BOILER EXPLOSION

Frederickson Killed Outright—
Anlauf Died This Morning.

REPORT OF CORONER'S JURY.

Dr W L Cheshire, coroner, arrived home today from Booth-Kelly mill No 1, above Saginaw seven miles, where he went to investigate the boiler explosion, which occurred yesterday.

Dr Cheshire reports the affair to have been very disastrous, but one to which no blame can be attached, unless to the men who were attending the boiler, as they were all experienced engineers. The boiler which exploded had not been used for about three weeks, and the water gauge had become clogged up. The men built a fire under the boiler and went about some other work. The result was that enough steam was generated to blow the boiler sky-high, which it did literally.

The boiler was one used to haul logs to the mill and was across the lake from the mill about 500 feet distant. When the explosion occurred the boiler was lifted into the air, carried across the lake and lit on the roof of the mill, falling from there to the platform, where it now rests. The other boiler alongside was not injured.

The men were terribly injured. Frederickson, the man killed outright, received a large fracture on the skull, and beside was virtually mashed all over. Anlauf, who died about 2 o'clock this morning, was badly injured on the head, and had his right arm and left thigh fractured. Rudolph, who is alive and will probably recover, was injured in the chest and burned over various parts of the body, besides having his right arm fractured.

At 8 o'clock this morning Coroner Cheshire empaneled a jury, composed of workmen from mill No 2, and examined into the causes of the explosion and the death of the two men, concluding this duty about 10:30. He then came to Saginaw and arrived home on the 1:08 train.

The report of the coroner's jury is as follows:

REPORT OF CORONER'S JURY.

We, the coroner's jury, having been summoned to investigate the boiler explosion, deaths and injuries occurring at the Booth-Kelly mill No 1, find that said explosion occurred about 10 a. m. and was probably due to over-pressure; and that Otto Frederickson was killed outright by a fracture of the skull. Otto Anlauf was injured by a stroke on the head, from the effects of which he died about 14 hours later, and Herman Rudolph was injured on chest, burned on various parts of body, and received a fracture of the right arm, all due to said explosion.

Coroner Cheshire reports a hard trip, and states that the work was gruesome. When he arrived yesterday afternoon, he found Dis Wall and Job, of Cottage Grove, already on the field, doing all that was possible to alleviate the suffering of the injured men. Last evening Dr Kuykendall was sent for and he went up on the night train, walking the entire distance to the mill over the rough roads, and back to Saginaw again this morning.

The funeral of Frederickson occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Cottage Grove under the auspices of the I O O F, of which deceased was a member.

The funeral of Anlauf will occur at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Comstock, under the auspices of the Woodmen of the World, of which he was a member. The wife and child of Anlauf resided with him at the mill and have been present during all the trying scene. Two of his brothers arrived from Comstock about an hour after Mr Anlauf passed away. The family of Mr Frederickson, as before stated, lives at Cottage Grove. Anlauf was about 30 years of age, and Mr Frederickson about 45. Mr Rudolph was a younger man and unmarried. These men were among the best mechanics employed at the mill, and it is said almost the entire responsibility rested with them.

Not since the explosion of the boiler in a harvest field in the west end of the county in the summer of 1898, has a disaster of such proportions occurred in Lane county, and the sad accident has cast a gloom over all who knew the unfortunate men.

All attempts to retain in the bill the language of the original bill for the fortification of the canal and still further to strengthen the language on that line were balked, and the victory of Hepburn and the committee was complete. A motion to recommit the bill with instructions to report back another bill leaving the selection of the route to the president was buried under an adverse majority of 52 to 171.

The Baker City Epidemic.

The Citizen of May 2, says a fatal epidemic is raging at Baker City. The papers of that city say nothing about it. The Citizen says an extract from a Baker City letter of April 23 has this:

"The disease which the doctors heretofore called pneumonia and so many deaths have occurred from it, has proved to be black fever, supposed to have its origin in Russia, as the doctor says there are thousands dying there of the dreadful disease."

"There were seven funerals today. Just think of it! It has been raging here for two months under the name of pneumonia. It is very contagious; the nurses all take it and die."

"There have been from two to three funerals daily for two months. They would take them out from the hospital after night and bury them."

Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

KENNA, Jackson Co., W. Va. About three years ago my wife had an attack of rheumatism which confined her to her bed for over a month and rendered her unable to walk a step without assistance, her limbs being swollen to double their normal size. Mr. S. Maddox insisted on my using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I purchased a fifty-cent bottle and used it according to the directions and the next morning she walked to breakfast without assistance in any manner, and she has not had a similar attack since.—A.
