PLEASANT HILL, August 11 1871. From Eugens we pas ad through the valley lying between the McKenzis and the Middle Fork. The land is level and fortile, except at a few points occupied by beds of gravel. The prospect for heavy vield of grain is better here than any other section through which we have passed. The Mohawk is a tributary to the McKenzie from the north. The valley is 15 miles long by one wide. The soil is very rich and easy to be irrigated by the numerous streams coming down from the mountains on both sides. . We found a small band of Drethren in this valley, with brother he has strength of body and mind to do good work in the Master's vineyard,

SHORT SERMON FOR DESPONDENTS.

"Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." If in our troubles and vexations we could fortify ourselves with this thought, we should build a tower of strength. The fears of failure, the fears of to-morrow, the fears of this that or the other thing which may happen in a future as yet by no means seen, are all so many, barriers raised against possible success.

Despondent thoughts are crushers to to mental exertion. They invite the very evils we dread. When on our countenances or in our words we hang out the sign, "I fear I shall fail," we discourage help from any quarter. The weak, who might assist us, are repelled; the strong discouraged.

There is help for the gloomy, the despondent, the melancholic, in saying over and over again the words, "I will, I will, I will get up and get out' this low frame of mind."

The mind is an edifice. Will is the timber which supports its roof of ened, and the roof ever raised. If not,
