Eugene Weekiy Guard. CAMPBELL BROS., Proprietors.

0

EUGENE ..... OREGON.

They are bringing in the train robbers one by one.

If the earth were equally divided share would be about 23½ acres.

Let us hope Mr. Rockefeller may not have a chance to pay that $1,000,000 for a new stomach. Oil is high enough now.

Eastern society women have the tattooing craze. And still there are some who look upon a painted Indian as a savage.

Yale students are to collect the voices of all remaining Indian tribes in a phonograph. Presumably Yale is planning a new yell.

first-class Christian.

A member of the Reichstag has made the wind, the sun shines, children are all-life-union with the dearly loved one. the same remark about the Kalser that born, grow up and die, and the works When my feet first touched these shores, the parrot applied to itself after the of man crumble and decay. Nothing dog got through with it.

The occasional death of a Filipino sultan doesn't make much difference in dying and gazing into the dear face of hundred times before, will you be my the revolution over there. The sultanic understudies are always ready.

very glad to be first lieutenants retired on half pay.

Aguinaldo wants the United States to make the Filipinos a loan of $80,-000,000. We have no doubt that Ag. knows of a man who would be perfectly willing to handle the money for the Filipinos.

The proposition to limit the amount of wealth which any man may law-General Coxey that the country has a sity do not destroy it. It is more beauti- his library. right to expect from him.

What a pity it is that our learned anthropologists never discover that a man limits or the life of one good deed? has criminal eyes, mouth, ears and nose When this man lay dying he didn't until after he has committed a murder! Oh, Science! how many frauds are perpetrated in thy helpless name!

More money is being turned into the "conscience fund" at Washington every year. Either the American conscience is becoming better or more people with troublesome consciences are stealing each year. At present the morals of the case seem a little dubious.

A young man in one of the Northhumanity. western States committed suicide because he was reputed to be the home liest man in the county. There was a young man in this country once who rose above that kind of handicap and became President of the United States.

tonicism is not obliterated or altered ..... by contact with alien conditions and peoples. It is this complexion of the German character, if we give to it the respect which it deserves, which must needs provide serious cause for reflection in considering the continuance of our moral and economic dominance in the Western Hemisphere. It is certain that, having the necessary physical power, these Germans in South America will not long permit a continuance among its inhabitants each person's of the disturbing and anarchical conditions characterizing the present condition of the countries in which they are domiciled, which prevents any real progress and arrests legitimate economic and industrial advancement. Who, therefore, could measure the danger if these self-same German colonists, in order to safeguard properly gotten them?" the diversified and valuable interests which they have at stake, should deem it advisable to take the reins of government into their own hands?

Over in a corner of Europe hundreds of dark-skinned men are digging up ing wear of time. In the heart where buried cities, and the wise ones have That man who pummeled his wife found beneath one set of ruins another. because she declined to join him at and below that still another, and no prayers probably regards himself as a man can say how many cities and centuries lie still further beneath the been wild enough in its flights of hope ground. Above, the sands shift with to pleture that one most holy thought of formed by man's hands endures. It is a far cry from the buried cities to a bed-with more of promise. And now, Louise, side in Cincinnati, where a man lay let me ask you, as I have asked you a a sick woman who had been carried to wife?" his bedside to take a final look at the "Goupart. I have a father whose every man she had ardently loved through earthly wish is for the good of his chil-We can't all be captains of industry, the long years. "Mamma," said the dren, and not for worlds would I-I----"I understand," said St. Denis, as the and we don't expect to be. There are dying man, "you have been a quite a number of us who would be good wife and mother. You have maiden hesitated and stopped. "And be never failed me, and I have always assured that I would not ask, even for loved you. You are a good woman." hie itself at thy name, suppose I ask

"Philip," she said, and there were tears him and he bids me take you?" in her voice, "all that you can possibly "Then I am by his permission only say of me I can say of you. You were what in heart I have been for years." A short time longer those two sat there. always good to me and to the children. You have made your wife happy." and their words had a solemn, prayerful Nothing formed by man's hands en. cast, such as marks the holiest gratitude of the human soul; and as they walked dures. But love lasts for the ages. The towards the house, they spoke not of the kindness and sympathy and tenderness subject upon which their life joys hung. that makes a man and a woman cling

It was already dusk when they reachtogether, fills their lives with hope and ed the hall, and while Louise went to refully hold to $10,000,000 is not meeting happiness, is a fire that warms human- move her moccasins, St. Denis went to with the enthusiastic support from ity. It is pure gold. Time and adver- seek Brion St. Julien. He found him in "How now, Goupart?" cried the old ful than a field of flowers, and it blos-man, as his young friend took a seat. soms and spreads and blossoms again "What has happened? Any more Inin other hearts, until who shall tell the What on earth makes you look dians? so sober?"

