TIMBER LANDS.

Splendid Advice by a Well Known Timber Land Man.

The vacant timber land of Western Oregon will soon be gone. Never before was there such a rush from the East since the days of '49. Eastern people see their chance here and do not hesitate to invest in an enterprise as rich and far more sure than the gold mines. Every young man of today has a chance to accumulate an independent fortune, and no better opportunity presents itself anywhere than here in Lane county. One hundred and sixty acres of timber land can be had at a very small cost.

A good timber claim contains four million feet of timber; the price today is $1.00 per thousand feet, taking the timber as it stands. This is a small fortune in itself; but consider what it will be in twenty years. Hear in mind that in the states of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, timber is selling at $5.00 and upwards on the stump. Consider this and also the fact that 25 years ago people of these states gave their timber to parties who would take it off of the land so they could cultivate the soil. How many a man sees the mistake he then made, and how many more will see it here within the next few years, for millions of feet of fine timber has been destroyed in this state for the purpose of cultivating the land.

Many people do not yet realize what the next 20 years will bring to the lumber trade of Western Oregon. Every young man should make himself possessor of at least 160 acres, and hold it for 15 years. He may work for wages during this time and his net earnings will be less than the proceeds of this one little investment; a chance that presents itself now, but in a year will be a thing of the past. But never take a claim until you see it and know its exact location.

Fuel For Locomotives.

One of the railroads on the Pacific Coast has been experimenting with oil as fuel for their locomotives in place of coal, and if it proves a success will be adopted. While there may be some doubt as to the success of this new fuel, there is none concerning the curative value of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It has been given a thorough trial during the past fifty years and has never disappointed any sufferer from dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation or biliousness who has given it a fair trial. What it has done for others in the past it will certainly do for you now. Try a bottle and you will be convinced. The genuine has our private Die Stamp over the neck of the bottle.

German Emperor's Christmas.

A Berlin dispatch to the London Times describes the Christmas eve celebration by Emperor William at the new palace, in Potsdam. The dispatch, as contained in the New York Times continues: "All the Kaiser's children were present except Prince Adalbert, who is in the Mediterranean. Nine Christmas trees of graduated sizes were placed in the Muschelhaus, the largest being the Emperor's. At 5 o'clock an enormous cake of ginger bread was presented to the Kaiser by a deputation of the First Foot Guards."

A Woman's Awful Peril.

"There is only one chance to save your life and that is through an operation," were the startling words heard by Mrs I B Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis, from her doctor after he had vainly tried to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jaundice. Gall stones had formed and she constantly grew worse. Then she began to use Electric Bitters which wholly cured her. It's a wonderful stomach, liver and kidney remedy. Cures dyspepsia, loss of appetite. Try it. Only 50 cents. Guaranteed. For sale by W L Delano.

The happy couple left for Shedd on this afternoon's train, where they will visit for two weeks, and will then return and go to Pleasant Hill to live, making their home on the Shelley farm, one mile north of that place. Getting Ready for Resolutions.

The Western Leader is evidently getting ready for his New Year's resolutions but, before doing so wants to express the wrath of his pen. It gives the following as a closing "truth" of the old year:

"A stranger with a cast-iron stomach dined and astonished a crowd at Van Buren's Tuesday afternoon. Van's lunch goods did not tempt him, but he made a substantial meal off a broken lamp chimney and half a box of tacks. The delicacies were fed to him by William Graham, and he washed them down with water. His stomach was carefully examined by the master of ceremonies aforesaid and other, and to all appearances he had consumed the entire menu."
