The Guard was the first daily paper in Eugene, then the first eight-page daily, and now it gives its readers in the rural districts a Semi-Weekly.
We were the first to install a typesetting and a folding machine in Oregon south of Salem.
These improvements have been made in the Guard office on account of our steady growth in circulation.
In other instances papers have placed or will place these improvements, just to keep up with the procession.
The Guard is the only paper in Lane county that buys its paper in carload lots. Advertisers naturally make a note of these many instances of the Guard's progress.

USEFUL SUGGESTIONS.
How the Busy Housewife May Lighten Her Burden.
When making ice cream, a large wooden mallet crushes the ice sufficiently fine and does not break the burlap bag, says the Chicago Tribune.
The bathroom sponge keeps sweet if the juice of a lemon is worked into it occasionally and rinsed out again with warm water.
The broom will last twice as long if dipped in boiling water when new and left to stand in it until the water is cold. Hang by slipping the brush part between two nails driven close enough together to crowd the broom straws.
Clarify grease or drippings by putting them in a basin and pouring boiling water over them. Let stand until cold. Scrape the impurities off the lower part and if wanted for pastry repeat the process.
Pop corn and roast chestnuts over gas by putting them in the oven in a covered metal roaster or in two pans turned together.
For a pot and pan cleaner use a flour brush patterned after a dish mop.
Cake is softer made with water instead of milk, as the milk when exposed to heat in combination with the egg hardens the latter.
Tinware may be dried more effectively with a damp towel than with a dry one.
Kettles may be thoroughly cleansed by boiling a few potato peelings in them.
To light a fire dry orange peel slowly in an oven and use instead of chips. It makes an excellent fire.
The best way to sew on a button is to place the button on the material, laying a pin crossways over the holes. Sew over the pin from side to side with strong thread, then remove the pin, and the button will give slightly. Wind the thread a few times round under the button and finish it off.
After baking a cake stand the tin on a cloth which has been wrung out of hot water. Leave a few minutes and then turn out. The cake will come out without any trouble.
When buying apples choose those that weigh heavily. These are the best, and there is less waste in large ones than in small.
Bacon is cheaper if bought by the side, and if packed in sawdust and stored in a cool, dry place will keep for months.
Wet boots and shoes should be allowed to dry slowly, on boot trees if possible, and when nearly dry a little vaseline should be well rubbed in.
Stale bread if broken into rough pieces, dipped in sweetened milk and baked on a buttered tin till dry and crisp is delicious to eat with butter or cheese.
How to Clean Combs.
If it can be avoided, never wash combs, as the water often makes the teeth split and renders the tortoise shell or horn of which they are made ruff. Small brushes manufactured purposely for cleaning combs may be purchased at a trifling cost. With one of these the combs should be well brushed and afterward wiped with a towel or cloth.
How to Make Ink.
Don't throw away old, worn-out typewriter ribbons. This is the advice of a veteran stenographer. "Old ribbons make the best ink in the world," he said. "After one has been so badly worn that the keys make but a faint impression on the paper the cloth still contains enough coloring matter to make a pint of high grade ink. Take the ribbon and put it in a jar containing about a pint of cold water. Let it stand there for three days, stirring it around once in awhile. The result will be better ink than you can buy for 25 cents a pint."
How to Make Marinara Sauce.
For marinara pudding sauce cook half a pint of water with a level tablespoonful of cornstarch and half a cupful of sugar until the mixture is limp and creamy. Stir in a teaspoonful of butter, a teaspoonful of lemon juice, half a pint of marinara cherries cut in quarters and half a cupful of the marinara syrup.
How to Bake Milk.
Baked milk is very delicious and valuable food for delicate children and invalids, and it may be served flavored with rice, toasted crackers, preserves or fruit that is not very sour or acid. To prepare it put two quarts of milk in a jar, tie a piece of white writing paper over the top and set it in a moderately hot oven for eight or ten hours. It should then be thick and rich as cream. Be sure that the oven is quite clean, so that no odors or ashes may by any chance be absorbed.
How to Make Raisin Sandwiches.
Serve these with lemonade. Select large raisins, cut each one in two with sharp scissors, remove the seeds and lay the halves closely together on buttered bread.
How to Make Sweet Cider Jelly.
Soak a package of gelatin in a cup of cold water for two hours. Add three cupfuls of sugar, the juice of three lemons and the grated rind of one. Stir all into a quart of boiling water, add a pint of sweet cider, strain and pour into wet molds to form.
How to "Smarten" an Old Waist.