White Hand

A Tale of the Early Settlers

of Louisiana.

BY AUSTIN C. BURDICK

*

CHAPTER VII.-(Continued.)

"Speak to me, Louise," uttered Goupart, now speaking quickly and eagerly,

"and tell me if you have forgotten those words I used to speak. Have you for-

"Then let me speak them again. Let me now speak them as one who knows the ways of life; and to one who can judge for herself of the deep meaning that passing years have given to all those emotions that have outlived the destroythine image was first enshrined, none oth er has ever come. I have cherished your sweet face, and in humble prayer have I begged that I might see you once more on earth. And, at times, my soul has

I dreamed not that I was near to thee.

But I found you, and here I sat me down to pray with more of hope, and to hope

"No-not one."

faces have set on foot. "It is a deep and sober subject which is think of his medals, his fame, his poston my mind," answered the youth. tion, the material things that had come "Then out with it, for I am father coninto his life. They were as are the fessor here."

buried cities, builded by man, enduring St. Denis knew the marquis too well to for a while, to be lost in the future. hesitate, and he spoke boldly and to the But the flame of love burned strong and point.

clear in those last days, and those who "My friend," he said, "that I love ev study mankind and realize the shortery member of your immediate family ness of life and the vastness of etermust be apparent to you; but you will not be jealous if I also inform you that nity must know that the true greatness my love for Louise is rather stronger than for any one else." of the man lay in that treasure that cannot die-love for his family and for

St. Julien arose and placed his hand upon the youth's head, and, while big tears gathered in his eyes, he said:

"Goupart, my noble boy, you have made me the happiest of men. O, I have prayed for this moment many a time, and now it has come. Among all my acquaintances, you were the only one to

"Yes. He isn't just the man for

"Hark!" interrupted Goupart, "What

"I heard nothing," said the old man was that noise?'

transpired in the library!

CHAPTER VIII.

carefully, but he could find nothing to excite fear. Only one thing came up to had come down from Fort Rosalle

Lobois had been gone a week, and the usual. Goupart, and Louise, and Louis had been playing at childish games, and

H

Yes, yes-Simon must joyous laugh as Louise ran away to dress and in fifteen minutes they all met there again. But they had found nothing.

herself for the out-door sport. The moon rode high in the heavens, and ber face was but slightly turned away from earth. In the wide courtyard the merry voices rang tunefully out upon the calm night air, and the glad notes were caught up and flung back by the distant forest. Away over the brow of a gentle hill,

ern. It was a key! And how came lien's gate?

Hark!

the

where a copse of beautiful acacia trees side were left standing, moved many dark objects. They were crouching in the wood, and listening to the shouts that ed, trembling like an aspen. came from the distant dweiling. Anon "What of it?"

they gathered together and conversed in a strange tongue, and then they moved moccasin!" While the people were crowding about slowly up the hillside, and crept down the spot, one of the women found an towards the corn field. On they moved, arrow, and in a moment more a moccalike specters in the moonlight, until they neared the high barricade, and then setsin was picked up.

"The Chickasaws!" exclaimed Tony, tled lower down and crept on like huge cats approaching their prey. Straight as soon as he saw the moccasin. "O heavens!" gasped Brion St. Juthey moved towards the postern, and lien. And with a deep groan he stagthere they lay, beneath the wooden wall, gered back. But he quickly revived, for the thought of pursuit came to him. Gos- handling, the treatment has become and listened to the merry voices from within. Soon one of them arose to his part hastened the men to pursuit in wild, feet. He was in the shade of the wall, but yet the many colored paint upon his frantic tones.

