

Eczema
How it reddens the skin, itches, oozes, dries and scales.
Some people call it itchy, milk crust or salt rheum.
The suffering from it is sometimes intense; local applications are resorted to—they mitigate, but cannot cure.
It proceeds from humors inherited or acquired and persists until these have been removed.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
positively removes them, has radically and permanently cured the worst cases, and is without an equal for all cutaneous eruptions.

Oregon's Seal Bounty Law.
Under Oregon's seal bounty law passed by the legislature in 1899, almost 50,000 seals of wild animals have been presented to the county courts of this state, and seal bounty warrants to the amount of $100,000 have been issued.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED
By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness results. It is the result, and cannot be cured, unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to normal condition. Hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness caused by catarrh that can be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A Fish That Weighed a Ton.
At Arena, near Palermo, they have just caught a very rare fish indeed. The fish agreed to call it the "tub fish." It was three yards long, two yards deep, weighed a ton and had a skin tougher than a costermonger's donkey, since hammers could not break it. Perseveranza says that few people see the "tub fish" in a life time.

LOTS OF FAKE HISTORIES.
Book Writers Have a Mania for Audacious and Pretentious Works.
"If I ever get to Congress," said a man in a book store yesterday, "I am going to introduce a bill for the suppression of fake historians. It will provide that any of them caught playing their craft shall be sentenced to six months, twice a year on the rock pile until they promise to be good." "What do you mean by fake historians?" asked another customer. "I thought there was more or less of them in all history, except, of course, historical novels." "May be so," said the first man, "but what I had reference to was the John-an-the-spot history that pops up nowadays the minute anything big happens. Take this Chinese muddle, for instance. It began last June, didn't it? Well, that's only a few months ago, yet how many histories or historical works bearing directly or indirectly on the subject do you think have been issued? Half a dozen? Bah! Here's one catalogue in which I find twenty-eight, and I dare say that doesn't represent half the sum total. A good many of them, I admit, are works of real merit, but they are put forward under false pretenses. They are books that were written carelessly some years ago and are now 'brought up to date' by a little faked appendix. They treat of the Chinese situation from a viewpoint which was all right at the time, but is now completely changed. Hence they are misleading."

But here's something a great deal worse. It purports to be a history of the recent complications, and is published in excellent style by a very respectable house. I read it the other night and was amazed at its audacity. Instead of being such a logical presentation of facts as we have a right to expect from a work making any pretensions to historical method, it is a clumsy hodge-podge of newspaper clippings, pitch-forked together in any old fashion to make a given number of pages, and most of them several years old. From the chapter headings one would suppose that it contained information of real value, and I turned at once to the part dealing with the Chinese army and navy. It proved to be a newspaper article that I first read directly after the war between China and Japan. Not a vessel I named is now in service. It is easy to say, of course, that the fellow who is fool enough to buy half-baked histories deserves to be humbugged, but the average man hasn't time to think the matter over in advance. What I have said applies also to the snap-shot 'lives' that appear whenever a personage of prominence dies. In these progressive times the biographer can actually beat the embalmer. —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

COURTESY IN ONE'S HOME.
Observe Society's Rules and Children Will Never Be ill at Ease.

When we read of court functions in foreign lands we notice that precedence is a thing determined by arbitrary laws, and should we spend a season in Washington we would learn that there are certain conventional rules which govern society and which cannot be violated by any one, from the lowest to the highest.

Precedence is an anomaly in the simple life of the ordinary home, yet it is an open question whether the cheerful contentment of the simplest household would not be increased if there were more formality in the daily intercourse of parents and children. Politeness would prevent much friction, for it is inconsistent with politeness to squabble, to say disagreeable things, to be brutally candid. Perhaps we do not half consider how much politeness saves us from as we go about among our friends.

In home conversation precedents as to right of way should be with the elders, says Good Housekeeping. Father and mother, grown-up brothers and sisters, guests should be allowed to express themselves and little people should not be suffered either to interrupt or to carry on their talk in a high key so that the older persons can hardly hear themselves speak.

One finds in otherwise well-bred circles an amazing license accorded to the children, in their continual breaking in with queries or with information about their own matters, nobody taking notice that they are learning to trample on others by the practice of speaking first and speaking loudest. When mother comes into a room, Hubert and Harriet should see that she has a chair. I can think of nothing ruder than the figure of a girl 10, 12 or 13 years, calmly ensconced in the most comfortable chair in the house, while her mother, or her father for that matter, looks about in vain for as desirable a seat.

Boys are, of course, taught to rise and give a seat to any lady who enters a room, also to rise and remain standing till a woman is seated, but the rule is often in abeyance to their own mothers and sisters. You may enter it on your records as a rule without exception, that no one will ever be at ease in society who fails in the little daily amenities in the home.

Only as we are most careful to insist on perfect courtesy in our home life, can we expect that our children shall appear to advantage when they step on the larger world-stage beyond their own doors.

New Russian Coal Fields.
In the immediate neighborhood of the city of Tchuratschovsk, in the Caucasus, a coal field extending over more than thirty miles has recently been discovered. The coal is said to be of a first-class quality, and a syndicate, with Prince Catcauzene at the head, has already acquired the right of exploitation. The place where the veins occur is only twenty miles from the Black Sea, and railway as well as water communication can easily be rendered available. It is reported that work will soon be started.

There Are Such.
"That man has spent all his life washing his unquestionable talent and learning opportunities for success." "Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "He has a positive genius for wrestling defeat from the jaws of victory." —Washington Star.

