SAFURDAY.....OCTOBER 18

WAS JUST TO HIS WIFE.

The innate sense of justice of the late ex-Governor John Whiteaker made him just to his wife, the aged companion who with him so well shared the joys and sorrows of over half a century. How often it is the case that the faithful wife who has helped accumulate and more, save the common property, is left just with what the law allows her—no more! She had helped earn it, save it; he knew it was safe in her hands and to her it was left. The editor of the Oregonian, who from a long personal acquaintance appreciates the stuff the first governor of Oregon was made of, has this comment:

The late ex-Governor Whiteaker attested at once his devotion to his wife and his confidence that his children, grown to man's and woman's estate, could take care of themselves, by his will, in which he devised his entire estate to the former. To an unmarried daughter he entrusted the entire management of the estate, confident that she would administer its affairs competently and conscientiously. The wife had been his lifelong companion and was full and equal partner in his work and its accumulations. Advocates of "woman's rights" in a property sense have cause to honor John Whiteaker, since he accepted without reservation the fact of the wife's equality with the husband in the accumulations of their joint endeavor.

HIS WIFE'S REASON.

Butte, Montana, Miner

"Did you ever notice how women carry everything in one hand?" said an old bachelor to a friend as they sat in the clubroom. "There, now, look at that woman. She has an umbrella, a pocketbook, a handkerchief, a pair of gloves in her left hand and two or three packages tucked under her left arm. And her right arm is dangling at her side with nothing at all in her right hand. I asked my sister once why women did that and she said it was to leave the right hand free to carry the skirts. But I have my doubts about that. Since then I have noticed that a woman in a short skirt does the same, and if she does wear a traveling gown she catches the back seam, tucks it under the package-laden arm and still goes on with her one hand free. Now, why do you suppose they do that?" "Well, I don't pretend to explain the ways of women," said the friend, "but a little friend of mine says it is necessary in Butte to have the right hand free in order to get along the street. How? Oh, to push people out of the way or knock 'em down if absolutely necessary. She says no one keeps to the right in Butte and women must have one hand with which to defend herself. That is a pretty good reason, but I think my wife's is the best."

"What's that?"

"Because."

It is said that the historical prison ship Jersey, which did duty for the British in New York harbor during the War of the Revolution, has been found buried under twelve feet of accumulated dirt in the vicinity of the Brooklyn navy-yard—at least the half burned hull is there. Of course it will be raised if it will stick together. And there is no reason why the oak timbers should not be sound after a burial of a century and a fifth. The water and mud have kept the air from the planks, which ordinarily prevents rot.

The small sheepman in Grant county seems to be between the "devil and the deep sea." If the forest reserve is established he must give place to the large stockraiser that has the pull, and if not he will have to face the owners of timber claims, who will want rent for their pasture that the small sheepman cannot afford to pay. It takes several sections to range a band of sheep in the mountains, and if the stockman has to pay rent for many 160 acre timber claims it will become a drain on his exchequer he cannot stand.

A legal ton of coal at the pit mouth is 2240 pounds. The Pennsylvania striking miners claim that they are compelled to deliver from 2700 to 3400 pounds, and even then are often "docked." The trust claims that this excess of 460 to 1160 pounds and the subsequent "dockage" are necessary to compensate for waste which the men should leave underground. The men claim that they send up no such amount of waste.

HAS REWARD FOR BASE INGRATITUDE.

The Duke of Orleans, the prince who dares to aspire to a throne in France, has just visited England. He came on business to look after some family property in London, and received not a single invitation either from royalty or aristocracy.

A couple of years ago this young man, whose father and grandfather before him experienced the most generous hospitality from the British court when they were kicked out of France, who was himself born near London and repeatedly received favors at the hands of the aged Queen Victoria, grossly insulted his benefactress by writing for publication a letter addressed to the caricaturist, Willette, of Paris, applauding his pictorial libels on the aged sovereign.

For that he was denied admittance to Great Britain, although it is said he humbly apologized. Recently he asked King Edward to let him come, and the permission was granted readily enough. But the king will have no personal dealings with him.

WICKED CHICAGO.

According to the American prohibition year book just compiled, one-half the divorce suits in Chicago are traceable to liquor. Statistics are quoted showing that the city has thirty-one miles of saloons, if placed side by side in a row, to eight miles of churches.

This over proportion of saloons strikes one most forcibly when it is considered that the churches are open to the public but a few hours during the week while the saloons, or many of them, do business twenty-four hours a day and seven days a week.

It staggers belief to learn that the consumption of liquor therein amounts to eighty-eight gallons for every man, woman and child of the 1,750,000 population. It is truly a thirsty place.

SAD RESULT OF TEMPERANCE LECTURE.

