TURNING DOWN OF M'CAMANT

The La Grande Chronicle Prints Some Interesting Political Gossip.

Portland, June 30—It is given out in select political circles that the turning down of McCamant at the Philadelphia convention was due to Mark Hanna. Certainly Senator Lodge is too courteous a gentleman and withal too unfamiliar with Oregon politics to have refused a delegate from this state a right to the floor, without such a course being dictated by a stronger man than he.

The whole facts are as stated in my former communication to the Chronicle that Mark Hanna has determined to use all the power of the administration to secure the election of John H Mitchell to the United States senate from Oregon. The shrewdest of politicians guess that there is a good sized contribution to the national campaign fund by certain railroad influences subject to this absolute deal.

The quarrel between Simon and Hanna, the statement of the latter that he regarded Simon, Corbett and the Oregonian as the trouble breeders in Oregon Republican politics is now a matter of history.

A very close friend of former Senator Mitchell states that the latter is opposed to any compromise with Simon. His friends will ask for a caucus of the Republican members of the legislature and will state that they went into caucus and abided by its decision when Simon was elected. Either the Simon men will thus be forced into a caucus or justify their opponents in calling them bolters. They will caucus. Mitchell's strong card will then have to be played. Hanna will be forced to eliminate McBride—that genial gentleman and accidental senator—will be told by the national chairman to get out of the way—he will be offered a choice of a dozen lucrative positions and will yield.

The strangest part of it all is that Hon Charles W Fulton, of Astoria, Mitchell's right hand man, and a man who has been twice defeated in his aspirations, once for congressman and once for governor by the machinations of Simon, urges Mitchell to accept of Simon's terms, which are the unanimous election of Mitchell as Senator this time and of Simon, in case of a Republican legislature two years hence. Fulton, of course, would be the gubernatorial nominee—but, if Mitchell should defy Simon and win out, Fulton would be slated for the other senatorship two years hence.

Albany Herald, July 1: Benjamin R Holt died at his home in Harrisburg, June 29, 1900, and will be buried in the family burying ground in the Lewis cemetery, about 10 miles east of Harrisburg, this Sunday afternoon. Mr Holt was one of the early pioneers of Linn county and was one of her substantial citizens. He came here and took up a donation claim which he owned at the time of his death, as well as considerable other property. He was a man who took a deep interest in public affairs and was a material aid in building up Linn county. He leaves a wife and two sons, Carson Holt who is a druggist at Harrisburg and C R Holt, who is a successful dentist at Nome, besides all the old pioneers who knew him as friends. In his death Linn county loses one of her substantial and successful pioneer citizens.

The Cubans are begging General Wood for some specific information as to what this government intends doing, that is, they want to know what we are going to do toward giving them a stable government. If they were told the truth they would learn that it is the intention of the leaders to annex the islands if it can be done without shocking the moral sense of the world. But a way to accomplish this it is hoped can be discovered and not violate every principle of honor. The Cubans will soon realize that there is a powerful element in the dominant party that will insist on our keeping Cuba.

OLD TIMES, OLD FRIENDS, OLD LOVE.

There are no days like the good old days—
The days when we were youthful;
When humankind were pure of mind
And speech and deeds were truthful;
Before a love for sordid gold
Became man's ruling passion
And before each dame and maid became
Slaves to the tyrant fashion.

There are no girls like the good old girls—
Against the world I'd stake 'em—
As buxom and smart and clean of heart
As the Lord knew how to make 'em.
They were rich in spirit and common sense,
A piety all supportin;
They could bake and brew and had taught school, too,
And they made the likeliest courtin.

There are no boys like the good old boys
When we were boys together,
When the grass was sweet to the brown bare feet
That dimpled the laughing heather,
When the pewee sung to the summer dawn
Of the bee in the billowy clover,
Or down by the mill the whippoorwill
Echoed his night song over.

There is no love like the good old love—
The love that mother gave us.
We are old, old men, yet we pine again
For that precious grace—God save us.
So we dream and dream of the good old times,
And our hearts grow tenderer, fonder,
As those dear old dreams bring soothing gleams
Of heaven away off yonder.

—Eugene Field.

WELLINGTON'S DECISION.

When the Moment to Strike Had Come, He Did Not Hesitate.

Badajos lies in Spain five miles from the Portuguese frontier. It was the key of a situation. Wellington's chance was to strike at Badajos before the French marshals could combine and crush him. His task was both in front of him and behind him. He lacked transport; he lacked food for the men; the soldiers were eating cassava root instead of bread; the bullocks were weak and emaciated. All this was the doing of the parliament at home.

But Wellington knew that the moment to strike had come, and he seems to have hesitated very little. Placing no faith in the tongues of the Portuguese, he made his plans with all possible secrecy. The guns for the siege were loaded on board the transport at Lisbon and consigned to a fictitious address. But in the river Sadhao they were placed upon smaller vessels, and finally they were again landed and drawn by bullocks to Eloas, a post in the possession of the allies. Having stationed two-thirds of his force under General Graham and General Hill to prevent a most probable interference by Soult and Marmont, Wellington advanced, reaching Eloas on the 11th of March, 1812. He had made the most incredible exertions.