A man is as old as he feels and a woman is as old as she doesn't think she looks.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.
Fitting Close to a Year of Exceptional and Unprecedented Activity.
Bradstreet's says: A fitting close to a year of exceptional and in some respects unprecedented activity is furnished by the very general report of large holiday business in the past week. The best report as to this sort of trade comes from the Southwestern section, but, except in some parts of the Northwest, satisfactory business is quite general. Heavy-weight clothing, too, has been measurably helped for the same reason, but, despite a good business in the last two weeks, the trade has apparently lagged somewhat, owing to mild weather. In wholesale trade, business has been of seasonably small proportions, but reports from leading lines, such as iron and steel, shoes and leather, lumber, glass, and spring dry goods, have been encouraging, chiefly, of course, as regards the views entertained as to the outlook rather than as to new business actually accomplished.

Speculation in cereals has been light and increases in supplies and large surplus reports from the Argentine Republic have still further depressed the long interest in wheat. The world's wheat supplies are about on a par with those of a year ago, and American supplies are actually smaller. Prices are steady and changes few.

Wheat (including flour) shipments for the week aggregate 4,011,105 bushels, against 4,123,350 last week. From July 1 to date this season wheat exports are 94,151,455 bushels, against 103,994,193 last season.

Business failures in the United States for the week number only 213, against 267 last week.

WALL OF PREHISTORIC AGE.
Remarkable Construction Found in a Mississippi County.
Those officials of the State of Mississippi who are charged with the responsible commission of superintending the construction of the new capitol, which is to cost $1,000,000, have had their attention called to a very excellent article of stone which is said to exist in luxuriant quantities in an old wall extending from near Raymond in the southern portion of Hinds County to Brandywine, in the county of Claiborne, some forty miles to the southwest, and it is possible a full investigation will be made before any contracts for the stone work for the capitol is awarded.

The existence of this great wall has been known for many years, but all previous efforts to interest archaeologists and other scientists have proved futile, they having too-often in the idea of any such prehistoric wonder in the great valley of the Mississippi. But the wall is there beyond all question, and so accustomed have the inhabitants of the vicinity become to its presence that their curiosity has become dulled, and they have long since ceased to wonder as to its origin.

As stated, the old wall is traceable for some forty miles—but not without numerous breaks caused by the washings and the accumulations of ages burying long stretches below the present surface of the surrounding country, but once the general direction is fixed the explorer has little trouble in finding where it next crops above the surface. The average height of the wall above ground is only three or four feet in the best exposed places, but there is no telling how deeply imbedded are the bottom layers. In some level stretches where the entire top of the wall is still above the surface, it is from ten to forty feet wide and as solid as it could have been when first built. The stones average six feet long, three feet wide and two feet thick, and are estimated to weigh from two to three tons. They are roughly but accurately squared and dressed and imbedded in as fine an article of cement as any builder of the present century need ever want to see. So tightly and firmly are the great stones joined together that it requires considerable exertion with pick and crowbar to loosen them from their ancient beds.

It is understood here that a party of archaeologists and other scientists are preparing to visit Mississippi for the purpose of exploring the old wall.

Great Find of Manuscripts.
The Russians, on occupying Mukden, the capital of Manchuria, secured—in other words "looted"—a large quantity of very valuable Oriental MSS., which, by command of the Russian government, are being sent to St. Petersburg in order to be submitted to a minute examination at the hands of the authorities of the Imperial Library, says the London Daily Mail.

Among the MSS. there should be, according to the view of Russian experts, many MSS. of Greek and Roman classics, which were plundered and carried away by the Mongols in their wars of devastation in Europe in the thirteenth century. Some European scholars have combated this theory, which was put forward some years ago, but in any case the question is likely to be definitely settled at no distant date.

The Mongols first became known and feared in Europe by the conquests of Jenghiz and his house in the thirteenth century. The Huns were the first wave of Mongols to burst over Europe. They even broke into Italy. Before the middle of the thirteenth century the Mongols had conquered all Russia and Poland and all eastern Europe. Liegnitz, the battle which left Europe helpless before the Mongols, was fought in 1241.

Growth of Population in Germany.
The growth of Germany since the war with France is the most remarkable phenomenon of modern Europe. Since the treaty of peace was signed in 1871 Germany has not extended her territory by a single acre on the continent of Europe (if we except the acquisition of Heligoland), but she has increased her population by 16,000,000. The Germans numbered 40,000,000 in 1871; they number 56,000,000 now, and yet, although there are so many more mouths to feed, the Germans are better fed, better clothed, and in every way more prosperous than they were then. This is attributed largely to the fact that for twenty years Germany devoted herself to improving the elementary education of her people.

Unmarried Men and Women.
Taking the Australian colonies in the aggregate, there are only seventy-five unmarried females for every hundred unmarried males. In New South Wales alone, according to the last census, there are nearly 100,000 more unmarried males than unmarried females; in Victoria the excess is upwards of 75,000; in Queensland it is over 17,000; in Western Australia, 9,000; in Tasmania about the same; and in New Zealand, a little less than 44,000.

New Motor for Automobiles.
A new electric motor for automobiles has been devised which restores energy to the storage battery when the vehicle is running downhill.

Will Not Rebuild.
Gray & Gray, who owned the steam flouring mill at Palouse, Washington, which burned two months ago, have decided not to rebuild. They have bought the large steam mill at Oakesdale, which will be refitted and some new machinery added. The Oakesdale mill is one of the largest and best in the Palouse country, but has been idle for a number of years except in the fall of the year, owing to the fact that it was owned by an estate and was in litigation.
