INTERCOLLEGIATE FOOTBALL.

University of Oregon Wants to Play Berkeley in Oregon Sometime This Fall.

BERKELEY, Cal., Aug. 23.—The University of Oregon has written to Graduate Manager Ezera Deotto, of California, asking for a football game this fall between the two universities, to be played in the northern state. The Oregonians offer to pay the expenses of the California team or give a percentage of the gate receipts. No action has been taken by the California executive committee.

Spokane Indian Reservation.

SPOKANE, Aug. 23.—Plans are announced today to secure the opening of the Spokane Indian Reservation to mineral locations. The reservation is 25 miles northeast of this city and contains about 200,000 acres. The mineral wealth is unknown but surface indications are said to be promising. The reservation is now occupied by about 350 Spokane Indians.

BAD RAILROADING.—Eugene is the passing point of the day trains of the Southern Pacific. The train from the south pulls in on the switch towards the town, while the one from the north takes the main track. It often happens that freight cars obstruct the switch, in which case the train from the south backs and goes past the depot on the main track, after the other train has proceeded on its way south, not stopping for passengers. This causes some, at least, of the traveling public, to wait by the main track on days when the switch is not obstructed, in consequence they get left. For the second time this week that happened today when several intending north-bound passengers got left. The train pulled right on through. Some means should be employed to inform the traveling public as to how the train will proceed.

About October 1st The Dalles electric light plant will change its motive power from steam to water. A dispatch says a large force of men are working on the distributing station and are hastily completing the same. The wires are about erected from the White River falls and when completed the old plant, which was operated by enormous engines, will be discontinued.

FIRST INCINERATION.

Portland Crematorium Association Began Operations Thursday Afternoon.

Portland Telegram August 23.

Successful was the first incineration at the crematorium near City View Park. It took place Thursday afternoon, the body of E P Sine, lately an attorney from Lexington, Kentucky, being the first to go through the process.

Judge C B Bellinger, president of the Crematorium Association; George W Weldler, E B Williams and E D Curtis were present to see how the cremating apparatus worked. The casket containing the body was placed in the retort at 2:45 p.m., and was completely incinerated in three-quarters of an hour, nothing remaining but about three quarts of ashes. The furnace had been heating for an hour, but the oil had been shut off and the inner surface allowed to cool for 5 minutes before the casket was placed in it, so that there was no sign of flame or heat to shock the most sensitive. The casket was covered with an alum-soaked sheet, gently slid into the retort, and the door closed, and in three-quarters of an hour the incineration was complete.

There are 23 bodies in the vaults awaiting cremation.

A SPLENDID IDEA.

Colfax, Washington, Is to Have a Rest-room for Farmers.

Here is an idea that Eugene might copy:

"Colfax is to have a rest-room or place where people from the country may find cheerful surroundings when they have a few hours on their hands."

These rest-rooms have been maintained in some sections of the Middle West and have proved most attractive as well as a great convenience to people who are visiting the city. Many farmers who are obliged to remain in town several hours while waiting to do business find that time hangs heavy on their hands, and as a rule there is no place to which they may go for rest or satisfactory recreation. They must walk the streets or sit in their wagons when they might just as well be employing their time to some advantage.

"In this particular the rest-rooms supply a long-felt want. Here farmers are able to meet and confer; they may read the news, get comfort instead of boiling them while perched on a cart; they may clean up after a dusty ride or drive; their wives and daughters may enjoy social converse or rest after a day's shopping."

ENGINE SMASHED WAGON.

John Bundy, of Junction, Got on Railroad Track—Had Narrow Escape.

Junction City, Aug 21.—Wednesday morning, as John Bundy was crossing the railroad track just north of the depot, a local engine while switching ran into his wagon smashing it to pieces, and Mr Bundy and team barely escaped being run over.

There were several cars on the track which obstructed the view. So Mr Bundy did not see the engine until it was almost upon him. He whipped up his team, but it was too late to get the wagon over the track. With the exception of a good shaking up, Mr Bundy was unhurt.

JACK O'NEILL ILL.—Jack O'Neill, the well known railroad agent, is ill at St Vincent's hospital. He was operated upon today by Dr McKenzie, for an abscess in the bowels. A dispatch says the operation was successful.

B D Paine & Co are headquarters for tents, wagon covers and hammocks. Prices lower than anyone. Give us a call and be convinced.

Miss Anna Oglesby has resigned her position as manager of the Postal Telegraph office at Junction and C P Houston has been appointed.

Fifteen hundred bags of sugar have been placed on the Eastern Oregon market, the result of three days run of the La Grande Sugar Company.

Roseburg had a hail and thunder storm Thursday evening from half past eight to nine o'clock. Hailstones of unusual size fell for a few minutes.

A law passed by the last legislature provides for a fine of $5 for teachers not attending the county institutes. Will it be enforced is a serious question with some teachers.