Just as the great old clock in the hall dark skin could be seen, and the duskyold the hour of four in the morning, the browed warrior was no more concealed. party returned to the house, pale and fa-They were all-a score of them-painted were pencilling the eastern horizon as the rather than a tamer; and he is really the same fantastic manner, and the marquis and Goupart stood in the sitting a teacher in every sense of the word. same dusky hue marked the brow of each. He who had arisen to his feet proroom. One of the women brought in a He must be a man of fearlessness, to duced something from his pouch, and lamp, and the youth started when he saw be sure, but he must also possess the applied it to the lock of the heavy posthow pale his host looked. And St. Ju- magnetic qualities, the quick underthat lien started, too; for he looked into his standing and the ready sympathy child of the forest by the key of St. Jucompanion's face, and it looked terror- which characterize the successfu

They spoke not a word. The old man oved forward and extended his hand, and on the next moment his head was pillowed upon Goupart's shoulder, and animals is selected with far more car such deep, mighty sobs broke forth from and receives a much larger reward his lips that it seemed as though his than the instructor of men and boys. heart were rent in sunder. And one by Then, too, he has this advantage over one the eager servants came into that the public-school instructor-he choosroom, for they dared not yet trust themselves to sleep. They stood and witnessone of them bends upon his knees, and ed the great grief of their loved master, when a second has mounted upon his and with one accord they wept with him. portant factor in attaining a complete, panion's shoulders cannot quite reach the tops of the stout pickets. Another man stands firmly by the side of the lower one COULDN'T FOOL THESE GIRLS.

(To be continued.)

They Had Heard of City Frauds and and then he above places one foot upon Were Wary.

the second shoulder thus offered him. It was a brand-new and enterprising Now a third man springs nimbly up, and advertising dodge that caused these having mounted upon the shoulders of two young women to think they had him who stands thus elevated, he gains top of the barricade, and in a mobeen "bunkoed" and likely to get into ment more he drops upon the ground difficulties. The "dodge" consisted in within. Soon the postern is opened and a 15-minute vaudeville performance six men enter, leaving the remaining ones which one of the big retail houses put without, and then the gate is almost on in a room in its building to amuse closed, and thus held, so that it can be customers and to make people talk Away towards the stable these specters about the store.

paws. glide, and soon they are hidden; for they, The two young women were from too, will play at the game that the pale one of the suburbs of the city, and on the lookout for traps and sharpers. Having finished their shopping they Many times had Gonpart hidden, and were in the elevator on their way out as many times had he been easily found. when the elevator man called: And now he and the marquis chose to When it is four or five months old. "All out here to see the famous hide together, and after a deal of shouting, the brother and sister pull them out show!" from behind the thick cluster of vines With the other passengers the two that grow against the garden fence. Next young women left the car, and found Louis and Louise scamper away, laughthemselves in a little theater, says the ing and clapping their hands, for the New York Times. It was dimly lightutter delight of the father, when they ed, had a small stage, a smaller orchespurposely let him find them, has warmed tra and chairs in which a number of "Stop-stop!" cried the marquis, as his people had seated themselves. Sudchildren start. "Isn't it becoming too denly an idea occurred to one of the young women.

ing how the more difficult tricks are "Helen," she whispered to her com-"But the dew is now fairly wet upon done and partly to accustom the cub panion, "this is some trap that we have to association with its kind. Many a buying and selling wild beasts. Es the grass, and I fear you'll take cold. fallen into. I know mamma told me of trainer bears deep and permanent must be carefully figured, and permanent "No-no, father!" cries the joyous girl. a similar case once. When she and scars as a reward for performing the from sales and loss from deaths "Don't let the first chill frighten you." papa were spending their honeymoon first introduction or for offering to ar- be constantly kept in mind and h twenty-three years ago at Niagara bitrate early differences of opinion be- anced. Purchases are often made Falls they went into a show that was tween two future friends. all just as this is. On the outside there was a sign which said: 'Entrance Free.' All went well until it came to ate the presence in the same cage of can bear a rough sea voyage plant going out, when there was another sign, 'Exit $1.' That is what this thing is, and I know it. Let's get out before the show begins." They made at once for the door of the elevator shaft. "The show will be-

