Mrs. Job N. Arnold of Toledo has demonstrated conclusively that lemons can be grown and ripened in Lincoln county says the Reporter. She has in her possession a sample of the fruit taken from a tree at her home here, last Saturday, which is one-half pound in weight and nine inches in circumference and thoroughly ripened.

The utter lack of demand for young men in important business positions who are to any extent given to the liquor habit, is doing more and doing it faster, to lessen drunkenness and discredit its devotees, than all the attempted enforced prohibition ever undertaken. Notwithstanding Salem's numerous saloons, it is very seldom a drunk man is seen, especially a drunk young man. Such an unfortunate has no chance to become a part of the important business world of today.—Statesman.

Capt. A. Fay, master of the steamer Toledo, trading into Yaquina Bay, is meeting with much encouragement in his attempt to establish closer business relations between this valley and Coos Bay points. He passed through the city last week, spent some time in Albany, and left on Monday for Portland. He expects to establish a regular line of steamers between Yaquina and the Southern Oregon Coast in the course of a few months. This is an enterprise that should be heartily encouraged by our people.—Corvallis Gazette.

Dr. G. L. Tufts, superintendent of the State Anti-Saloon League, in a speech at Pendleton Wednesday night, said the counties which the league expected to carry for the abolition of saloons are Tillamook, Benton, Polk, Yamhill, Lane, Douglas, Crook, Wallowa, Morrow, Malheur, Wasco, and Linn. He said an election would be called for in each of these counties and if prohibition did not carry in the counties as a whole it would be enforced in precincts giving a majority for prohibition. Mr. Tufts made speeches in this county last spring.

Peter Shafer exhibits an ear of corn grown on his Highland place that is almost perfectly developed. It is of the stock feeding variety, the seed of which was brought from Nebraska by George Shafer last spring. It is of dark red color and the well filled grains on a cob a foot long evidences the fact that it is a specie adapted to Oregon soil and climate.