The carpenter work on the counters and shelving in Hampton's new store was completed this forenoon and the workmen returned to Portland this afternoon.

Brownsville Times: Amos Simons and Wm Hanley left for the Lucky Boy mine in the Blue River district Tuesday, where they have secured employment. Amos is to be testator from Eugene, and William will have employment at the mill.

Drivers of traction engines may be spared paying a fine if they give heed to this item. The law of these machines across a bridge unless planking is laid for the wheels to run upon, thus re-enforcing the structure.

Today's Salem Statesman: "While McElroy arrived on the overland train last evening for a visit to T A Livesley & Co., of Salem, after an absence of five years. While absent Mr McElroy followed his profession as coroner, playing with the Thomas Orchestra of Chicago, and other leading bands of the East. He was met at the depot by the Salem Military Band." He is a son of the late Prof E B McElroy.

Mrs Mary Bramer was drowned Sunday afternoon while in bathing at the headwaters of Coos river, near Algebany, says the Coos County Sun.

Mrs Bramer had been accustomed of late to enjoy the recreation of bathing in the river, and on previous occasions had been accompanied by her lady friends, but on the fatal day she was alone. The river is narrow at this point, but very deep in places. She could not swim a stroke, and it is supposed she stepped into a deep hole, where it was over her head. A small boy on the bank saw her trying to reach the shore, and spread the alarm, but before assistance could be obtained she went down. The body was recovered as soon as possible, and every effort was made to resuscitate her, but without avail. Mrs Bramer's death is rendered doubly sad, as four small children are left motherless.

A NEWSY LETTER

It Tells About People We All Know.

2,500 STUDENTS AT BERKELEY.

BERKELEY, Aug. 21, 1901.

The State University at Berkeley opened August 13, with about 2,500 students in attendance.

Prof F G Schmidt, of U O, is visiting in San Francisco and Berkeley.

Max Plumb, who was last year a sub-instructor in chemistry at the University of California, will not be here this year. He has accepted a position at some point in Southern California.

Judge Kincaid, wife and son Webster, are spending a vacation in San Francisco. The Judge and Mrs Kincaid visited the State University August 19, and attended the first assembly of the school year.

It is said that Nat Eddy has entered this university. However, the writer has not yet seen him.

Carpenter, the colored man, who was compelled to leave the U O last year on account of ill health, has registered here.

It is said that L S Hooker, a prominent U O student, contemplates entering a medical school in San Francisco, this year.

Pete Kaarsburg, who coached the U O football team last year, has a position in the electrical department of the navy yard at Vallejo, near San Francisco.

August 16 at 12 m, on scheduled time, Mrs H B Miller and family left San Francisco bay on the government transport, The Meade, for China. The Meade, though slow, is a very comfortable boat and no doubt with such fair weather as now prevails, they will enjoy their long passage to the Orient.

Clyde Payne, the star U O athlete, has registered at U O and will complete his course in mines and mining at this University. Payne did not come here because he wished to desert Oregon nor because of any monetary consideration, for he received none whatever, and in fact he will accept no position on the U C football team. He came here because school of mines and mining.

Another Rich Strike.

The I. X. L. on the Calapooia Slide Showing Up Well.

Brownsville Times.

A C Hausman, S R and Bert Templeton, of this place, and L G Bradley, of Eugene, own a claim in the Blue River district, known as the I X L. It is on the Calapooia side of the district, near the Great Northern, and late developments indicate that the owners have a bonanza. Mr Hausman, who is at home in this city, received word the latter part of last week from his partners, who are pushing development work on the claim: "We've struck it." A ledge of fine appearance and good width, containing an extraordinary rich streak of ore, 18 inches wide has been uncovered, and the precious metal abounds in great profusion.

This is another evidence of the richness of the district. Every claim upon which any considerable amount of work has been done shows up admirably, and proves that the Blue River mines are destined to be great gold producers.

A Fool Act.

Woodburn Independent: The act of William Tell in shooting an apple off the head of another person was repeated in Woodburn last Saturday morning, when Charles Cammack shot an apple off Elton Stark's head with a 22-calibre rifle at a distance of 30 feet. Cammack had just shot and killed a squirrel at a distance of about 200 feet and he did the job so nicely that Stark, who was standing by, told him that he would not be afraid to place an apple on his head and let him shoot it off. Whereupon Stark placed an apple on his bare head and Cammack shot it off, splitting the apple squarely in two, one piece falling on each side of Stark. The act was a foolhardy undertaking and one that ought not to be repeated.

Junction City Times, August 24: A very contemptible trick was perpetrated on the ladies of the Rebekah lodge in this city Saturday evening. The occasion was a farewell reception tendered Mrs J W Geary. Cake, peaches and cream had been placed upon a table in the banquet room which is on the first floor. When lodge adjourned and those present repaired to the banquet hall, they found that thieves had entered and stolen all their cake and one box of peaches. One of the windows had been raised and the cakes passed out.
