IS TRACY INSANE?

His Actions at Renton Bear out This Theory.

HIS FRIENDS HELPING HIM.
SEATTLE, Washington, July 9.—Many members of the posse and people in general in this section express the opinion that Tracy, the Oregon outlaw, is insane. They base their opinions on the Renton fiasco. Many incidents support this theory. Anderson's statement concerning the murderer's four friends who met him after he landed in Seattle is conclusive. No doubt now remains that Tracy is receiving assistance. With this outside help, Tracy's entrance to the Garrell's home becomes inexplicable. He was not hungry. Nothing that he did or secured at the house could excuse his carelessness. In fact, the only thing he did, except talk to the three women, was to wash himself. He saw the train go past with the armed deputies, but made no effort to escape, though he had then every opportunity.

AN ACT THAT APPEARS QUEER.
Again, the fact that he sent a strange boy downtown to sell watches and buy revolvers looks queer. The murderer had his friends, who were then some, where near Renton. If he had really desired the weapons, the safest way to get them was from these friends. He had parted from them only two hours before he met the boy. Miss Baker says the outlaw really believed until almost the time that he left the house that the lad would return. At least Tracy spoke to this effect. The presence of heavily armed guards around the house did not seem to shake his faith. In addition to the watches Tracy gave the young man $9, every cent he had in his possession, and when he took his departure the whole matter, lad, money, watches and revolvers seemed to have slipped from his memory.

From whatever side Tracy's visit to the Garrell's home is viewed, it seems the fantasy of a disordered brain. It was on neither reason nor necessity. Its only explanation is that the outlaw is not in his right mind; that the mental strain he has undergone since his farewell to the Salem people has proved too much for even his iron nerves, and that he has crossed the invisible line between sanity and insanity.

AN OUTBREAK PLANNED.
Man Found on the Prison Wall at Salem.

SALEM, July 9.—James B. Simpson, night guard inside the penitentiary at midnight last night, while making his rounds, discovered a man on top of the prison wall surrounding the yard. Simpson watched the intruder for a time, then fired at him, when the mysterious visitor disappeared. The shot aroused the other officers and a search was made on the outside of the wall but to no effect.

It is believed that the man was on wall for the purpose of passing arms to convicts on the inside of the enclosure to be used in another outbreak.

HOP LICE.

More Numerous This Year Than Usual.

One of the most annoying pests this valley has to deal with is the hop louse or fly. Since its first appearance here has been in evidence to a greater or less extent every season, and has caused considerable damage to the hop crop. On some years portions of yards that were left until late for picking have been totally ruined.

There is a great difference in the effect of the different seasons upon this insect. This year the hop men mostly report that they are beginning worse than usual. In nearly every yard in this county they are now to be found in great abundance. This is not earlier than they usually appear, but they are here in greater numbers than usual.

Every July the growers have to work industriously with their sprays of quassia chips and whale oil soap, and this year they are preparing to do the work with the greatest possible care.

The cool weather which has prevailed during the months of May and June has been favorable to the propagation of the lice, and is accountable for their great abundance.

Startling proof of a wonderful advance in medicine is given by druggist G. W. Roberts of Elizabeth, W. Va. An old man there had long suffered with what good doctors pronounced incurable cancer. A RUNAWAY.—Last evening while Mrs. J. J. Poll and daughter, Miss May, were watering their horse in the mill-race at the foot of East Seventh street, it became frightened while the young lady was letting down the check rein, and ran away. Mrs. Poll jumped out of the buggy to try and stop the horse but was unsuccessful and away sped the horse with the buggy in which was little Paul LaDuke who accompanied Mrs. Poll and daughter. The boy was thrown out of the buggy and catching his clothes on a projection, he swung there for awhile, but soon dropped off into a mud puddle. Soon afterward the horse and buggy landed up against a fence at East Seventh and Pearl streets.

SENATOR BOOTH HOME

From His Trip Through South-eastern Oregon.

A GREAT COUNTRY.
Senator R. A. Booth returned on this morning's early train from his trip over the old Military wagon road across the Cascades and through South-eastern Oregon, which was made for the purpose of inspecting the lands to the amount of about 1,000,000 acres recently purchased by the Booth-Kelly Lumber Co. from the Military Wagon Road Co.

