

Catarrh

It is a constitutional disease. It originates in a scrofulous condition of the blood and depends on that condition. It often causes headache and dizziness, and the taste, smell and hearing, and impairs the vocal organs, disturbs the stomach, and is always radically and permanently cured by the blood-purifying, alterative and tonic action of

Hood's Sarsaparilla

This great medicine has wrought the most wonderful cures of all diseases depending on scrofula or the scrofulous habit. Hood's Pills are the best cathartic.

X-Ray Not in It.

"As I understand it, an X-ray will go right through a man's head. There is nothing else quite so penetrating, is there?"

"Oh, I don't know. Did you ever hear my daughter sing?"—Tit Bits.

It Cures While You Walk.

After a Foot-Ease makes tight and new shoes easy to wear. It is a certain cure for sweating, callus, corns, and itching feet. Try it. It is made of medicinal herbs and is perfectly safe. All drug stores, 25c. G. M. Stinson, Lowell, Mass.

Often the Case.

"They say his wife drove him to drink."

"Perhaps she did but from what I know of him I think he would have been awfully disappointed if she had!"—Chicago Post.

How to Get a Sample.

If you are particular about the spices you use and want to try the brand which is par excellence, send us two 2-cent stamps with the name of your grocer, and we will send you by mail a 10-cent tin of Monopole White Pepper or Cayenne or Ginger or other variety you may select. Will make you know their strength and pungency and purity better than anything else. Address Wadhams & Kerr Bros., Portland, Oregon.

Her Position.

Mrs. Park—What kind of servants do you prefer—white or black, Irish or German?"

Mrs. Lane—I've gotten beyond that. I'm looking for servants that prefer me.—Puck.

Better than gold—like it in color—Hamilton's Wizard Oil, which cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia and every pain. 50c.

A Hard One.

The eminent Boston professor who declares that there can be no more languages invented has probably not heard of the Georgetown man with a hare lip who is teaching a parrot to talk.—Washington Post.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

An Unfavorable Symptom.

"You have what I call a quinine cough," said the doctor, proceeding to mix a dose of medicine for his caller.

"And a quinine cough, I suppose," wheezed the patient, "is a sort of a Persian lark."—Youth's Companion.

PEST OF THE SUMMER

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT THE MOSQUITO.

Hatches in Stagnant Water, Passes Through Three Stages of Life and Becomes a Busy Seeker After Blood—Disseminator of Disease.

There are a few facts which may in the future be incorporated in the biography of the mosquito, facts which have been collected partly by the inquiry of scientists, and partly by the observations of laymen who live in sections where the pestiferous insect thrives in great numbers. The mosquito is observed in three different forms, as an egg, in larvae, as a wiggle-tail, and as a mosquito with wings. Eggs are hatched by the warmth of the sun. One mosquito may lay 1,000,000 eggs. Often many of these eggs are destroyed. Mosquitoes cannot propagate without the aid of water. The eggs are deposited on the surface of the water. Eggs hatch within a few weeks after they are deposited by the female. They develop wiggle-tails, the curious forms of life often found in rain barrels, cisterns, in gutters filled with stagnant water and in stagnant pools. In this wiggle-tail stage of its development the mosquito breathes through its tail. He spends this part of his life in rushing to and from the surface of the water. When he reaches the surface, with head down, he shoves two delicate siphons through the water level, supplies his lungs with the needed air and dives under the water again, where he sucks in the vegetable juices necessary to his sustenance. He remains a wiggle-tail for a week or ten days, when his wings develop and he becomes a navigator of the air and sails forth to torment members of the human family and other animals. He is fond of animal blood. He needs it in his business. He cannot propagate without it. He also likes sugar. Blood, sugar and vegetable juices are his principal diet. A mosquito's food capacity is roughly estimated at one drop of blood. His dimensions are uncertain.

DOWN EAST NAMES.

Odd Designations of Various Persons in the State of Maine.

There is in the northern part of Piscataquis County a most estimable family, which consists of Mr. and Mrs. Ossian Calligan and their seven children. Three of the children are girls, and the remaining four, naturally enough, are boys. The boys were christened Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, while the daughters rejoice in the names of Faith, Hope and Charity. They are said to be among the most attractive young women in that section of the State. There is another Maine family which also deserves mention in this connection. They originally came from Virginia, and settled in the northwestern part of Hancock County soon after the war. Mr. and Mrs. Erasmus Black are negroes of the darkest possible shade, and their five children are named as follows: Abraham Lincoln Black, Harriet Beecher Stowe Black, Hannibal Hamlin Black, Julia Ward Howe Black, and Ulisses Grant Black. All of the family are still living, but the father and mother and Harriet are the only ones who now reside in Maine.

Among others are A. Hogz, a well known groceryman in the western part of the State, and A. Bird Cough, a prosperous Bar Harbor groceryman. Neal & Pray was formerly a well known undertaking firm in one of the towns along the coast, while I. C. Sparrow is even now in the ice cream business over east. Cassens Cassens is to-day one of Rockland's most respected citizens. Forty years ago Larky Sharky was one of our most known men in Bangor. Clog Ogeon and Oakum Sully are both enterprising farmers in New Sweden. The list might even now be continued almost indefinitely. And there are still many towns to be heard from.—Kennebec, Me., Journal.

Keeps Kisses for Royalty.