and the omission of a beast or en his chair or pedestal from an act of disconcerts all the performers, which they are schooled have underthe other hand, to compel a sick a gone the most radical changes. The mal to perform sometimes turns a man who has charge of a modern aniact into a tragedy for the trainer, mal spectacle calls himself a trainer. if he once turns his back on charges, and flees for safety, he m never be able to control them ago and if he stays to face the trough serious wounds may result. Once a beast see that you fear him, to discipline is destroyed; and leed, a crisis in which a trainer s teacher of men. Indeed, it is some or is rescued by helpers as a m thing of a commentary on human edu works so on his nerves that even cational systems that the trainer of he should wish to enter the cage a secret that he feared his beasts woo be discerned by them in spite of g he could do, and his mastery of the would be lost. Sometimes it happen that a trainer relaxes his caution ; es his pupils slowly and with an eye commits an error of judgment. Ma to their future. Indeed, the most imtrainer takes desperate chances cause he or she had been fascing interesting exhibition is the choice of by the beauty of a particular lion m the animals who are to form the nuhas determined to master it at when cleus of the show. For this purpose ever risk. the very young are always given the preference, and those born in captivi-Almost all animals have more for ty are obtained whenever they are cernment than they are usually give physically perfect specimens of their credit for. They fix the responsibility kind, though the domestic-bred beasts for their discomfort where it being are not numerous. Such cubs are al and harbor grudges long after a tag ways tamer to start with, and their er has forgotten the entire incide attention is much more easily fixed. which aroused them. The greater They do not have the far-away, longfactor in the safety of a trainer m the success of the show as a whole ing look which can be seen in the eyes of a desert-bred lion. They have never the health of the animals, and this is learned to strike and to exult in the dependent directly on food and es feel of quivering flesh beneath their cise. In its natural state a wild bear kills when it is hungry, eats what As soon as a cub is able to crawl good for it, and fasts until hung around its cage, the trainer gets acagain, but in captivity it seems to h quainted with it and feeds it and its judgment, and if given the opport shows it that it has only kindness to tunity will usually indulge in glutton expect while its behavior is good. or, in some instances, deliberate starve itself. easy tricks are undertaken-sitting on Very few proprietors of great show a chair, lying down and rising at comcapture beasts through their on agents. The organization of the mand, playing with a ball, and so on. At first, the trainer devotes all his business, with the mass of detail-s time to a single animal until he has vertising, transportation and financeimpressed it with his ability to conoccupies all their time. Most of the trol and direct its movements. Then animals now in captivity, therefor an older, thoroughly trained animal of are purchased of dealers who may the same breed is introduced, partly this business a specialty. for the example it can set in illustrat-

There is a great deal of finance risk involved in a large business stricken even to death. The shouts now come from the garden. Yes-they are all there upon the other side of the house. They have just shoulders, he arises. They are both tall Truly that was a dark hour! men, but he who stands upon his com-found Goupart, and are now dragging him forth from his hiding place. Carefully the Indian turns the key in he lock, but the gate is fastened within.

The heavy bolt has been surely thrown back, and yet the gate opens not. But there is no time to be lost. The red men whispered together a moment, and then

Senator Teller, of Colorado, will But "Old Abe" was made of firmer stuff.

Less than one hundred certificates of naturalization were granted to allens the month of November. The percentage of applications from subjects of the czar shows that the Russification of England is more probable than the Americanization, since only one applicant was a citizen of the United States, whereas sixty-four were Russians. One petitioner is set down as being the subtect of no foreign state, but there is no evidence that he was the famous "Man Without a Country."

Prior to 1880 not a single record for events on standard athletic championship programs was held by an American. They were all credited to Englishmen, Scotchmen and Irishmen. Today, twenty-two years later, Americans hold nearly all the records. That is one result of the "athletic awakening't-the increased interest in outdoor sports in the United States; but it is by no means the most valuable. Better health, sounder, stronger bodies, as he had not the money to put into case to go together.

In thoughts of the figures of the rest of the world. There is Russia. Czar, in fancy you see snow-covered plains, hear the howling of wolves and found.-Washington Star. the cries of persecuted peasants. And you wonder how such a Godforsaken. ice-bound wilderness can support so many tens of millions of people. It isn't ice-bound, the wolves do not howl any more strenuously than they do in some parts of the United States, and the peasant's condition is improving right along. The country is prospering. The estimated revenue for 1903 is $948,516,000, nearly $3,000,000 a day. A country that can stand that amount of taxation, direct or indirect, is great, for the income exceeds that of any other nation on the globe. This year the government will put more than $80,-000,000 into new railroads. The affairs of the nation are being so run that the income exceeds the expenses, while in 1902 the value of exports exceeded the value of imports by more than $150,-000,000. As far as industrial progress is concerned, Russia is becoming the United States of Europe.

