NOTE AND COMMENT

The Guard did not say it was hurt, but that it was the Register's policy to strike to hurt. The Register ever gabbles reports so as to make them sound to suit their own convenience. No one could read this and understand it as the Register does: "It is a curious make-up that allows its owner to meet you apparently fair and open one day, then when least expected, maybe, strikes, and strikes to hurt too."

Regarding the 9th street butcher shop incident, we will say: Mr. Patterson was not joshing. He did not mince words, and more than this he said considerable more than was published by the Guard. The Guard representative approached him as a gentleman, but Mr. Patterson took particular pains to roast the democratic press and this, before his own incoming and out-going customers.

The Guard immediately addressed a letter to Mr. Patterson on the subject of his tirade, and waited two days for an answer, but none came. Under these circumstances Mr. Patterson cannot not well plead the baby act.

Any man who carries his religion or politics into his business affairs to the detriment of his own business is not a good business man.

It's lucky for Dewey that those German editors are all on the other side of the Atlantic.—Portland Journal.

It is probably more lucky for the editors that Dewey is not on the same side of the Atlantic.

HOME FROM THE OLD COUNTRY

How Two Bohemia Miners Surprised Their Parents in Switzerland.

Cottage Grove, April 4.—John Graber, one of Bohemia's thrifty miners, has returned from a seven-months visit with his father and mother in Switzerland.

Thirteen years ago Godfrey and John Graber came from their Switzerland home to this country. About eight years ago they commenced mining in Bohemia having become interested in the Vesuvius mine, which they sold for a handsome price a year ago to F. J. Hard, of the Oregon Mining Exchange. The boys put in about seven years in association with their partner, Albert Ziniker. During this time they made extensive development work, piling up many tons of ore on the dump, blocking out many more tons, and milling some at the Stocks and Harlow mill. When the boys sold out last year they determined to visit their father and mother in the old country, and accordingly started for their birthland last August.

FOOLED THEIR PARENTS.

They were young boys when they left their old home, returning 13 years afterwards, strong and hardy men just reaching the prime of life. For fear of too greatly shocking the old folks, they wrote them that they "might visit home during the winter," but set no date. When they arrived there they so timed it that they reached the parental roof in the evening. They asked for a night's lodging, and the preparation for the stranger guests was immediately commenced. The old mother eyed the boys or a little while, and then a tear came into the dear old eyes, and she said: "you can't fool me any longer, you are Godfrey and Johnny."

The boys have had a splendid visit with the old folks, and John returns now while Godfrey will come along later in the season. The many friends of the boys will be pleased to see them home.

Crow, April 2.—Louis Kraal, of Zeist, Holland, arrived yesterday at the home of his brother, A. J. Kraal, of this place, intending to spend some time in the United States.

Yesterday, while returning home from Eugene, Burdette Hadley's horse fell with him in such a manner as to severely strain and lacerate the tendons of his arms, causing an injury much more serious than a fracture. The arm is very painful, and in addition Burdette is suffering from aggravated case of tooth-ache.

Mrs. George Hadley, who has been sick for some weeks, is convalescing.

The little daughter of T. J. McCulloch who was suddenly taken ill last Sunday night, has nearly recovered.

The attendance of the neighboring schools has been materially decreased of late, by the prevalence of a malady resembling la grippe among the school children.

W. Saunders has finished up putting glass fronts in his West Eighth street commission house and store.

Albany has organized a Ladies' Lewis and Clark Fair Club to promote interest in the enterprise. An excellent idea.

THE ETERNAL FEMINE.

(By Max O'Rell.)

A woman can take the measure of a man in half the time it takes a man to have the least notion of a woman.

Like the fruits of earth the most beautiful women are not always the best and most delicious.

In the heroic times of chivalry men drew their swords for the sake of women; in these modern prosaic ones they draw their checks.

Men and women can no more conceal the love they feel than they can feign the one which they feel not.

Love feeds on contrasts to such an extent that you see dark men prefer blondes, poets marry cooks and laundresses, clever men marry fools and giants marry dwarfs.

A love affair will interest even a very old woman, just as the account of a race will always interest an old jockey. Habit, you see!

Women entertain but little respect for men who have blind confidence in their love and devotion; they much prefer those who feel that they have to constantly keep alive the first and deserve the second.

AN UNRIGHTeous WILL

The late Henry W. Corbett was a successful business man, yet he had one peculiar idea about handling money. He bequeathed the bulk of his estate of several millions to three grandsons yet in their minority, with the unusual condition that they should not come into their inheritance, except for allowances, till the youngest attained the age of forty, about twenty-seven years hence.

