TARIFF REVISION.

The Salem Journal discovers the following weakness in its contemporary, the Statesman:

The criticisms of the Salem Statesman on the nomination of Governor Cummins for another term are manifestations of a weakness of certain elements of the Republican party. That element gets cold chills, and is thrown into much fear and trembling when anyone inside the party proposes to do anything in the direction of reform.

That diseased portion of the Republican party which predeceates the party's existence upon graft rather than upon fearless performance of duty, is especially sensitive upon tariff revision. Governor Cummins of Iowa has been a consistent advocate of tariff revision from the agricultural standpoint, and his nomination means that a time shall be set when the present tariff shall be overhauled. Tariff revision is always an issue among intelligent Republicans. The only room for difference is when it shall be undertaken.

One Republican tariff revision succeeds another, and that is proper. Iowa is a great, prosperous and intensely Republican commonwealth. The voters there had a long time to deliberate whether the time is ripe for tariff revision, and have decided that it is. Why should a Republican paper in Oregon, where the party has not been able to elect a Republican governor in two elections, say to the Republican party of Iowa, you have gone wrong? It is a manifestation of a diseased political condition, rather than criticism of Governor Cummins and the Republican platform of Iowa, that calls down the possibility of defeat on a party of progress. The time may not have come for tariff revision.

In Oregon there is not much demand for revising the tariff. But when it is revised it will be for the country if the work is done by progressive men. The warfare of President Roosevelt and the progressive leaders of the Republican party in curbing the trusts may not be appreciated by the people, but there are no signs so far that such is the case. The National Republican party committee prefers to rest its case on the aggressive performances of Roosevelt and the leaders of the Cummins type, to parading the stand-pat theories of Mark Hanna, et al. But the Statesman's attacks on Iowa Republicans are so as before said manifestations rather than earnest and honest efforts at criticism.

Neither peek-a-boo waits, elbow sleeves nor parading the beach will bring a more honorable nor genuine tan than that which comes to Polk county ladies in the harvest field.

Eight more days and then the circus.

The uninterrupted sunshine in the valley is the probable reason farmers have been making so much hay.

There are two unsettled questions. One is as to whether or not Free Silver is dead? The other, is Holy Rollerism dead?

The Dalles Optimist remarks that in the conviction of the editor of the Southern Oregonian for land fraud, the newspaper fraternity only lost a Nickel.

The much-advertised clam bake scheduled for Newport last Sunday did not materialize. The citizens there failed to come across with the necessary number of simoleons to meet the expense.

"Everything is dry and so many are out of town." The foregoing is from a McMinnville paper, and while it refers especially to danger of fires getting started, it is suggestive along another line.

Too Much for Him

The proprietor of a tanyard built a stand on one of the main streets of a Virginia town for the purpose of selling leather and buying new hides.

When he had completed the building he considered for a long time what sort of sign to put up to attract attention to the new establishment. Finally a happy thought struck him. He bored an auger hole through the doorpost and stuck a calf's tail into it with the tufted end outside.

After a while he saw a solemn-faced man standing near the door looking at the sign, his eyes in a round, meditative stare behind his spectacles. The tanner watched him a minute, then stepped out and addressed him.

"Good morning, sir," he said.

"Morning," said the other without taking his eyes off the sign.

"Want to buy leather?" asked the tanner.

"No."

"Got any hides to sell?"

"No."

"Are you a farmer?"

"No."

"Merchant?"

"No."

"Lawyer."

"No."

"Doctor?"

"No."

"What are you, then?"

"I'm a philosopher. I've been standing here for an hour trying to figure how that calf got through that auger hole."—Chicago News.

Oregon Greatest Lumber State

The forests of the upper Mississippi valley, of the Great Lakes region and of the Southern states have furnished lumber for generations to the treeless prairies of the West and the denuded lands of the East. But the saw is cutting deep into the last of the tall timber of the North and more and more sunlight is being let in upon the Southland. Prices for northern white pine and southern yellow pine have risen in the last few years by leaps and bounds. The lumber dealer of the East has turned his eyes to a new source of supply. As a result, Portland, Oregon, in the center of the Great American Forest, has become the greatest lumber city in the union, far outstripping Minneapolis and Portland is but at the threshold of its great industry. Oregon is the greatest lumber state in the union. During the next generation, and so far as one may judge, for all time, Portland is to hold its supremacy as the largest sawmill city. The national hunger for lumber grows year by year, and Portland commands the gate to the forest.

THE GAME OF CHESS.

It is Probably the Oldest Pastime Known to Man.

The oldest game known to man is chess. The origin of this game, or mimic battle, as Goldsmith called it in his translation of Vida, dates back to 3000 B. C. It is rich in legendary anecdotes, and its venerable nomenclature has been transmitted through all changes in language from the earliest tongues of the Indo-European to the latest.