There can be no denying the fact that at the present time the German sphere of influence in South America is greater than that of the United States or any other power. For many years German colonists have been pouring into Brazil and the other republics of eastern South America. In Brazil and the Argentine Republic there are at the present time no less than 4,000,000 inhabitants either of German nationality or German descent, sufficient in numbers and influence to seize upon the governments of these countries any time they shall elect. Nor is this a contingencey far removed. The German colonist is not assimilative, his sturdy Chauvinism and Teu- have to.

never forget Christmas day, 1880. It whom my hopes could turn. was on that Christmas morning he allowed to slip through his hands a I am growing lazy, if not old, and not chance to make a million dollars with- much longer will Simon remain with me." out putting up a single dollar. Two of by the British Home Secretary during Senator Teller's friends proposed to of relief, "is Simon going ?" purchase the Robert E. Lee mine at

GAVE LUCK THE GO-BY.

Senator Teller Misses Chance to Make a Fortune.

I will not have dissension, and so we Leadville. They were able to buy it keep peace; but yet much of my nephew's for $100,000. On Christmas morning conduct makes me nervous. I do not like they called around to see Mr. Teller, his plans about the estate, and yet he told him what they proposed to do and shows an abrupt, willful spirit if I offer urged him to take a one-third interest a word of expostulation. He seems bent on realizing all the ready money he can in the property. from the place without the least regard "But I haven't any money," protested to its future worth and improvement, I Mr. Teller. do not like it. "It makes no difference," he was seek some other home told. "You can give your notes, and before they come due we'll take from the mine more gold than will be necessary to pay them."

"But suppose we don't realize our opeaking, the youth went to the expectations?" suggested the Senator, and looked out. But he saw nothing. He with caution.

"Then we will put up the money to meet the notes, and you need not troulibrary and closed the door after him. ble about them."

Senator Teller was assured that his Had he cast his eyes up to the ceiling. friends knew exactly what they had in hand, but he didn't go in. He thought the host once had a copper pipe down to feed a showering bath. And had calmer minds, less tendency to dyspep- the undertaking he had no right to he but gone up into the small lumber sia and nervousness these are worth reap the reward, if there was to be room overhead, he would have found a more than records; they seem in this one. He was assured that they want- man there, lying flat, like a serpent, with ed him in the deal, but no persuasion his eye to that small aperture; and he could get him to accept the offer. One would have seen at a glance that the month later the Robert E. Lee mine United States it is easy to overlook the had yielded $200,000 of gold, and in a year a total of $1,500,000 was taken When you think of the land of the out. It proved to be one of the richest out. It proved to be one of the richest pockets of gold that has ever been found.-Washington Star. Days flew on now upon golden wings. and suspicion had ceased to work in even Goupart's mind. Old Tony had watched

City Sportaman.

"Shoot, sir, quick!" cried the guide, help the doubts the young men had en tertained, and that was a sudden visit as bunny, pursued by the dogs, scurof Simon Lobols to New Orleans. He ried past. professed to have business there. "Ah, I say, guide, is that a rab-sald he would see how much corn he bit ?" could find a market for, there being sev-"Yassir, shoot---' eral hundred bushels now in the granary

"Just one second, fellow," continued but the marquis informed him that he the dude hunter; "do you know if the need not trouble himself about the corn, laws allow rabbit shooting at the pres- as he already had a use for it, meaning to keep a large quantity on hand to serve ent time?"

"Sure; shoot quick." "What game laws, me good fellow?" "The State game laws." "Ah," exclaimed the dude hunter, triumphantly, "but do the same laws of Wales, over in Great Britain, al. remaining members of the family were low shooting?" "What has that-"

"Why, that rabbit may have been a Welsh rabbit!"

The Soft, Purring Answer,

Ethel-Mr. Jones has asked me to go heard from, and he would soon be there. to the theater with him to-morrow night.

Helen-That's strange. He asked me also.

as they went out and snuffed up the Ethel-Yes. I told him I wouldn't sweet, baimy air of the beautiful evengo without a chaperon.-New York ing. Louise clapped her hands and pro-Times. posed a game of "hide and seek."

High Art Marked Down.

the old man was bound to join in the Speaking of the government in business, perhaps it is not generally known the hiding places within the enclosure. that this government is selling fine en- and the former pulled Louis aside, and gravings cheap. The subject is Martha whispered merrily with him. Washington on the new S-cent stamp, "Now, none of that," said Goupart--Philadelphia Ledger. "none of that! It is not fair for you to conspire against me. If you two put A devoted father is one who takes your heads together I'll go and charter care of the children when he doesn't old Tony to come and help me. Now at night, and some of these were lighted.