If money and the saving of money is all, Henry W. Corbett was right. If the shaping of the lives of boys and girls to depend on themselves, to be able to manage the affairs of life when at man's and woman's estates without the aid of executors is right, Henry W. Corbett was entirely wrong. Such inheritances cannot but stifle individual effort, will make mere machines of the beneficiaries. Better far for each of them if his million or more could be lost entirely to him at once. It is an outrageous will, one that the courts should not permit to stand once the boys arrive at their majority.

Crow Items.

(Guard Special Service.)

Crow, April 3.—The infant daughter of Jim Holland has been very ill with lung fever this week. Dr. Canady was summoned yesterday. Mrs. Holland has employed Emma Hartwig during the illness of her child.

Clark Sturtevant found a goose nest last week in the "goose pen." He has been playing "aly-rut" on the boys, having been learning to ride the goat at Lomax and will fool the boys at the hall next Wednesday night.

Union Sunday school has been organized at Crow, which promises to be a very successful one. Innis Pitney is the Superintendent and intends to live things up in this little town.

Albert Sturtevant is looking rather down in the month the last few days. E.—is talking of going away.

Jim Sturtevant was out from the mountains yesterday, where he has a timber claim.

Democratic Delegates.

The result of the democratic primaries held in Lane county Saturday, while not complete, show a sturdy interest in current politics. Following is a partial list of delegates selected:

SAGINAW.
Delegates from Saginaw are: Frank Jackson, E. P. Redford, D. P. Sheridan, E. Geo. Sears, G. N. Castle and James Sears.

COTTAGE GROVE DELEGATES.
The following named persons were selected as delegates to the county democratic convention to be held at Eugene on the 9th, from Cottage Grove:

East Cottage Grove—James Osmitt, L. F. Wooley, J. S. Medley, Doc Patterson, Thos. Medley, J. C. Walker, J. J. Holland and J. W. Esker.

West Cottage Grove—S. Buchanan, W. H. Miller, Geo. Thompson, H. Taylor, J. Markley, J. P. Currin and H. H. Veatch.

South Eugene No. 2.—J. R. Campbell, John Hampton, J. D. Matlock, B. B. McKinney, Thos. Brown.

Corbett's Will.

The will of Henry W. Corbett, deceased, was admitted to probate Saturday by County Judge Lionel R. Webster, of Multnomah county. The will is dated December 17, 1898.

The petition filed in connection with the will does not estimate the value of the estate, as is frequently done, but merely recites that the property is worth over $10,000. The probable value of the estate is about $3,500,000.

The bequests to charity amount to $230,000, and a site for the Portland Art Association.

Not So Sure.

Last week the Roseburg Plaindealer was dealing out crow to the anti-Hermann element and stated that Hermann would be elected on the first ballot. Now it is not so sure, but still insists he will be nominated. It says: "The very latest news: Hermann has 78 votes pledged. Total number 173. Ten more are needed to secure his election. He is the second choice of 43 delegates. This insures his nomination."

Died at 91.

Roseburg, Or., April 4.—Mrs. Elizabeth C. Bell, mother of the well known Presbyterian minister, Rev. J. R. N. Bell, of Baker City, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emma Harvey, at Myrtle Creek, Tuesday night. Mrs. Bell was born in Virginia in February, 1812, and was therefore over 91 years of age. She had lived in Oregon for 30 years.

36 cents for Mohair.

C. H. Walker yesterday representing the Patrons of Husbandry Association, sold to Robson & Bussard 300 fleeces of mohair, being a pool of fleeces at Sodaville, for 36 cents per pound. There is between 1200 and 1500 pounds in the pool. The price is the highest yet paid in the valley and a fine thing for the owners of the wools.—Albany Democrat, April 3.

PECULIAR SOUTH AFRICAN AFFLICTION.

No sooner had Great Britain gotten through with the Boer war than her province of Uganda, Africa, took ill with the sleeping sickness, a horrible disease that is destroying thousands of inhabitants. The sleeping sickness resembles meningitis and inflammation of the brain, and the first symptoms are very similar. The patient sinks into a comatose state and dies. The sickness lasts from one month to six weeks according to whether the case is acute or chronic. It is not only classed as a practically fatal disease, but is one of the most contagious. The disease was observed for the first time only a few years ago.

Great Britain has become so alarmed over the outlook for the spreading of the disease that medical scientists have been put to work to make an investigation of the germ and to try to stop its course into British East Africa.

Dr. Haldeman, Baptist minister of New York City, does not believe that Rev. Dr. Funk of the same city saw and talked with Henry Ward Beecher in the spirit. The public will concur in the remark made by Dr. Haldeman that "No matter how godly the man, I say that any minister of the gospel or any Christian man who says that he has seen and talked to another minister of the gospel through a Spiritualist, lies." Hard language? Yes. But it fits the case of the clerical brother who claims this latter-day acquaintance with the great pulpit orator whose eloquent voice has been stifled in death these sixteen years.
