MAY PROVE HIS WATERLOO.

President Roosevelt has a pet. And that pet—Admiral Sampson—may prove his undoing. The American people love fair play above everything. The Washington correspondent of the Oregonian probably gives a correct summary of the Sampson-Schley controversy, with General Miles added to the melange. He writes:

Public opinion, as voiced in many papers, is severe upon the Administration for its censure of General Miles and the position of the Navy Department regarding Admiral Schley. At the same time nothing will change the President's determination to put an end to the Sampson-Schley controversy in the Army and Navy. It makes no difference whether that action will defeat him for the Presidency or not. Roosevelt will do what he thinks is the proper thing in this case.

Roosevelt, as Assistant Secretary of the Navy had more to do with having Sampson selected for command of the fleet than any other man. The fact is he remained away from his regiment of Rough Riders some time while he was urging the selection of Sampson. While he has not been heard to give an expression of opinion upon the merits of the controversy, it is still known that he believes in Sampson's selection and in Sampson as a naval commander.

PRESIDENTIAL FINANCES.

It is said that President Roosevelt inherited a fortune estimated at $250,000, but that he got rid of more than half of it speculating in western ranches and cattle. When President Roosevelt went into the Spanish War his finances were at low ebb, and it is said that when he returned to Montauk after his Cuban campaign his ready cash amounted to just $12. Fortunately the magazines were eager to secure the products of his pen, and in a few months his writings brought him about $7000 in cash—"a God-send," as he described it. When he became Governor of New York, with $10,000 a year and a house to live in, the family finances were somewhat improved. The salary of the Vice-President, added to his books, kept things going on a comfortable though modest basis.

But it was not till he became President and drew at the rate of $50,000 a year that Mr and Mrs Roosevelt were able to feel that at last the question of making income meet expenditures was not one that required careful consideration and careful handling. As a lifelong friend of the Roosevelts put it, "This is the first time in her married life Mrs Roosevelt has not found it necessary to take her pencil and figure out how to meet the gross' bill next week."

The Washington correspondent of the Associated Press is somewhat of a humorist himself. Witness this on the appointment of Governor Shaw of Iowa to succeed Secretary Gage in the treasury portfolio of the cabinet: "The definite announcement of Governor Shaw's selection gave the greatest gratification to the Iowans resident here." When it is considered that "Iowans resident here" almost without exception hold government jobs their "gratification" is not to be wondered at. Why should they gratify?

The chairman of the House committee on Postoffices and Postroads says one-cent postage is impracticable because it would result in a deficit of thirty-five millions annually. Not a few people who were well informed on postal finances predicted a big shortage when letter postage was reduced from three to two cents not many years ago. The cheaper postage stimulated the use of the mails with the result that it was but a short time until the receipts showed an increase. It is not probable that the striking of another cent from the cost of letter postage would result differently.

No one disputes the assertion that Great Britain is endeavoring to rob the Boers of their country down in South Africa—they have not done it yet though; that Russia robbed poor helpless China of Manchuria. It might not be pleasant to our national pride to go farther and call attention to some land-getting engaged in by the United States over on Asiatic shores, six thousand miles from this Pacific Coast, across the big Pacific ocean. And our new subjects over there—not citizens—are all kin of color and nationalities, with the white race about left out.

There are three business facts which may be regarded as established, says the Hartford Telegram—that there is no worthy article at a reasonable price which cannot be sold by the right kind of advertising; that the newspaper which has a large circulation is the best medium, and that an advertisement which is specific and which quotes the prices is the most effective.

The Westminster Review says that many years ago it was estimated that one million sermons were preached annually in England and, probably, twice that number would be less than the present output. It will far exceed that in the United States. But still there are church people who begrudge the pastor his stunted salary.

Criminality seems to be chronic with some men. For instance two escaped prisoners from an Eastern Washington jail were recaptured by officers as they were taking the valuables from the occupants of a saloon whom they had ranged along a wall of the room, with hands in air, in order to facilitate the pleasant job.

An American Bible Society agent writes from China that that country is preparing for war by the procurement of immense supplies of arms and ammunition. They lack one essential element—the men to fight the guns.

