MINES AND MINING

Americans Are Not Satisfied With the Alaska-Canadian Survey—Loss Good Territory. Skagway, Alaska, July 30.—The work of delimiting the provisional boundary in the disputed Alaska-Canadian territory having been completed in that part crossing the Dalton trail and touching the Porcupine district, the Americans in the district find that they have lost a large part of what they believed was rightfully American territory.

The survey and demarcation of the line leaves nearly one-half of the Porcupine gold mines in the British territory, and it has been the general opinion for a long time that the mines—in fact, the entire Porcupine district—was on the American side. Much of the Dalton trail road leading to Porcupine city now lies within Canadian territory also; that is, is on the Canadian side of the iron monuments set on the provisional line.

The American miners in the Porcupine having watched the development of the work of delimiting and marking the boundary, were so aroused over the result of so much mining district being left on the British side that they were not long in addressing a protest to President McKinley. Copies of the protest have been sent to the chambers of commerce of Seattle, Skagway, San Francisco and Portland, with a request for co-operation.

The commission will be in the vicinity of Skagway a month, delimiting the provisional line on White Pass and Chilkoot Pass. The Porcupine placer mines, it is estimated, will yield $250,000 this year. Work of sluicing, hydraulic and other kinds of mining is carried on in the district.

"Rattlesnake" Jones is the name of a Boise man who engages in capturing the reptiles and selling them to the Chinese. The Celestials take each rattler and put it into a bottle of whiskey and let it stand for two years. What remains of the snake is then removed and the balance is let stand until it clarifies, which process requires five years. The liquid is then a sovereign cure for rheumatism, says the Boise Statesman. The Chinese claim that it will cure the most violent case. It takes seven years in all to make the preparation ready for use.

KEYNOTE OF THE TRADE.

The Improved Crop Conditions are the Great Factors. Bradstreet's survey of crop conditions furnishes the keynote of the trade and price movement. As a result of them nearly all staple agricultural products are lower in price, and at the same time a perceptible living up of demand for fall delivery is noted in the West, Northwest and South.

The beginning of fall trade is consequently more clearly visible in the sections mentioned, while at the East the markets are slow to experience this improvement and are consequently reasonably full. Bank clearings as yet fail to reflect any perceptible improvement in distribution, and railway earnings, though of large volume, are, owing to comparisons being made with exceptionally good results last year, showing less notable increases both in gross and net returns.

Hog products have gone lower with corn, as has also wheat, in which continued liquidation has been noted, with the result of inducing partial returns of the export inquiry banished from the markets by the recent heavy rise.

Iron and steel prices are evidently scraping the bottom, if reports from leading centers of cost of raw material and wages are correct. Soft coal is going abroad too, a cargo leaving for London shortly.

Tin is cornered locally and higher on the week, while copper is finer. An encouraging feature of the wool market is the rather better inquiry for raw wool at Boston, but manufacturing wool not apparently do much until the light weight season opens.

Wheat, including foreign shipments, for the week, aggregate 3,029,381 bushels against 2,829,910 bushels last week. Business failures for the week number 202 against 221 last week. Canadian failures for the week number 26 as compared with 19 in this week a year ago.

Served Him Right. He carefully prepared the small garden plot while his wife, deeply interested in his labor, stood watching him. After he had put in the seeds and smoothed over the bed, his wife took his arm to accompany him to the house, and on the way she asked: "When will the seeds come up, John?" Laying his hand caressingly on her shoulder, the smart man said: "I don't expect them to come up at all, my dear." "You don't?" she exclaimed. "Then why have you gone to all that trouble?" With a smile that springs from superior knowledge, he answered: "The seeds won't come up, but the plants and flowers will, by and by."

Passing of the Old Maid. The old maid of the past—sour, scandalizing sharp of temper and of features—is now almost an unknown quantity. The unmarried woman of to-day who has passed her twenties is cheery, active, busy, and useful. Generally she is in business or has some special art, profession or accomplishment to which she devotes herself. Anyway, she is not idle. She finds many things to employ her hands and brains. She has little time for gossip and less inclination. Culture and occupation have broadened her nature and given her charity and wisdom.—Macon Telegraph.

A Glib Widow. A female widow, possessed of a rich brogue, was on the stand in Judge Donovan's court the other day. Her tongue moved so rapidly in the narration of her story that her words were quite unintelligible. Finally the court interrupted: "Hold on! Not so fast! Not so fast! This man [pointing to the court stenographer] can write about 300 words a minute, but you are going at the rate of 400. Give him a chance to catch up." "Arrah, why don't ye get a good man, Judge? What does ye keep a slow skate for, at all? Was the ready retort.—Detroit Free Press.

LITERARY LITTLEBITS

Joshua Flynt, the well-known explorer of trap life, has collaborated with Alfred Hodder in the preparation of a book entitled "The Under World."