'Well-go this once, and then You shall go in. I'm growing chill and cold." take my child, and you shall take me. "Ay-you shall have a job before you them into almost a frenzy of joy.

damp for you Louise?" "O, no! Never fear for me."

opened when need comes.

find us. Now watch for the word.' Away they went towards the barn, uttered the youth, with a look and as they turned the angle of the house, and were thus lost to sight, Goupart remarked: "It is growing cold."

"Ay," returned the old man. "This dew is falling fast, for I can feel the dampness on my feet. While we were excited I did not feel it. But I can stand it. only I feared that Louise might take some cold; and you know that would not be pleasant.

"No," said Goupart-and the tone of his voice showed that he, too, had enter-tained some fears. "Hark!" he added. 'I think I heard them call. Ah, they've some deep hiding place this time, for

I heard the voice as though it were "Let me look a moment." And thus stifled. But we'll find them. Come!" And away they ran towards the point from which the voice had proceeded. stepped out into the entry; but there was They searched all around the barn, under one there. "I must have been misthe cart, in the straw, behind the doors; and then they went to the stable, and taken," he said, as he returned to the here, too, they overhauled everything they could move, the old man even mov-Ah! he did not look in the right place ing a board that lay against the fence.

"They must have slipped around into he would have seen a small hole where the garden," said Gonpart. And so back to the garden they turned.

They hunted and hunted, but the hiders could not be found. "It's getting too late," said the marjuis, at length. "I think I must call them watcher could both see and hear all that "I'll give up in welcome," returned Goupart; "for I'm sure I should never find them. Shall I call to them?" "Уся.

So Goupart shouted that he gave up he game.

"I give up!" he cried, at the top of hir "Come, Louis!" He waited a few moments, expecting to be assailed with a burst of joking at his want of success. The smile was already m his face, and the exclamation with which to meet the hidden ones was upon his lips all ready for utterance. But no

"They could not have heard," suggested St. Julien.

"Ah," uttered Goupart, "they must have gone into the house. "So they have," said the father, "That's hardly fair. They ought to have spoken on this occasion, and, putting his hand in case of a failing crop. Yet Simon But we'll find some way to punmust go, for he had business of his own; ish them." and one fine morning, down the river he went, in company with some men who

They then went into the house, but aeither was there.

"Why, it's funny-isn't it, Goupart?" "It is, surely,"

"I'll start up some of the boys." having some joyful times. In a few days And accordingly, half a dozen of the more, the priest would be there, and then nen were sent out in different parts of the two waiting hands would be united. the enclosure to inform the hiders that your royal highness put the box in your Father Languet sometimes made it his home at St. Julien's place, but he had the game was up. But they returned bootless. It was old Tony who announcnow been for some months upon a mission among the Yazoos; but he had been ed that they couldn't be found. The marquis gazed upon Goupart, and Gou part gazed upon the marquis, and thus It was a bright, moonlight evening, and the young people had been more gay than stood for some moments. "Do you think any danger can have befallen them?" whispered the youth, with a trembling lip.

"I don't think there could," returned the old man, nervously. "But we must now. The search."

others shouted acquiescence, and even In a very few moments the whole sport. Louise and her brother knew all adventure with the Indians some time before had prepared the minds of the people for an easy access of fear, and as oon as it was known that Louis and Louise were not to be found, consternation was depicted upon every face. Huge bundles of pitch-wood were always kept in readiness to be used in case of alarm and soon the whole household were in the

But the only answer he received was a wide court. They divided at the barn, them.

gin in an instant," politely announced the attendant, at whom the young woman looked scornfully. tion of animals. "You must think we are easy." said one of the girls, falling into slang to show that she was no ordinary proposition to be dealt with. "We know this PROTECTING THE SULTAN OF TURKEY. tion to regard the letter as a hoat, dodge, and have seen it before." Then both went down to the street feeling sure that they had escaped one of the shlewd "dodges" of a great city.

His Servant Was Well Trained. At an auction sale of snuffboxes which enlivened London some time ago one of the most valuable mysteriously disappeared and has not yet been recovered. The loss has brought up a host of similar occurrences, and one newspaper corespondent recalls a story current two generations ago, the Duke of Sussex being the hero. He had presided at a dinner of virtuosi, and a distinguished diplomatist among the company . produced a snuffbox set in precious stones, the gift of a crowned head to one of his ancestors. The precious souvenir was handed around for everyone to examine while the conversation went merrily on.

