

West Side Enterprise

Issued by the Enterprise Publishing Co.

CHARLES EDWARD HUGHES

In the issue of the Enterprise published on March 3d, there was printed an attack on the Oregonian and its great editor, Harvey W. Scott, to which my attention was some time later called. I do not feel that its reprinting is essential, for anyone who is interested may look up that copy, but I do feel obliged to make an apology to the Oregonian and to Mr. Scott for the appearance of such an attack and I do so now at this time with the deepest sincerity. In extenuation, I wish to say that the article referred to was written during my absence, while attending at the bedside and during the serious illness of my father who resides in California, and I had no knowledge that such an attack was printed in the Enterprise until the same was pointed out to me. I want to say further that no such sentiment of feeling exists with me against the Oregonian and its worthy editor and it is with the most profound regret that I am compelled to acknowledge authorship of the article to this paper. I beg Mr. Scott to accept this apology and to believe in my sincere regret for the unfortunate circumstance which compels me to have to do this to cover in a way so painful an incident to the friends of the attacked as well as to myself.

THE EDITOR.

FELL INTO PEACEFUL SLEEP

The Passing of Mrs. John W. Simpson at Corvallis.

Mrs. John W. Simpson died at the family home on Sixth and Tyler streets at 11:20 o'clock, Sunday forenoon, after a few weeks' illness and the funeral will be held this, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence. The services will be conducted by Rev. F. A. Moses and the remains will be laid away in the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Martha Prather was born January 16, 1852, near Buena Vista. She was the daughter of William B. and Barbara Prather, early settlers and highly respected residents of that section. She grew to young womanhood in Polk county and was united in marriage to John W. Simpson in that city in 1870. Mr. and Mrs. Simpson have spent all their married life in Polk, Lincoln and Benton counties, having come to Corvallis about fifteen years ago, since which time they have lived quietly and peacefully, an ideal home life, in that city.

Deceased was a woman of fine character, having a universal love for humanity and a charity that was freely extended to all of God's creatures, no matter how humble or lowly. This charitable and loving disposition, coupled with cordiality and cheerfulness made Mrs. Simpson friends wherever she went, and those who knew her best loved her most deeply. Hers was a religion of self-sacrifice and good cheer; she spoke no evil and her mind and life were pure and above reproach. Her passing is mourned by a wide circle of friends, while to the family the loss is too great almost to be borne, although they have the comfort of knowing that she is at peace and that pain and distress can never reach her more.

The immediate family consists of the grief stricken husband, John W. Simpson, and one son, Gene M. Simpson, his wife and son. The brothers of deceased are James and Newton Prather of Buena Vista, and Mark Prather of eastern Oregon; the sisters Mrs. Jane Hill of Portland, and Mrs. Lizzie Hart of eastern Oregon.

The parents of deceased were the first couple ever married in Benton county—Corvallis Gazette.

Wilson's Store BELIEVES IN QUALITY

When a customer has once been convinced that it pays to buy quality, he will seldom seek a store that caters merely to those who wish to buy the greatest quantity for the money. There are communities where quality arguments would have no weight, but there are many more that can be convinced that quality pays if the right arguments are used. Quality arguments are sometimes slow trade builders, but they build exceeding strong. Bargain Goods are only a bargain to those who have not the money with which to buy the best; but there is generally a hole in the bargain. If you simply want bargain goods, pay the cheap price and get them. If you want absolutely the best, the kinds that bring you back, pay more and get more. Quality has been behind every business that has built up a solid reputation. I believe in Quality and guarantee the quality of all my goods to those who wish the best.
