The name of Stark is well known to every fruit grower in America, and the good opinion of these gentlemen is worth much to the state.

J. W. Propst, while feeding thrasher for George McLaughlin near Buena Vista, came near losing his right hand. The band cutter's knife collided with his hand severing the tendons of his little and ring fingers. Dr. Butler, who was called to dress the wound, says that it is possible that he will lose the use of those two fingers, however, he entertains hopes that they may be saved.

J. M. Gentry met with an accident last week while operating the ferry at this place. The accident occurred on account of a mix-up with logs which were being driven down the river. A bunch of them collided with the ferry boat, breaking some of the gear-ropes which released the wheel. Mr. Gentry lost control of the wheel and in its mad career his right arm was caught and mutilated badly. He has been under the doctor's care for sometime on account of the mishap.

He had just come in from the divide to Suver and was unwhitening the team when they became frightened and ran away. Mr. Nash held on to the lines until one of them broke and the sudden pull on the other brought the team around suddenly which turned the rig upside down on him. When he was found sometime after he was unconscious with a great tear of the flesh on his chin and his under lip almost stripped off. He was also injured about the shoulders and spine.