SUCCESSFUL FARMER

G C Millett, of Near Junction City.

WAS ACCUMULATED WEALTH.

Daily Guard, Dec 30
G C Millett, the well known and prosperous farmer of Junction City, was in Eugene today and made the GUARD office a pleasant call. In the course of conversation he gave us some facts about his success in farming during the last 20 years and more.

Mr Millett came to Oregon in 1879 when quite a young man with only $50 in his pockets, the entire extent of his worldly possessions. He rented a farm and in June, 1880, bought 500 acres of land near Junction on credit the price being $12,000. Since then he has bought more lands until now he owns 1600 acres. So successful has he been with his farming that he has paid for all these lands from the proceeds of the sale of the products raised on them, including both principal and interest.

Mr Millett has discarded the old method of farming, that of raising wheat and nothing else, and now he is now sowing his land with grass and intends to pasture sheep and hogs on the same. He realizes handsome profits on his stock, especially on hogs. Since May, 1901, he has sold to Portland buyers $7300 worth of hogs most of which he has raised, but some of which he bought and fed on his place. The first carload sent to Portland was from a sow a month and in the pen a month and they brought $1500. His hog pen is 120 feet long and is built on up-to-date plans. He has three sows with a capacity of 300 tons of feed.

Mr Millett is now feeding 125 head of cattle besides a large number of sheep and hogs and has on hand enough feed for all his stock until next summer. He states that all the grain he will raise hereafter will be about 100 acres of barley, which yields from 50 to 60 bushels per acre and which brings a good price in the markets.

Mr Millett's place is 25 miles from Junction City and has 25 miles of fence.

ANOTHER PIONEER DEAD.

Interesting Budget of Items From Hadleyville.

HADLEYVILLE, Dec 30.
The many friends of Mrs Sarah Neely, familiarly known as Aunt Sally Neely, regret to hear of her death in Southern Oregon. Mrs Neely was another of Lane county's pioneers, having come here in the fifties and resided for over thirty years on what is known as the old Neely place in this community, now owned by Schrimpf Bros. Here her children grew to manhood and womanhood, four of whom survive her, and reside in Southern Oregon where the family removed from here some twelve years ago. One by one they are passing away until the time will soon be when none will be left who endured the hardships of the early days of this beautiful valley.

Neve and Winnie Hadley who attend school in Eugene, are spending the holidays at their home in our ville.

Mr and Mrs T J McCulloch visited at Mr Emerson's over Sunday.

Mr Lee Logan, of Crow, is visiting friends here for a few days.

Chas and Frank Hadley, John Schrimpf and John Briggs are camping in the mountains for a few days, for their health it is reported.

Quite a number from here attended Mr Henry Gates' talk the 27th. All seemed to enjoy themselves, particularly Uncle Henry Coleman and Joe Robbins, it being their first ball this season.

Who wonder if James Osmont left his flag in Idaho, as he passed through our ville the other day without them. Webfoot isn't bad after all as wanderers often return.

Mr S Emerson was in Eugene last Friday. He says the roads are extra good for this month.

Mrs D Zeman and Mrs Ida Simpson, of Lorane, visited at Mrs Holland's last Thursday.

Old Sassa Claus made one and all happy Xmas with a liberal number of presents.

About twenty relatives and friends took dinner with Mr and Mrs Chas Lovell Xmas day. All report a pleasant time and fine dinner.

The ball at Chas Hadley's Xmas night was well attended and enjoyed by all present.

ANOTHER COPPER STRIKE.

Splendid Vein Uncovered at Bohemia Mines.

DAILY GUARD, Dec 31
A GUARD reporter was informed today that another splendid find of rich copper ore has just been made in the Bohemia mining district.

Sunday work was brought down from the mines to Cottage Grove that a 3-foot vein of solid gray copper was uncovered at the Three Brothers claim at Judson Rock, which is thought to be the best thing for the Bohemia district yet struck. Samples from this vein assay very high and the claim promises to yield thousands for its owners.

The mines in Bohemia district are taking on new life since the railroad survey has been started, and as the railroad is now an assured fact the mines will grow now on boom. The Bohemia and Blue River districts will make Lane county one of the most important mining sections in the United States.
