TELLS HER STORY

Mrs. Carey M. Snyder Finally Confesses and Implicates Dead Husband

Many Daring Plots Hatched But All Fall to Materialize Except the Forest Grove Bank Robbery

The true facts in regard to the Forest Grove bank robbery and the murder of Carey M. Snyder are beginning to come to light. Mrs. Snyder has made a full statement bearing upon the case which will greatly facilitate the efforts of the officers in bringing the remaining participants to justice can they be secured and brought to trial.

In her statement Mrs. Snyder implicates her dead husband and tells of brutality toward her by her husband because she would not be come an accessory to the conspiracy to murder and rob connected by him and his associates. She told the Washington county officials of the plan of her husband and George Perry to hold up the box office of the Helig theatre in Portland and also of robbing Dan Marx's jewelry store after murdering the clerk. She related how the bloody plot failed and then told of the decision eventually reached to rob the Forest Grove bank and divulged where dynamite, caps and fuse had been buried near the house in which she and her husband lived. Associated with her husband, she said, were George Perry and a man named Rogers. The plots of which she told were overheard by her as she lay hidden behind a hay mow in the barn where her husband and his companions met to do their plotting.

Deputy District Attorney Tongue of Hillsboro, says that the state is not yet in possession of evidence sufficient to justify an arrest, however it is known that as a result of Mrs. Snyder's confession officers are quietly searching for George Perry and the man Rogers who are implicated by the confession.

Mrs. Snyder, while she has only reached the age of twenty-three, is having her share in life's tragedies. Her first husband was killed by her own brother. Her brother-in-law, a younger brother of Carey M. Snyder, her second husband, was killed in a street car accident in the fall of 1905. Her second husband, whom she met in jail while visiting her brother, was murdered near Glencoe, Oregon, December 4, 1905. The latest tragedy in her life was the receipt of the news of the death of her father-in-law, R. M. Snyder, who was killed last Saturday in an automobile accident at Kansas City.

An Old Settler Has Passed Away

Polk county has lost another of its old settlers. William McTurner of Airlie, having died at his home two miles north of Airlie, Thursday evening, October 25.

Mr. McTurner was a native of Missouri and at the time of his death had passed beyond the traditional three score years and ten, he having reached the ripe old age of 70 years, 11 months and 6 days. He had lived on the Pacific coast for many years and has resided in Polk county near Airlie for more than thirty years where he owned at the time of his death a large farm in the Luckiamute valley.

Mr. McTurner's death was a result of paralysis. About two weeks ago he was out attending to his usual duties on the farm and upon re-entering the house sustained an attack of partial paralysis. In spite of the best medical attention he gradually grew worse until his death on Thursday afternoon last.

The deceased leaves a wife and six sons and one daughter, all of whom are grown and reside within a short distance of the old home. Deceased was a member of the Methodist church and he was regarded by his friends and neighbors as a good citizen.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday at 10 A. M. and burial made in Smith's cemetery immediately afterward.

Independence Girl Weds At Vancouver.

Doubtless the news of the marriage of Miss Mabel Cressy will come as a surprise to her many friends in Independence and all over this section of Polk county.

The happy event occurred on last Saturday, October 27, at the home of a friend at Vancouver, Washington. Mr. J. W. Corser of Sunrise, Alaska, is the lucky man. Rev. McKenzie of the Presbyterian church of Vancouver, officiated at the ceremony making Mr. Corser and Miss Cressy man and wife. The happy couple remained in Portland over Sunday and with a few friends participated in a dinner Sunday evening at the Oregon. They returned to Independence Monday morning and ever since have been receiving the congratulations of their friends.

Mr. Corser recently returned from Sunrise, Alaska, where he owns some promising mining locations and is now looking forward to their full development. Miss Cressy was born and reared in Independence, all her life having been spent in this locality where she has a host of friends who along with the West Side Enterprise will extend their congratulations. She has assisted on this paper in times past in various capacities and has done her work well.

The newly married couple will take up their permanent residence in Dallas, where the groom a few days ago purchased the Cottage hotel furnishings and lease which he will conduct in the future. The people of Independence will be sorry to lose Miss Cressy, now Mrs. Corser, as a resident but will be glad to know that her future home is not far distant.

Laid To Rest.

The funeral services of Henry D. Waller, whose death was announced in the last issue of the West Side Enterprise, was held at the Christian church in this city on Saturday. Rev. Wigmore, a former pastor of the church and a well known minister throughout this vicinity conducted the funeral services. Following the services the remains were laid to rest in the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Miss Clara Ireland is teaching school in Kahlotus, Washington. C. C. Coverdale has sold his property on D St. to W. F. Campbell.

Miss Goldman of Portland is the guest at the home of Mrs. A. Gross in this city.

Harvey Copeland left Monday for Portland where he will join his brother. From there they will go to California.

R. H. Kaltz, the piano tuner, will be in Independence the middle of the week. Leave orders at the Little Palace Hotel.

Newt Jones and Layton Smith returned Saturday from their trip in the mountains, they brought back with them a little two year old deer.

ANNUAL REPORT

Dairy Commissioner Says Increase in Value Will Be $2,250,000 in A Year

Large and Increasing Market For Oregon Dairy Products at Higher Prices than Elsewhere

The annual report of J. W. Bailey, state dairy and food commissioner, will show that Oregon's dairy products for 1905 increased in value more than $2,250,000 over the dairy products of the previous year. Instead of importing butter from Nebraska, Oregon is now shipping butter to the eastern states.

There are now 287 creameries in Oregon, making 6,750,000 pounds of butter annually. The product last year was valued at upwards of $1,700,000, an increase of nearly 40 per cent over the value of the previous year's product. A milk condensing industry has sprung up in addition that is turning out a $75,000 product annually. Cheese is being manufactured at 124 cheese factories throughout western Oregon. Tillamook and Coos counties are the principal fields for cheese makers. There were 4,000,000 pounds turned out last year, valued at 11 cents per pound and netting the producers about $440,000.

Commissioner Bailey expresses the opinion that the total value of the dairy product of Oregon for 1905 will reach nearly $10,000,000. He said the Oregon dairyman gets an average of 4 or 5 cents a pound more for his butter than is secured by the Illinois dairyman. Reasons for this difference in favor of Oregon are not difficult to assign. It is known that the heavy demand from the shipping interests of the port consumes a large amount of butter. The coastwise and Alaska trade buys butter. There is a constantly increasing demand from the towns and cities, which are growing faster than the rural districts are developing. The large majority of new people here settled in the towns, while but comparatively few enter the butter producing industry. The result is a constantly pressing need for more butter than is being produced in Oregon, and the higher price here is obtained because of the time and money required to bring the eastern product by rail to the Oregon market.

Why Not Independence?

Peter Kurre was around town the latter part of last week securing subscriptions to the fund being raised by the Polk County Horticultural Society to defray the expenses of the apple show the latter part of this week at Dallas. Mr. Kurre was successful in securing a considerable amount in this section of the county. Subscriptions were made by many regardless of whether they were directly interested in fruit growing or not, those doing so knowing it to be a move in the right direction and toward the further growth and development of the fruit industry in this section.

Mr. Kurre is a prominent member of the Polk County Horticulture Society and is a member of the committee appointed to solicit funds to apply toward the expense account. He stated that he expected to bring the subject of having the apple show at Independence next year before the county society. He should be encouraged in this matter and doubtless will be. Independence is situated so as to be accessible to all portions of the county and the West Side Enterprise believes that the citizens of this city would entertain the Polk County Horticulture Society in a way that would always be a pleasant memory to the members thereof.
