BURNT-UP IOWA.

A Subscriber Writes of the Terrible Conditions There.

WANTS TO COME AWAY.
FARMINGTON, Iowa, July 24.
EDITOR GUARD: I thought I would address you a few lines if they will be of importance to you in regard to old Iowa.

Everything is burnt up in this section. I don't see what people will do here. The principal crop here is corn, and it is all burnt up, and they are shipping hundreds of head of stock out of the country daily on account of the lack of feed and water. You mentioned in your paper the hot weather. Now I will give you some statistics of my own observation. There hasn't been a day for two weeks that the thermometer hasn't ranged from 100 to 115 degrees in the shade, and last Sunday, the 21st, was the hottest day on record—118 in the shade—and no prospect of it getting cooler at the present writing. I don't see what people will do. Everything is burnt up all over the state. Since I have been here I have often thought that the people in Old Westport ought to feel grateful and thankful that they are where droughts are unknown.

I send you a few prices: Apples 40 cents per peck; potatoes $2.00 per bushel and scarce; bacon 15 cents per pound; beans 15 to 18 cents, very poor; eggs 7 cents per dozen; flour $1.60 to $1.25 per 50 lb sack; corn 40 cents per bushel and very scarce. Everything else in proportion is as high, and no business and work for the laboring class.

As this is my first letter to the GUARD, I will not take up any more of your valuable space, and will close, hoping that this will be the last summer I will have to spend here.

I am very thankful to you for the GUARD, which I read with pleasure. I send my respects to all my old friends.

Bishop Potter was once traveling through Louisiana and addressed inquiries to his fellow passengers with a view of obtaining information regarding the orchards and fruit interests of the state. "Do you raise peaches in Louisiana?" inquired the bishop. "We do," replied the Louisiana, "if we have three or better."

Roseburg Plaindealer: There has been a hot theological discussion at Elmira, Lane county, and the usual religious strife and bitterness has rent the community asunder. While the opposing local denominations, Baptists and Christians, are at war with one another, His estate Majesty sits serenely by and triumphantly chuckles. Debates of this kind rarely result in any good.

PRINEVILLE SHOOTING.

The Tragedy Was Over Lytle's Wife.

The shooting and killing of Emmett Eagan by Andrew Lytle about 35 miles from Prineville was recently published in the GUARD.

Lytle was a one-armed man, being a son of Mrs. Lytle who married Johnson, of Minnesota hotel fame. Emmett Eagan, it is said, also formerly lived in Lane county. The Prineville Review says: "It appears that after borrowing a gun he went to Ekins' where Eagan takes his meals and asked for him. He was informed that Eagan hadn't got up yet. So he starts for the bunk house. Eagan hears Lytle coming and thinking it was some one coming to wake him up for his breakfast, gets out of bed and commences to dress. Lytle goes up to the door and exclaims, 'You are the——— I am looking for, and fires. Lytle turns and goes back to Ekins' house, which is not over 50 or 60 yards away and got young Ekins to saddle his horse, and said he was going to Prineville by the nearest route and give himself up. Eagan said that he had had no difficulty with Lytle and did not know why he shot him. He made this remark several times and is in his dying statement. Lytle is a married man, has a wife and two children. Some four or five years ago Lytle lost an arm by having a horse run into a wire fence.

Lytle says that his business of hauling lumber to Ashwood necessitates his being absent from home a great deal and that on several occasions Eagan had made improper proposals to his wife. On the last occasion he broke into the room and attempted to carry out his desire, but was driven off. That when he came home Saturday night his wife told him of the circumstances and he got the gun next morning and killed the insulter of his family."

Belknap Mineral Springs Letter.

Salem Journal.

BELKNAP SPRINGS, July 24.

Ed. Journal:—I am very interested to your many readers to know that there is such a place as the Belknap Mineral Springs. They are located 65 miles east of Eugene on the McKenzie fork of the Willamette river. The road from Eugene to the springs is very good, considering the fact that the springs are so far up the mountains and only 20 miles west of the summit of the Cascade range of mountains. I consider it a delightful place to spend a few weeks in the mountains. There are about 20 tents on the campgrounds and some have small comfortable houses in which to reside. The majority of the people here come for the purpose and expectation of receiving great benefit by the use of the water, it is almost, if not quite, a specific for rheumatism, stomach trouble, and many other diseases with which the human family are afflicted. The water is hot, and a short distance above where it flows out of the mountain, is a small cave where the wind is constantly going into or coming out of the cave, supposed to be for the purpose of keeping the fire burning and mixing the minerals, so the water will be hot enough for any purpose.