The stupidity of the Portuguese had vied with the stupidity of the government at home. Wellington had been carrying the preparation for the campaign upon his own shoulders. If he was to win Badajos, he was to win it with no help save that from gallant and trustworthy subordinates. He was ill withal. Even his strangely steel-like nature had bent beneath the trouble of preparation amid such indifference. But on March 16 Beresford, with three divisions, crossed the Guardiana on pontoons and flying bridges, drove the enemy's outposts and invested Badajos.—Stephen Crane in New Lippincott's.

THE CITY OF HONGKONG.

It Is One of the Most Unhealthy Spots on the Globe.

In spite of all the precautions that have been taken, the perfect sanitation of the city, the fine natural drainage, the cleanliness of the streets, Hongkong is one of the most unhealthful spots on the globe. With its tropical heat the lofty peaks that half encircle it catch the clouds that the rapid evaporation create, and they are squeezed like a sponge, the floods of rain pouring down in streaming torrents.

The houses lack light, although they are built as well as they could be, with perforated ceilings, through which the air circulates, admitted from openings pierced by the outer walls. The floors are brilliantly waxed, carpets, owing to the great dampness, being dispensed with. The great difficulty is to secure light and proper ventilation. The streets are very narrow, and the towering walls of buildings opposite obstruct the light in front, while at the rear the courts of terraces crowded with foliage cast a heavy shade from that direction. In the gardens, while plants flourish luxuriantly, there is no grass, but the ground is green with moss, just as it grows in damp, shady places in cooler climates. The heat and the great humidity are destructive to health, and it is doubtful if there is a single normal liver in the whole of Hongkong.

English women who come out with complexions of cream and roses grow thin and sallow. The Hongkong complexion is a startling grayish green, and the old resident has with this pallor dark bluish circles under the eyes. The least exertion includes exhausting perspiration, and people become gaunt and thin.—Boston Transcript.

The Hub's Finest.

Stranger—I notice there are several policemen gathered at that corner and conversing in an excited manner. What is the trouble?

Bostonian—When I passed them just now, they were wrangling over the pronunciation of the word "intuition."—Chicago Tribune.

Financial Difficulties.

"Pa, what is financial difficulty?"

"Well, it is having so much money you don't know what to do with it or having so little money that you can't do a thing."—Detroit Free Press.

The famous clock in the Palais de Justice in Paris dates from 1370 and is the work of the celebrated De Vick, whose turret clocks are the earliest on reliable record.

Pearls are sometimes found in mussel shells.

New York is the financial heart of the United States. This is aptly shown by the report of bank clearings for the week ended June 28. New York clearings were $853,076,000 against $609,671,000 for all other cities. Chicago is a big city but she had only $140,623,000.

An Exclamatory Name.

"O. Mye," called the justice in the Harrison street police court today, and a silence fell over the room, while the crowd looked around to see why the justice had uttered the sudden exclamation.

"O. Mye! O. Mye!" again called the magistrate, more loudly, and Bailiff Barnet hurried to the bar and asked the justice what was offending his dignity.

"Call O. Mye, Mr. Bailiff," ordered the court, and Barnett repeated the words in tones that could be heard on the street. The officer glared about for the person who he thought was guilty of contempt of court, and when a meek appearing man left his seat and walked toward the bar Barnett seized him and declared him under arrest.

"Is this the man who is guilty, your honor?" asked the bailiff.

"What is your name?" asked the court, without heeding Barnett's question.

"O. Mye," answered the prisoner, and the bailiff took a tighter hold on his collar.

"O. Mye?" queried the court.

"Yes, your honor," from the prisoner.

Then it dawned on the bailiff that he had made a mistake. O. Mye, who said his first name was Oliver, had been arrested for begging on the street. When the policeman who arrested him told him that he had abused several persons who had refused him alms, his name was uttered by several in the court. The prisoner likewise said "Oh, my!" when he got a fine of $50.—Chicago News.

How McCullough Lost a Bet.

William H. Crane, the actor, once told this story on his old friend McCullough. He said that one night in San Francisco he was awakened from a sound sleep by McCullough pounding on the door of his room and in response to his sleepy inquiry as to what was wanted responded: "Let me in, Billy. I want you to decide a bet."

Once in, McCullough told Crane that he and the man who accompanied him had bet a $20 goldpiece as to who could stand the longer on one foot and that Crane must referee the contest. The preliminaries being arranged and the stakes deposited, time was called, and each contestant, lifting a foot from the floor, stood like a crane, while the real Crane lay back in a recumbent position with a drowsy eye on the contestants. The seconds dragged into minutes, which again threatened to extend into the hour without either disputant giving up.

