly into the concerns of another. But, most of all, he must in these latter days possess business ability. The most successful lawyer is he who is of greatest assistance to the business man. The reign of eloquence is passing, it not altogether gone. Juries yawn before fiery oratory, and the upper courts now reverse cases because of it. Time was when the boy at school who declaimed loudest, "At midnight in his guarded tent, etc." was then and there dedicated by his hearers, because of that fact, to the service of the blind goddess. In these days he would better know double entry bookkeeping. There is still room at the top, but it is a weary climb, and the struggling crowd about the base grows larger every year. There are ten years of waiting for a practice before the most promising neophyte.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer On Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

For a lazy liver try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They invigorate the liver, aid the digestion, regulate the bowels and prevent bilious attacks. For sale by Kirkland Drug Co.