William Smith, of Sublimity, has been here for four weeks, expecting to receive some benefit from the use of the water, but I am sorry to say he is but little, if any, better than when he came. Still he has great hopes that the use of the water will restore him to good health.

It costs $1.25 to remain here per week and have the use of the water, and $4.50 on the stage from Eugene to the McKenzie bridge, six miles below, where you can get private conveyance to bring you to the springs.

Death of Ralph Osburn.

Died Suddenly Today at Reno, Nevada.

Daily Guard, July 30.
This afternoon F. W. Osburn received a telegram from Reno, Nevada, stating that his brother, Ralph S. Osburn, had died suddenly at that place at 12:15 o'clock today.

The deceased was born in September, 1849, at Saegerstown, Pa. He came to Eugene in 1866 with his parents, William and Rebecca Osburn. During his residence here he was a member of the firm of Osburn & Co., who conducted a drugstore, until 1872, when he went to Jacksonville, Or., where he lived a few months. From there he went to Reno, where he has resided continuously. He was married in Eugene in 1872 to Anna E. Lemmon, of Nevada, who still survives him, and two children were born to them, but they have both died.

During his residence at Reno Mr. Osburn had been county clerk two terms, was an employ at the U. S. mint at that place, had been elected a state senator and was a delegate to the democratic national convention in 1884. At the time of his death and for several years previous he was cashier of the Bank of Nevada at Reno.

Mr. Osburn was a highly respected citizen and was well known here. Besides being a brother of F. W. Osburn, cashier of the Eugene Loan & Savings bank, he leaves two sisters here, Mrs. Harding and Mrs. Moore.

HOSPITAL IMPROVEMENTS—We are informed that the Eugene hospital is soon to be enlarged to accommodate the increasing number of patients. Only recently several have been turned away on account of the lack of room for them. It is proposed to add a second story to the old portion of the building or the north wing, and two verandas will be constructed along the front. It is also probable that another addition the size of the south wing will be built on the north side.

A few days ago Wm. Leeper, of Yoncalla, bought $500 worth of sheep from P. B. Beckley and drew a check for the amount on Merchant & Co., owners of the Union stock yards in Portland, and notwithstanding the fact he has given checks on the same firm the past several years, in this case the check was not honored, the firm claiming that Leeper was indebted to them several hundred dollars, and applied it on his account. We are informed that C. Ross King and C. R. Westenhiser, of Yoncalla, will live $200 and $100 respectively unless the matter is adjusted different from the way Leeper's account stands with his creditors. It seems like the Portland stock buyers should be responsible for the acts of their agents, especially when they are authorized to draw checks on the Portland firm. It is said Mr. Leeper kept no books and does not know whether he justly owes the Portland stockmen. Certainly Messrs. Beckley, King and Westenhiser should not be expected to pay just or alleged debts of others. We learn Wm. Bainbridge, of Elkhead, lost $150.

25,000 MEN STRIKE

San Francisco Port Closed--Wholesaling Suspended.

ALL SHIPPING STOPPED.

Special to the Guard

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—The City Front Federation of Labor unanimously ordered a general strike on the docks today, including all water front workers, affecting twenty-five thousand men, stopping all kinds of shipping excepting the ferries. This practically closes the front and suspends wholesaling of every kind. It is also intimated that the strike will extend to many other kinds of employment. The trusts are said to be responsible for this trouble to a great extent.

The strikers are thus far peaceful but measures will be taken to enforce good order, if troops must be called out.

Even the government Manila transports will be stopped from loading or unloading.

The excitement is at a high pitch and nothing else is thought or talked of. The strikers want higher wages and shorter hours.

The loss in dollars to all kinds of business will be immense if the strike continues long.

The docks are full of all kinds of goods, much of it being perishable, and cannot be moved.

All clerks are even concerned, for at present they are idle or nearly so.

This is the greatest strike ever experienced in this city.