A peculiar thing about chess, with its combination of idle amusement and extreme mental toil, is that it is the only game sanctioned by priesthoods of all beliefs. The principal piece in the game derives its name, king, from the Persian shah, or ruler.

Many men whose names have gone down to posterity, such as Charlemagne, Tamerlane, Frederick the Great, Charles XII., Voltaire, Rousseau and Ben Franklin, have been devotees and students of the game.

Chess is Asiatic in origin, and originally more attention was paid to it by Asiatic students and philosophers than by men of western countries. Of late years, however, its popularity has greatly increased among western nations, and national chess tournaments are now held by experts from nearly all countries.

The history of chess may be divided into three periods—the age of the primeval Indian game, extending from its origin down to the sixth century A. D.; the age of the mediæval chess, from the sixth century to the sixteenth century, and the age of the modern chess, from the last of the sixteenth century to the present day. Of course many changes in the method of play took place in the course of development of the game, and as it is played now it is different from the game the ancients knew.

Chess has been played in nearly every country. Chessboards have been found among the ruins at Pompeii, and in the Roman Forum one may still see the outline of a check-board roughly scratched on the stone walk by some senatorial page of Caesar's time. In the orient both games have been played from time immemorial.

Queer Decorations.

Many Japanese women gild their teeth. Women of Arabia stain their fingers and toes red. In Greenland women paint their faces blue and yellow. In India the women of three high castes paint their teeth black. A Hindoo bride is anointed from head to foot with grease and saffron. Borneo women dye the hair in fantastic colors—pink, green, blue and scarlet. In New Holland scars made carefully with shells form elaborate patterns on the women's faces. In some South American tribes the women draw the front teeth, esteeming as an ornament the black gap thus made.

THE BEAUTIFUL! THE FERTILE! —THE RICH VALLEY OF THE— WILLAMETTE

presents more opportunities for the home-maker, or for the investor than any country under the sun. Development is rapid and the increasing value of city, town and country property will make any man rich who has the foresight to plant his dollars in real estate. Being free from extreme heat or cold makes this wonderful valley an ideal place of residence. Dairying, fruit-raising, stock-raising, hop-raising, grain-raising, the poultry business and many other avenues that are open for the money-maker makes it possible for the Willamette Valley to support in thrift a population ten times as great as at present. Below we give a partial list of the many bargains in town and country property to be had at this time:

100 Acres $5,000 No. 1—A choice farm of 100 acres 3 1/2 miles from Independence. All in cultivation; good improvements; price $500. Two separate companies are now ready to begin the building of electric car lines from Portland into the valley, thus creating competition and the lowering of both passenger and freight rates, which will still further strengthen confidence and create a greater demand for rural property. Every town in the valley near the Willamette river will eventually become a thriving manufacturing center, as all the essentials are here—the raw material and adequate transportation facilities. Better invest now.

Another Good Man Gone Wrong

He neglected to take Foley's Kidney Cure at the first signs of kidney trouble hoping it would wear away and he was soon a victim of Bright's disease. There is danger in delay, but if Foley's Kidney Cure is taken at once the symptoms will disappear, the kidneys are strengthened and you are soon sound and well. A. R. Bass of Morgantown Ind., had to get up ten or twelve times in the night and had a severe pain in the kidneys and was cured by Foley's Kidney Cure. Sold by D. G. Dove, druggist.

Given Up To Die

B. Spiegel, 1204 N. Virginia St., Evansville, Ind., writes: "For over five years I was troubled with kidney and bladder affections which caused me much pain and worry. I lost flesh and was all run down and a year ago had to abandon work entirely. I had three of the best physicians who did me no good and I was practically given up to die. Foley Kidney Cure was recommended and the first bottle gave me great relief and after taking the second bottle I was entirely cured." Sold by D. G. Dove, druggist.

Unnecessary Expense

Acute attacks of colic, diarrhoea and dysentery come on without warning and prompt relief must be obtained. There is no necessity of incurring the expense of a physician's service in such cases if Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is at hand. A dose of this remedy will relieve the patient before a doctor could arrive. It has never been known to fail, even in the most severe and dangerous cases and no family should be without it. For sale by P. M. Kirkland, the Druggist.

DOVE'S DRUG STORE

Value Received in Prescriptions

A prescription may be poor in two ways. It may be put up all right, but the drugs and chemicals used may be stale, or "off standard." Or the ingredients may be exactly right, and yet the full effects be nullified because it is poorly compounded, or put up carelessly. In such case, no matter how low the charge, you don't get value received, which is the essential part of the transaction. When sickness comes, consider well the reputation of the druggist to whom you take your prescription. One thing we perhaps need not add, if you bring it to us you are sure to get value received every time.