Mr. Booth was accompanied on his trip by his son, Roy, of Eugene; Chas. Siles, of Josephine county, and Frank Beck, Jr., of Vacaville, Cal. Starting from Eugene on June 16, the party arrived at Caldwell, Idaho, on July 7 where they took the train for home via Portland, having traveled overland 550 miles in that time.

Mr. Booth talked interestingly to a GUARD reporter this afternoon about his trip. Crossing the Cascade mountains, where a great deal of snow was encountered, they passed through the head of the Deschutes country then through the Klamath Indian reservation, the Sprague River valley, Drew valley, Goose Lake valley to Lakeview, which point is a half of the total distance traveled. Leaving Lakeview the party went east through Klamath prairie, Warner valley, Chislaw valley, Wild Horse and White Horse valleys, Owyhee valley and Jordan valley, thence to Caldwell, Idaho.

Mr. Booth spoke enthusiastically of the country which they passed through. They found some fine timber in Eastern Oregon and a great deal of it, much more than was expected. As to the grazing lands, that country cannot be beat. He said that Goose Lake valley, in which Lakeview is situated, is one of the most fertile tracts of land he ever saw. It is 12,000 miles in extent and is the most thickly populated district passed through. Mr. Booth found the town of Lakeview to be made up of very energetic, busy and prosperous people. It will be remembered that two or three years ago the whole town was swept away by fire, but with characteristic enterprise the people replaced their old buildings with substantial brick structures in many cases and now all traces of the fire are nearly obliterated.

From Lakeview on the valley lands are all held by heavy operators and owners of cattle, holding from 1,000 to 25,000 acres of land each. The principal operators are the Warner Valley Stock Co., the French-Glen Co. and Miller & Luz, the latter being the largest concern on the line of the Military grant.

Mr. Booth found all the people in that section of the country in easy circumstances, many very wealthy and not a single poor person in the country. They all made their money there and started in with limited capital in many instances. Mr. Booth said that he considers that to be the finest part of the country for young men to make a start, and there are splendid opportunities yet.

In speaking of the climate Mr. Booth said that there has been a great climatic change in the past 25 years. There has not been a hard winter for a dozen or so years, sheep going all winter without feeding, and cattle are fed only a short time in the winter.

NEED RAILROADS.
The great need of that country is a railroad leading to the outside world, and there are bright prospects of one or more lines being built through there in the immediate future. At present the trade of that section, and it amounts to a great deal, goes to Winnemucca and Reno, Nev., and Red Bluff, Cal. Mr. Booth says the people of Portland and the Willamette valley should not let the first opportunity to secure rail connections with that rich country pass by. In his opinion a road would be well supported and would pay splendidly.

MORE RUNAWAYS.

Mrs. Graham and Little Barrett Girl Injured—Al Gordon's Runaway.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Barrett and little daughters and Mrs. H. W. Graham while riding in a buggy near Bangs' Park had a runaway in which Mrs. Graham and one of the little girls were pretty badly bruised up.

Mrs. Graham and the little girl had just got into the buggy when the seat tipped over, throwing Mrs. Graham out. The horse became frightened at this and started to run. The little girl jumped out, and in doing so was severely injured and unconscious for awhile. Mrs. Graham's injuries were also severe.

The horse ran on into Eugene and was caught, but little damage being done to the buggy.

AL GORDON'S RUNAWAY.
Just before noon today Al Gordon was unloading some lumber in front of S. B. Eakin's residence lot on East Eighth and High streets, when the team, a couple of frisky colts, became frightened and started to run. They dashed the wagon up against tree, badly damaging the vehicle, and then ran on but were caught before going far.

Will Not Take Steps to Oust Glassford as Police Judge.

WALLA WALLA, July 9.—No new developments have become public in the controversy between Chief of Police Kauffman and Police Judge Glassford, the story of the trouble appearing in these columns Tuesday. It was threatened that proceedings would be begun at the council meeting last night whereby Glassford was to be removed as judge of the police court. Upon reflection by Kauffman and his friends, it seems to have been determined to let a bad matter alone, and nothing was done. The council met but not a word was said relative to the case.