Many comments were made because the German Emperor kissed Prince Henry when the latter returned from his recent visit to this country. As a matter of fact, although Emperor best liked the greater lesser of men among the sovereigns of the world, he is also a hearty handshaker and the freest of all monarchs in this particular. Indeed, he and the King of Italy are the only supreme rulers who shake hands at all with other than brother sovereigns.

The Kaiser reserves his kisses for royalty exclusively. When he visits a monarch or receives a visit from one he salutes him with six kisses—three before each check. This sometimes be a crowd of thousands of onlookers, not to mention a regiment or so of soldiers.

But the war lord will shake hands with almost anyone. He has a grip that is famous among his subjects, too, and the favor of his hand grasp is not assiduously sought by those who have had some experience with it. His Majesty has a big, strong hand, with muscles like iron. They have been cultivated by many years of sword exercise. His handshaker is one that is not soon forgotten, and when he greets a visitor with a handshaker they say at court, "His Majesty has made another lasting impression."

This grip, it is only fair to say, he reserves for strong men. For the opposite sex he has a hand that is as soft as velvet and a courtesy that is elegant.

Vagaries of Memory.

What is remembered depends, of course, much on individual temperament or intellectual tendency, but the incidents are always in the nature of milestones. Thousands of competent persons can never recollect a date, even when the day was of importance to themselves or when, as for instance, when preparing for examination, they had specially tried to remember accurately.

An enormous number of people are embarrassed through life by a difficulty in recollecting faces, yet kings, policemen and artists rarely or never forget one. The present writer has reached the age when the difficulty of recalling names quickly becomes annoying, yet he never forgets the number of a house or shop if he has once heard of it or seen it. The broad truth is, memory is almost as individual a possession as character and that the historian when quoting personal testimony must make up his own mind whether he is listening to Herodotus or to Mr. —.

Every reader can fill in the blank.

Common sense extracts more solid comfort from life than genius does.

FIRE-PROOF RAILWAY CARS.

What Prussian Government Officials Seek to Accomplish.

The managers of American railways might, to their own great advantage as well as to that of their patrons, take a leaf out of the book of the government railway control of Prussia.

These officials have ordered that experiments should be made looking toward the substitution upon the 30,000 miles of railroads which they operate of non-combustible cars for the more or less inflammable boxes in which the public are now transported from place to place. The steel trucks are, of course, already comparatively safe from destruction by fire, but the construction of the superstructure of these coaches has always been of such a nature as to be something of a menace to the traveler's safety. The walls and floors are ordinarily been constructed of woods that are peculiarly inflammable, and the use of oils in their cleaning and decoration has intensified the danger. The Prussian experiments, in recognition of these facts, are to be made in the direction of making floors and walls of materials chemically treated so as to make them non-combustible, and of the construction of seats stuffed with fire-proof cocoanut fiber and having asbestos coverings.

It is an important step and in the right direction; and in a country like our own, where there is so much more travel and a comparatively greater duty for conserving the security of the traveling public over more than 180,000 miles of road bed, it would seem as if it would be a wise policy to follow. As a rule, our railways are exceptionally well managed, and the traveler in the United States gets a vast amount of comfort and convenience at a very slight personal risk, but the further step toward the making of fire-proof coaches would serve to reduce that risk to a minimum which would amount almost to its total extinction.—Harper's Weekly.

BY THE PING-PONG POST.

Little Ball Had and Other Strange Ways of Sending Letters.

Liverpool postmen have recently been in a state bordering on distraction. Some foolish person in that city inaugurated a new fashion of using ping-pong balls as postcards. The balls were stamped, an address written under the stamp and the message

The Oldest and Best.

S. S. S. is a combination of roots and herbs of great curative powers, and when taken into the circulation searches out and removes all manner of poisons from the blood, without the least shock or harm to the system.

On the contrary, the general health begins to improve from the first dose, for S. S. S. is not only a blood purifier, but an excellent tonic, and strengthens and builds up the constitution while purging the blood of impurities. S. S. S. cures all diseases of a blood poison origin, Cancer, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Chronic Sores and Ulcers, Eczema, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, Herpes and similar troubles, and is an infallible cure and the only antidote for that most horrible disease, Contagious Blood Poison.

A record of nearly fifty years of successful cures is a record to be proud of. S. S. S. is more popular today than ever. It numbers its friends by the thousands. Our medical correspondence is larger than ever in the history of the medicine. Many write to thank us for the great good S. S. S. has done them, while others are seeking advice about their cases. All letters receive prompt and careful attention. Our physicians have made a life-long study of Blood and Skin Diseases, and the ordinary practitioner who makes a specialty of no one disease, makes a specialty of this service.

Produce Chronic Catarrh.

Strange Misapprehension.

Born—How do you like that last poem of mine?"

Naguss—First rate. It's so restful, so soothing, don't you know.

Born—Restful! Great Scott, man! It's an epic!

Naguss—Good Heavens! I thought it was a lullaby.

His Good Wife.

Dr. Price—Your husband's trouble is melancholia. Now, you'd help him materially if you'd only arrange some pleasant surprise for him.

Mrs. Sharp—For I know! I know! I'll tell him you said he needn't bother about paying your bill till he feels like it.

A Real Bargain.

Mr. Youngthing—How in the world did you come to do that money in the bank instead of buying that automobile you came to want?

Mrs. (triumphantly)—Why, I read in this morning's paper that the interest had been reduced from four per cent to three!—Puck.

Gutta Percha Pens.

Pens of hardened gutta percha have been repeatedly tried in this country and England, but have not met with success.