Two maiden sisters of mature years had been to a temperance lecture. To demonstrate the disastrous effect of alcohol upon life the lecturer had poured a portion of whisky into a glass which contained water and a mass of lively animalcules of different unsightly shapes and sizes. The result of the mixture was that the shoals of ugly-looking fishes were soon bereft of life and were seen floating helplessly in the water.

On the way home, when nearing a saloon, one sister remarked to the other: "Mary, will you go in and get some whisky?" "Some whisky!" astonishingly remarked the other. "Yes, dear, for I really can never again drink water with all those horrible things floating about. I would rather drink them dead than alive."

The crews of the big ocean freighters that are doing business between Pacific and Chinese ports are composed of Chinamen. The owners are under bonds to return the Chinamen to their native land in the sum of five hundred dollars each. The peculiar looking chickens aboard a liner now in Portland are not educated up to the use of wheat, paying no attention to a handful of wheat thrown among them. When tried with rice they greedily devoured it.

President Mitchell of the United Mineworkers is experiencing some of the annoyances that greatness brings with it. Arriving at the temporary Presidential residence, yesterday he was met with a crowd of twenty or thirty newspaper reporters lined up in hope of getting a precious word or two from the labor leader. He wearily queried, "Are they always there?"

New York coal dealers hold their stocks at the eighteen-dollar a ton mark, about double the price at which it was sold before the strike. Of course fortunes have been made by coal dealers and speculators.

The Portland Telegram has a picture of a train of German "palace" cars taken from a photograph caught by an American traveler. They look more like our freight train cabooses.

Grand Shooting Match.

There will be a grand shooting match for a beef at Rott Newman's place two miles west of Eugene on Thursday, Oct. 23d. The affair will be under the management of H. C. Owen, which insures a success.

CRESWELL NEWS NOTES.

An Interesting Letter From Our Regular Correspondent at That Place.

Guard Special Service.

CRESWELL, Oct. 15.—Frank Swim, who has been suffering with blood-poisoning is out of danger.

The roadmaster is engaged in improving the highways.

The reception of the new Methodist minister, Rev. Housel, last Friday evening was greatly enjoyed by all present.

Miss Genevieve Howe is very ill with typhoid fever. Her many friends hope for her speedy recovery.

Shep Smith has begun the erection of a comfortable addition to his new house. R. H. Parsons is boss carpenter.

Dr. Scarborough has finished picking his prune crop. The crop was of very fine quality. Apple picking is next in order.

At the last meeting of the W. O. W. R. H. Parsons was elected clerk, vice John Lindsay, resigned.

Charlie Stanton has returned from a hunting trip to the Pine Openings. He was chock full of venison and fish.

The lovers of the terpsichorean art had a grand ball at the hall last Friday evening.

There are something like 100 pupils in attendance at the public schools. The teachers are giving excellent satisfaction.

Mrs. Melton who has been visiting in Illinois for some time is expected home soon. She says there's no place like Oregon for her.

Our genial blacksmith, Chas. Schmidt, has taken a partner, viz. Miss Wyatt Lower. We tender our congratulations and trust their troubles may be little ones.

PLEASANT HILL, Oct. 15.—School commenced on the 30th with the usual attendance.

Fred Callison and family have moved to their new home in Eugene.

Walter Renwick and family, accompanied by Miss Anna Parks, left today for Ashland where they will spend the winter.

Miss Daisy Jay is visiting friends in Albany.

The appointment of R. G. Hemphill as road supervisor, vice W. Renwick, resigned, gives general satisfaction.

Chas. Teeters and family, of Cottage Grove, were visitors at the home of Henry Mitchell a few days since.

Miss Eisle Parks began school in the Edenville district last week.

Bert Matthews, with his new engine is kept quite busy these days chopping grain and sawing wood.

Tom Walker left last week for a visit to his old home in Canada.

Alex McKenzie, accompanied the remains and bereaved family of the late Howard Baughman home from Ashland last week.

P. L. Bristow has rented the Rigdon and Renwick farms, residing upon the latter farm.

Carl Baughman left Saturday for Petaluma, Cal., where his wife has already preceded him.

P. N. Shelly is recovering from an attack of typhoid pneumonia.

Amos Walker returned Wednesday from a visit to Monmouth.

The high esteem in which the late Howard Baughman was held by all who knew him, was manifest in the immense concourse of people who assembled to pay their last respects to his remains. The cortege reached the entire distance from the church to the cemetery and was probably the largest ever seen on Pleasant Hill. People were in attendance from all parts of the county and some from a greater distance, notably, B. F. Mulkey, president Ashland Normal School.

Thurston Items.

Guard Special Service.

THURSTON, Oct. 15.—School commenced last Monday under the management of Prof. Clem, of Fairmount.