An old fashioned waist may be made to look exceedingly smart if a pair of angel sleeves are inserted at the elbows. The latter can be purchased ready made in all colors and in all materials, including chiffons and mousselines.
How to Keep Pipes From Freezing.
In frosty weather leave all faucets turned on so that they will just drip. This prevents the water from freezing.

RABBITS AS FOOD.
Young rabbit is a good substitute for chicken and can be prepared in various similar ways if done by skilful hands. The flesh is mostly clean and similar to the dark meat in chicken and while young is very digestible. It has the same fault as chicken if served too frequently. It satiates more quickly than most other meats.
The fact that the meat of the young rabbit compares so favorably with chicken has led to its being employed very frequently in preparations where the detection is difficult, says the Brooklyn Citizen. In soups, purées, canned and potted chicken, in croquettes and like mixtures and in chicken and meat pies it may easily masquerade for the more expensive young and tender poultry.
Rabbits are best served in some manner which calls for extra fat, such as bacon or salt pork, plenty of butter or cream, or accompanied with plates of boiled rice to supply the deficiency of carbohydrates. Many are the modes of preparing the rabbit, and they may be served in almost every variety of form in which fowls or chickens—previously cut into small joints—are directed to be cooked. Well dressed they make nice entrees, such as filets, patties, or minces or saignons, all kinds of quenelles and boullans, ragouts, fricassées, pies, etc.
Rabbit Pie.—When you have prepared two rabbits cut them up into joints and then again into smaller pieces, removing the larger bones. Cut up a pound of steak and a few slices of bacon, sprinkle the whole with finely minced parsley and thyme, salt and pepper. Put the pieces of rabbit and slices of hard boiled eggs into a baking dish lined with good pie paste; add a little water or stock to moisten. Cover with a top crust, brush with beaten egg slightly sifted and bake for about two hours in a moderate oven. Serve either hot or cold. If hot, serve a cream sauce with it.
Stewed Rabbit.—This is a very nice way to serve fat young rabbits. Cut the rabbits in halves and place them in a baking pan, spreading them well with butter and dusting with salt and pepper. Bake for an hour in a quick oven. When done take up on a hot platter. Measure the fat in the pan, and to two tablespoonfuls add two tablespoonfuls of flour. Stir until smooth, and then add a cup of stock or water. Season to suit the taste with salt and pepper, stir and cook until it boils. Pour around the rabbit, and serve with currant jelly on the side.
How to Take Care of Pearls.
Clear water does pearls no harm, but soap will discolor them and in time cause them to peel. They should not be worn constantly, as continued exposure to the light and air seems to have a similar effect. They should be placed as soon as they are taken off in a closed case, as this is the surest way to preserve their beauty.
How to Use Soda.
This simple domestic preparation possesses many virtues. It is valuable to brighten tinware when badly rubbed on with a damp cloth. It preserves the fresh color of green vegetables when boiled with them in small quantities; it will clean ceilings that have become discolored by lamp smoke if the marks are sponged with soda and water; it will clean stained lamp chimneys if these are boiled in soda and water; it keeps cut flowers fresher if a small bit of soda is put into each receptacle in which flowers are disposed.
How to Perfume Wearing Apparel.
Saturate tiny pieces of absorbent cotton with your favorite perfume and put these bits in every bureau drawer, box and trunk where wearing apparel is kept. The merest suggestion of perfume will attach to the garment. The balls will need to be saturated about once a month.
How to Cure a Stye.
If, when the heat begins to form, you will rub very gently for two minutes at a time several times a day with a bit of perfectly clean, smooth and cold metal, such as a pin, gold ring or the bowl of a silver spoon, the inflammation will sometimes be dispersed. As the trouble is usually occasioned by heat in the blood, relief is occasionally obtained by taking three times each day a tablespoonful of fresh brewers' yeast. The ordinary yeast is not strong enough.
How to Brighten Linoleum.
This popular floor covering is found to last better and to preserve better colors if sponged with a weak solution of beeswax in spirits of turpentine.
How to Make the Face Plump.
To this end first of all you must take care of your health and live upon wholesome, nourishing diet, with plenty of milk; then, if possible, have your face massaged two or three times a week with a good skin food. Deep breathing is of great importance also.
How to Clean Eyes.
Mix whitening with ammonia until it forms a smooth paste. Apply with a soft piece of cloth and when dry polish with a flannel.
How to Keep Light Colored Clean.
Rub light gloves with fine bread crumbs after each time of wearing. If you allow them to get very dirty, home cleaning is seldom a success, but treated in this way they will look nice for quite a long time.
How to Purify the Air.
To keep the air in a sickroom very pure wet a cloth in lime water and hang it in the room.
