OBITUARY

Miss Essie Edna Simpson, daughter of R. H. and Mrs. Simpson was born in Lewisville, Polk county, Oregon, May 12, 1882; died in Monmouth, Oregon, August 22, 1904, aged 22 years, 2 months and 22 days. She had been lingering between life and death for many weeks. Although her death was hourly expected for many days when the final end came it was a shock to the entire community. Mr. and Mrs. Simpson are leaving more than their share of sorrow. A little less than three months ago they lost their oldest son, a bright and promising young man, and now their only daughter has come from them. Miss Essie was a sweet, pure girl, loved by all who knew her and her untimely death is mourned by the entire community. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Brown at the Christian church. Six young ladies, dressed in white acted as pall bearers while a quartet composed of Mesdames Powell and Conkey and Messrs. Powell and Lucas rendered some very beautiful hymns. A large concourse of people followed the remains to the Odd Fellows' cemetery near Independence where they were laid to rest beside the remains of her brother.

George Gwin, who had been sick for many years, passed away at the home of his mother in Monmouth on August 3rd, aged 37 years and 2 days. Mr. Gwin had been a sufferer for more than ten years from the effects of a sunstroke. He had been in the hospital for a number of years but was brought to his home last spring as it was thought that he could live a very few days at most, but he seemed to rally and was apparently on the road to recovery when a relapse followed and the final end came on the 3rd of August. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Brown at the home. The body was interred in the cemetery south of town.

Mr. W. Turner, of Trubart, Va., says that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have done him more good than anything he could get from the doctor. If any physician in this country was able to compound a medicine that would produce such gratifying results in cases of stomach troubles, biliousness and constipation, his whole time would be used in preparing this one medicine. For sale by all druggists.
