SEÑORITAS.

Traditions and Habits of the Young Women of Mexico.

The señorita is a word with which to conjure in Spanish speaking lands, and the Mexican señorita is not inferior in charms to her Spanish sister. In fact, most of the upper class of Mexico is distinctly Spanish in appearance and bearing. Often, however, there is a slight mixture of Indian blood in the "white race" of Mexico, which very rarely detracts from the charm of the señorita.

Señorita signifies in Spanish a young unmarried lady.

In the past the ideas of Mexico with respect to women, and especially young unmarried ladies, have been more Moorish than anything else, and these ideas prevail still to a great extent. Therefore the habits of Mexican women are very different from those of women in the United States or England. On account of excluding women of all ages as much as possible from appearing alone in the public streets and of more or less isolating them within their own family, there grew up in Spain and in Mexico among the middle and upper classes the custom of allowing women to make use of the windows of the houses facing on the street for observation stations. This was a long step in the advancement of women from the intolerant ideas of the Moors.

In Mexico in the cool of the evening the windows of all the houses are opened along the streets, and hundreds of ladies, principally the young ones, appear there to view the carriages that pass by and to nod to their friends and thus keep in touch with a world into which they are not likely to come in much closer contact, for the young men, or old for that matter, do not make a habit of visiting the families of their friends, and young men have to do their courting from outside the house. Most of the houses in Mexico were but a short time ago provided with windows heavily barred with iron. Through these the lovers saw one another. And, although many of the modern houses are without these bars to the windows, the custom of making love from the window is still preserved. A young girl in Mexico could not commit a greater crime against social usage than to appear on the street alone with a man not of her own family. She understands this, and so she is careful not to go out of the house to see her lover, even though the windows have no bars.—Modern Mexico.

The Home Nest.

"Papa," asked his youngest, "what do you call these little places in your desk?"

"Pigeonholes."

"What's the reason you call 'em pigeonholes?"

"Because, puss," replied the literary person, with a dreamy, far-away look, "that's what they are—for homing pigeons, you know—little fliers in literature, as it were, that have come back to me."

But how was she to be expected to understand that?—Chicago Tribune.

No Clash in Creeds.

A Melvin man proposed marriage to one of the belles of that city the other day. Before accepting she said: "George, I love you and would not deceive you in anything for the world. So I will tell you beforehand that I am a somnambulist." George looked puzzled for awhile, then remarked: "Well, that will be all right. I'll go with you to your church and you can go with me to mine."—Roberts (Ill.) Herald.

Not Uncommon.

"I heard you were at the matinee yesterday," said the friend in the evening.

"You think of the play?"

"Oh, I liked everything but the ending."

"What was the matter with it?"

"Nothing that I know of. The people in front of me were putting on their things, and all I could see were elbows and hats."—Detroit Free Press.

Mistaken.

"Sir," exclaimed the injured party, "you stuck your umbrella into my eye!" "Oh, no," replied the cheerful offender, "you are mistaken." "Mistaken!" demanded the irate man. "You idiot, I know when my eye is hurt, I guess." "Doubtless," replied the cheerful fellow, "but you don't know my umbrella. I borrowed this one from a friend today."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Try for Health

222 South Peoria St., CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 7, 1902.

Eight months ago I was so ill that I was compelled to lie or sit down nearly all the time. My stomach was so weak and upset that I could keep nothing on it and I vomited frequently. I could not urinate without great pain and I coughed so much that my throat and lungs were raw and sore. The doctors pronounced it Bright's disease and others said it was consumption. It mattered little to me what they called it and I had no desire to live. A sister visited me from St. Louis and asked me if I had ever tried Wine of Cardui. I told her I had not and she bought a bottle. I believe that it saved my life. I believe many women could save much suffering if they but knew of its value.

Wine of Cardui
