"Many a load of hops is equal in value to a $500 bill," says a Portland paper. And the statment convicts the writer of total ignorance of hops. A set of four Alaskan dogs could drawa $500 load of hops at present prices. A man driving a two-horse team through Independence with only $500 worth of hops would be a subject of derision. A load equal in value to $1000 is a light one indeed. For the past three weeks there has been a procession of teams moving in the direction of the Southern Pacific warehouse here with hops. A team draws from 20 to 30, sometimes 35 bales The bales average in the neigh borhood of 200 pounds. At 30 cents, a bale is equal in value to $60; a load of 20 bales, to $1200; a load of 25 bales, $1500; a load of 30 bales, $1800, and 35 bales,

The American farmer is the greatest mas in the world to day because he is master of the soil—he is gaining in intelligence quite as rapidly as his products are increasing is magnitude. Our recent combines of capital in United States measured in money an enormous, yet such figures sink into insignificance when compared to the mosey brain and brawn invested in agricultum industries. For instance, the farmers of Minnesota and Dakota have received figures occo, coo for their products in a single yra. The farmer knows what Nature will bray forth for him from his experience in the past. He knows if certain seeds an planted and properly cared for that Nature will take care of the rest.
