Marsh Merwin Visits Salem.
Marsh Merwin visited Salem Sunday. Mr. Merwin heard Heney talk. He drove over to Salem in a rig from one of our city livery stables. He was accompanied by a couple of friends. It is not known who did the driving, but it is known Mr. Merwin and his friends were treated to a lively time by the turnout from the aforesaid livery stable. Whether it was the result of becoming too much engrossed with company or whether it was the result of an overdose administered by Mr. Heney can only be surmised. Suffice it to say that a serious accident was only averted by the proximity of an embankment into which the rig and team precipitated. Do you suppose that he was simply ruminating over that great talk delivered by Mr. Heney, or—