Suspecting something was wrong, Crane waked himself up and examined his men more closely. The other man was wavering a bit, but McCullough was standing like a rock. Another five minutes went by, and then Crane, hopping out of bed, discovered that McCullough had one foot resting against an adjacent sofa and could have stood there for a week, if necessary. The other man won the bet, but the joke was on the referee.

Never Admit Defeat.

Never admit defeat or poverty, though you seem to be down and have not a cent. Stoutly assert your divine right to be a man, to hold your head up and look the world in the face. Step bravely to the front whatever opposes, and the world will make way for you. No one will insist upon your rights while you yourself doubt that you possess the qualities requisite for success. Never allow yourself to be a traitor to your own cause by undermining your self confidence.

There never was a time before when persistent, original force was so much in demand as now. The namby pamby, nerveless man has little show in the hustling world of today. In the twentieth century a man must either push or be pushed.

Every one admires the man who can assert his rights and has the power to demand and take them if denied to him. No one can respect the man who slinks in the rear and apologizes for being in the world. Negative virtues are of no use in winning one's way. It is the positive man, the man with original energy and push, that forges to the front.—Success.

An Easy Conscience.

"You told me," remonstrated the lawyer in an injured tone, "that you had spent nearly every cent you embezzled from the firm. That is why I charged you only $200 for clearing you. Yet you spend money now like a man with a trunkful of it."

"Certainly," responded the other. "Did you think it would hurt my conscience any worse to cheat a lawyer than it did to steal from the people I was working for?"—Chicago Tribune.

The Hungry Half Hour.

The hungry half hour that so often comes before bedtime can be appetizingly catered to by the "cheese crackers." Take any of the popular luncheon crackers on the market, and their name is legion, and spread with a little butter and sprinkle lightly with grated Parmesan cheese. Place on a dish in the oven long enough to brown them slightly. They are good when thus prepared if kept for several days.—New York World.

His Heart Not of That Kind.

"Mister," pleaded he, "won't you open your heart and give an old man a chaw of tobacky?"

"No," snapped the well-dressed man; "you must think I have a tobacco heart."—Chicago News.

Some authorities hold to the idea that a child's disposition is largely governed by his diet, citing the gentleness of the rice eating races against the quarreling of meat eating children in proof.

PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES.

Bryan electoral vote in 1896...	*176
New York's electoral vote......36
Kentucky's electoral vote.......12
Maryland's electoral vote 8
	56
Total	232
Necessary to elect	224

*Including one from Kentucky.

Kentucky may be classed for Bryan this fall with Maryland chances in his favor. That would insure his election provided he could carry New York and hold the western states that voted for him in 1896, as follows:

California	1
Idaho	3
Kansas	10
Montana	3
Nebraska	8
South Dakota	4
Washington	4
Wyoming	3
Total	36

Conceding the three states in the first table to Bryan, McKinley must carry nine votes from the states enumerated in the second table to win. He could win with Kansas alone, but should that state fail him he would require the votes of Nebraska and one other state. Kansas and Nebraska failing he would require the votes of three other states of the list.

WM. J. BRYAN ON TRUSTS.

In June North American Review.

* * *

"The trust question was in the campaign of 1896, and the menace of the trust was then pointed out, but the warning was unheeded. Now the heavy hand of monopoly is laid upon so many that there is a growing protest against a system which permits a few men to control each branch of industry, fix the rate of wages, the price of raw material and the price of the finished product.

"Until four years ago no Republican of prominence defended the trusts; now the Republican leaders speak of the trusts in guarded terms. The Ohio platform recently adopted demands that 'so-called trusts shall be regulated from time to time and so restricted as to guarantee immunity from hurtful monopoly.' The word 'hurtful' is as broad as charity, and enables the trust defender to shield every trust behind the plea that it is not hurtful. A monopoly is not hurtful to those who operate it, and if they can control the government they will be sure to decide that it is not hurtful to any one."

Throat Troubles

"Bardwell, Ky., where I live, is in the extreme western part of the State and only a few miles from Cairo, Ill., where the Ohio empties into the Mississippi River. It may be that throat troubles are common here because of location, but, whatever the reason, I find it wise to constantly keep a supply of Acker's English Remedy for Consumption on hand. It is the best thing I ever came across for coughs, colds and throat troubles, and I have used it in my family for years. No druggist here can be depended upon to have it always, so I am writing this letter to W. H. Hooker & Co., 220 Broadway, N. Y., to order a dozen bottles at a time. My wife is bothered lately with sore throat and difficult breathing, but just as soon as the dozen bottles get here, I will give her a few doses, and she will certainly be well again. I expect to write another letter in a short time saying my wife is cured, for I feel absolutely sure it is what she needs." (Signed) T. A. WHITE.

Sold at 25c., 50c. and $1 a bottle, throughout the United States and Canada; and in England, at 1s. 2d., 2s. 3d., 4s. 6d. If you are not satisfied after buying, return the bottle to your druggist, and get your money back.

We authorize the above guarantee. W. H. HOOKER & CO., Proprietors, New York.