Paola Lombroso, who has just published a book on "The Problem of Happiness," is a daughter of Prof. Lombroso, the criminal anthropologist. Miss Lombroso disagrees entirely with the views of her father.

Andrew Lang asserts that novels are almost if not altogether the only form of literature that is remunerative now; nevertheless, he thinks that a new Frodo, Macaulay or Tennyson would even now find readers.

Albert White Vorse, the new editor of the transformed Criterion, has written several stories of Arctic life and adventure, some of which will soon appear in book form, under the title of "The Laughter of the Sphinx."

Anne E. Holdsworth, who makes a specialty of pathetic and tragic stories, has depicted invalid life in the German Alps, in a novel called "The Valley of the Great Shadow." It follows the motif of "Ships that Pass in the Night."

It is reported that an American paper once contained this announcement: "Mr. Browning has declined to furnish us with a poem in exchange for a thousand dollars. We find ourselves more than ever unable to understand Mr. Browning."

Herbert Spencer has completed his autobiography, but it is not to be published until after his death. It is probably not all serious and philosophical, for among the author's possessions is an excellent sense of humor, and he tells a good story and loves to hear one.

Among the autograph manuscripts to be disposed of in the forthcoming sale of the Peck Library are four pages from Dr. Johnson's memorandum book, containing prayers, meditations and resolutions. "My resolutions are: To conquer scruples. To read the Bible this week. To try and rise more early. To study divinity. To live methodically. To oppose idleness. To frequent divine worship."

LAW AS INTERPRETED.

Inability of the attesting witnesses to file to remember the facts stated in the attestation clause is held, in re Thompson (Ill.) 45 L. R. A. 682, to be insufficient to prevent the probate of the will, if the signatures of testator and the witnesses are proved and there is nothing to disprove the recitals in the attestation clause.

Right of the legislature to authorize taxation for the purpose of making gifts or paying gratuities to private individuals is denied in Bush vs. board of supervisors of Orange County (N. Y.), 45 L. R. A. 656, in case of an attempt to raise money by taxation to be paid to drafted men for services in the civil war or for commutation money paid by them.

A subcontractor who has agreed with the contractor to carry mails in accordance with a contract between the United States and the contractor, in which the latter assumed liability to any person aggrieved by his default, is held, in Lawton vs. Chilton (Wis.), 45 L. R. A. 616, to have no liability upon the contract to a postal employe for personal injuries caused by the subcontractor's negligence, though a liability in tort may exist.

Extent of the territorial limits of a municipality being a matter of legislative discretion which is not subject to judicial revision, it is held, in Kimball vs. Grantsville City (Utah), 45 L. R. A. 628, overruling a prior decision, that the collection of taxes on property within the city limits cannot be restrained on the ground that the property was outside the range of municipal benefits and therefore not subject to municipal taxation.

Clay Religions Are Worshipped.

The effete religious systems and idolatrous practices of China represent an annual expenditure of $400,000,000. There are 4,000,000 temples, 300,000 temples. Some temples are served by a hundred priests. These men are illiterate, and often from the very scum of society. About 70,000 pigs, rabbits, sheep and deer, and 27,000 pieces of costly silk are annually offered at the sacrifices.

The worship clay images of men, dogs, turtles, snakes, lizards and insects. The people live in dread of evil spirits, which are supposed to cause disease and calamity. They propitiate the evil spirits rather than pray to the good, having a belief in the cruelty and heartlessness of the gods.

Oldest Manufacturing Industry.

The oldest manufacturing industry in Great Britain is that of flints and flintlocks, which has been carried on since the beginning of the fifteenth century, if not farther back still, at the Ling Heath mines, Brandon, on the borders of Norfolk and Suffolk. The flints are all made by hand, being placed on the operator's knee and chipped with a hammer to the proper shape. Of course, a number of these flints are used for fire-making, being principally used in countries like Spain and Italy, where the duties on ordinary matches and wax matches are so high as to convert them into luxuries.

On the Wane.

Horse racing in Russia is on the wane now that the reindeer has been introduced as the rival of the horse. The reindeer is among the swiftest of quadrupeds, and can outstrip the swiftest of horses. It is estimated that he could give the fleetest Derby winner a start of half a mile and beat him easily over the Derby race track.

LABOR STRIKES OF HISTORY.

Early Egyptian Laborers Were the First to Inaugurate Them. It is often asserted that the labor strike as such does not date back further than Capt. Boycott, in the early part of the century. As a matter of fact the earliest strike dates back to about 1450 B. C., or upward of thirty-three centuries ago. Pharaoh was building a new temple of Thebes. The masons received very little cash, but a quantity of provisions, which the contractors thought sufficient, was handed to them on the first of each month. Sufficient or not, they mostly ate it before the time had elapsed. On one occasion many of them had nothing left quite early in the month, so they marched to the contractor's house, before which they squatted and refused to budge until justice was done. The contractor persuaded them to lay their distress before Pharaoh, who was about to visit the works, and he gave them a handsome supply of corn, and so all went well for that month.