Presently the owner said to his next neighbor: "Kindly pass me the snuffbox." The inquiry went around the table, but nobody knew what had become of the article. A thorough search of the room and the servants failed to reveal any trace of it, and the party broke up in a gloom. Some months after the Duke had occasion to don ence more the particular uniform worn into one of the pockets, felt a bulky substance and drew out the missing box.

"You rascal," he said to his body servant, "you must have noticed it when you put away my coat."

"Yes, your royal highness," was the reply. "I noticed, and indeed I saw pocket."

"And you never mentioned it ?" "Certainly not. I hope I know my duty to your royal highness better than land, which probably contains more that."-Pittsburg Dispatch.

Paid the Freight.

"Your wife," remarked the old friend, the institution knew nothing about it tells me you are getting into society

"No," replied the plain man, who had to pay for his wife's ambitions, "eoclety In a very few moments the startling is getting into me."-Philadelphia bank is safe," wrote the man, "but I household was in slarm, time is getting into me."-Philadelphia bank is safe," wrote the man, "but I knows better. I been hinside the bank Dead ancestors are said to occupy too the last 2 nite hand you nose nuffin about it. But I am not a theaf, so hif much of the areable land in China. Famines would be less frequent if the country was not one vast cemetery.

The only reason some men leave an estate is because they can't take it with the spot where an animal is captus The hardest task of all is to accus- and the buyer stands the risk of the tom animals of one kind even to toler- portation. The way in which a bas animals of another kind, and months great part in determining its was of patient effort are necessary before | Even after its safe arrival, there is a newly assembled aggregation of ani- continual liability to colds and & mal actors will perform even the sim- ease. The loss from deaths, etc. plest combined tricks. The make-up among the animals safely installed a of such an assemblage must be care- such a menagerie as that of Janna fully studied out, for the methods of in Hamburg, is rarely less than sets teaching vary with each new combina- hundred to a thousand dollar 1 month .-- Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen 1 Their health, too, is a matter of the Cosmopolitan.

police and-nothing happened.

ove cele ard

Kin 8.0

Wa

land

Fra

posi any

once

mill

New

8 20

D

K

does

chil

200

õoo

He

To the average American, the pre-The next phase of the mystery w cautions taken to protect the Sultan more astonishing than ever. A heat of Turkey against possible poisoning chest of papers and securities tais must seem utterly absurd, yet long ex- from the strong room arrived at the perience has taught those who sur- bank with a letter complaining the round the imperial presence that too the directors had set the police up the writer and that he had, therefore not appeared as promised, but to pto that he was neither a thief nor a fail he sent a chest of papers he had take from the bank. Let a few gentlens be alone in the room and he would jet them at midnight, said the writer. 15 to cut short a long and strange chapit of bank history a man with a dri lantern burst into the strong room d the bank at midnight after calling the behind the stone walls for the dire tors to put out the lights. He was on of a strange class of men who gains a living by searching the sewers f night, and through an open ing from a sewer he had found his my nto the richest room in the world.

Sympathy Was Powerless.

To exercise a general supervisis over lost children and stray pets " characteristic of a kind-hearted red dent of South Paris, Me., who is mp resented by the Lewiston Journal B ready to sympathize with every child ish trouble. He was walking slott the street recently, when he notice a little boy on the sidewalk, evidentia in the deepest trouble. His chubb fists burrowed into his fat little fact Great round drops of misery rell down his cheeks and fell on his little "Did ye get hurt, sonny ?" asked 19 kind-hearted man. "No!" howled the boy.

"No," with a wilder burst of st

"Where do you live?" The boy pointed. "Waiting for your dad?" "No. Boohoo!" "Well, then, what is the trouble" The boy sobbed bitterly, and answe ed in tones of anguish: "I've got the tummle-ache.

After an unmarried woman b eached 25, and no takers, she reprint that she commenced to do her half and started out so early.

good practice is criticism.

How readily cheap men accuse #2

blouse. "Lost?" WO.

ble sewer cleaner and the directors of till a watchman who had accidentally stumbled upon the intruder informed them of his presence.

One thing a physician gets will !

the next night, in spite of a disposi- ers of "selling out."

yer will mett mee in the great squar room with all the monelys at twelf 2 nite, ile explain orl to you, let only there come down, and say nuffin to ne body." The strong room was guarded

PREPARING THE SULTAN'S DINNER.

about Abdul.