But the same state of things recurred by the middle of the next and for some days the men struck work. Various conferences took place, but the men declined to do a stroke until they were given another supply of food. They declared the clerks cheated them, used false weights and so forth, familiar enough complaints in this country under the truck system. The contractor not complying with their demands, they marched to the governor of the city to lay their grievances before him, and he tried to get them to return to work by smooth words, but that was no use and they insisted on having food. At last, to get rid of them, he drew up an order for corn on the public granary and the strike was at an end.—Collier's Weekly.

School for Paris Cabbies.

There are coachmen and coachmen, the newest type being the conductor of the automatic car. The city of Paris secures his proper training at Aubervilliers, where the Compagnie Generale des Voitures has its school. A circular track of 700 meters in extent serves as the training ground. It is what the French call accidents—in one place flat and macadamized, elsewhere gently sloping upward, or falling in abrupt descent; here paved with wood, and there with stones, while a little further on the road is "up," and sand heaps, loose bricks and broken glass threaten the tyro and the tire. The wayfarers who are dotted along the route must be "humored and not driven." Fortunately, they are not flesh and blood. They are merely metal dummies propped up by a stick from behind and ready to fall at a touch. Each figure presents the familiar personalities of the Paris streets—bourgeois, soldiers, searchers, Tommy playing marbles, and the cur that goes for every wheel. There also are nurse, baby and go-cart. The cast-iron baby shows complete indifference, which also is true to life. The track of Aubervilliers is nothing if not realistic.—Fall Mail Gazette.

Barriester and Solicitor.

Lawyers in England are divided into two great classes—counselors or barristers, and attorneys or solicitors. The counselors or barristers, as these terms imply, confine themselves to the actual trial and argument of cases in open court, and to consultations with attorneys or solicitors who represent the clients. It is contrary to professional etiquette for a barrister to confer or consult directly with his client. The attorneys or solicitors, as they are all now styled, see the client, take his statement, gather the facts, and put it all down in writing in what is called "the brief." The brief is then handed by the solicitor to the barrister, with his retaining fee, and thereupon the barrister gives his advice and opinion, and if the case goes to trial he does all the work in court, such as examining and cross-examining witnesses, and arguing or summing up the case before the court or jury. The solicitor does not speak in court at all.

Snowstorm Started a Fire.

A snowstorm started a fire on the premises of a farmer living at Heberton, Belgium. He placed a quantity of quicklime near a shed on a farm and left it there all night. In the course of the night snow fell onto the lime and the heat thus developed became so great that it set the shed on fire, completely destroying it and its contents.

"See, the sheriff is asleep," said the first convict. "Let us jump from the train." "No, we cannot jump now," objected the second convict. "The train is not yet running 60 miles an hour."

God Is There.

Try to realize God's presence; the realizing it ever so little has a wonderfully soothing and calming influence on the heart. Say secretly: "The Lord is in His holy temple (His temple of the inner man); keep silence, O my heart, before Him." The mind wants steadying many times a day.

World to End This Year.

This is the recent decision of one of the societies of the world, and while there are few people who believe in this prediction, there are thousands of others who not only believe, but know that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will cure dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation or liver and kidney troubles. A trial will certainly convince.

The recent fad for perfumed beds has gained great popularity. The perfume is managed by spreading a cotton pad, thoroughly sacheted, beneath the lower sheet. By this one's bed can be made to seem stuffed with roses or violets.

"So there," said Mrs. Henpeck, concluding her remarks, "A word to the wise is sufficient." "Yes, my dear," replied Henpeck, "and to the average married man a word in edgewise is sufficient."

"Gracious! That's a disreputable looking umbrella you are carrying." "Yes; if I were Marley I'd be ashamed to own such a thing." "Oh! It's his, eh?" "Yes, I borrowed it from him about a year ago."

"No, he hasn't proposed yet!" sighed Genevieve. We suggested that the fellow doubtless knew when he was well off. "No, I suspect the trouble is he doesn't know when I'm well off, the way papa is plunging into pork!" said the beautiful girl, with a sad smile. Ah, love was indeed a great mystery.

Magnetic Character.

While there is any iron of true manliness in the soul of man, he must feel the magnetic attraction of the character of Jesus. But let that true metal be eaten out by the corroding acids of worldliness, or rusted out by the airs of careless self-indulgence, and there will be a power of response in the poor clay of man's completed earthiness. Therefore it is that Christ takes the hammer and the fire that we may be rid of the clay, not robbed of the iron, and, putting His own power in us, would make us in our measure magnets like Himself.
