

BLOOD HOUNDS ON TRAIL OF FRANK SMITH

Newberg, April 30.—It is believed that Smith, the murderer of Officer Hanlon, of Oregon City, Sheriff Shaver, of Clackamas county, and Captain Henderson, of Woodburn, is now in hiding directly across the river from here.

Woodburn, April 30.—Bloodhounds were turned loose in the thicket where Smith was seen Saturday night. It is hoped they will be able to pick up the scent. They were started with a scent from Smith's cap, which was found in Oregon City.

Woodburn, Or., April 30.—The pursuit of Frank Smith, who killed O. D. Henderson and Sheriff Shaver, of Clackamas county, last Saturday morning, still continues. Many of the members of the posse have, however, given up the search and returned, while a few continue the search systematically. No trace has been found of the bandit, and while reports come from all directions of Smith's investigation in each case finds there is no reliable information concerning the desperado since he did his deadly work last Saturday morning.

Woodburn, Or., May 1, 12 m.—The ringing of the firebell here announced the end of Outlaw Smith. He purchased three cents worth of cookies this morning at a Canby store which he had previously robbed of food and three pennies, and started down the railroad track toward New Era. When the bloodhounds were put on the scent they eagerly followed his trail. The fugitive, on being hard pressed, hid behind a log when the dogs came up. He pulled his gun to shoot the dogs, but was prevented from doing so by receiving a bullet in the neck from the rifle of Grafer, of Spokane, who owns the hounds. There is great rejoicing here over the killing of the desperado.

Woodburn, Or., May 1, 1:50 p. m.—Smith was alive when taken, but he died soon afterward. As the dogs came up they were followed by Grafer, who asked as Smith rose, "Are you Smith?" He replied, "Yes," and pulled his gun. Grafer shot and Smith fell. The outlaw had the stolen jewelry in his possession and he was fully identified.

An Oregonian reporter cast reflections on the bravery of the men here. The sheriff prevented the reporter from being mobbed. Guns were in the act of being drawn. Indignation here is intense. A special train was run from here to Oregon City to see the murderer.

Woodburn, Or., May 1, 9:45 a. m.—Smith is surrounded in the brush at New Era. He appeared this morning at a farm residence and got some eatables. A boy recognized him and the officers were notified. A posse was made up and surrounded the desperado at once. The bloodhounds and the posse from here, under Sheriff Culver, have gone to the scene of operations. There seems no doubt that the fugitive is cornered and cannot escape.

REPORTERS TAUGHT LESSON. In connection with the man hunt there came near being something doing in Woodburn last night. The reporters of the Oregonian who have been following the man hunt reflected upon the courage of the Woodburn boys in their report to Sunday's paper, so a few of the young men of the town concluded to demonstrate to the reporters last night that they were possessed of pluck and determination. It is said that had it not been for Deputy Sheriff Harry Minto the newspaper men would have been roughly handled. As it was they were promptly instructed to leave town on the first train.

One thing can be said without taking sides in this controversy. The young men of Woodburn, or the old men, for that matter, do not carry a reputation for cowardice. There is no town in the state where it is easier to raise a company of men who are ready to do their duty and face danger, than in Woodburn, and they are not to be blamed for resenting a studied reflection on their courage, especially just as they had lost a man who had proved his fearlessness and whom many of them had followed through scenes of danger and hardship on the battlefield.

Make Murderous Autos Pay Berlin, April 29.—The government introduced in the reichstag today a project for a law obliging automobilists to pay life annuities to those dependent on persons killed by their motor cars or to persons permanently injured by such accidents.

TWO MORE EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS

San Francisco, April 30.—Two distinct earthquake shocks were felt here at two o'clock this morning. Some damage was done in the downtown district by the collapse of walls.

The police department today issued 500 permits to open safes. Business men propose to ask the national government to loan money at a low rate of interest to enable the city to be rebuilt. The banks are unable to supply the $200,000,000 needed. The fact that loans were made to the Central Pacific and Philippine railroads will be quoted as a precedent.

An answer from Taft as to what became of the $2,500,000 voted by congress is anxiously awaited by the relief committee, as only $300,000 was received here in actual cash.

San Francisco, May 1.—For the first time since the earthquake the streets were lighted last night. Eight hundred arc lights illuminated practically all sections of the unburned district. Today the work of restoring electric lights in the houses began and the resumption of gas service will follow quickly in the residence section. Trolley cars are now permitted to run until 10 o'clock and soon the unburned sections will be enjoying all the public utilities they had before the fire.

While there are sufficient food supplies in sight to last three weeks the authorities fear that when this supply is gone there will be great suffering. General Greeley is earnestly seeking to regulate the wanton waste which characterized the distribution of food during the first twelve days. A census is being taken of the seven relief districts in order to ascertain the exact number of people requiring relief in order that the needy alone may be supplied. Mayor Schmitt, alarmed at the prospect of a scarcity of food, asked the word to go forth that contributions from all sources are greatly desired.

Emergency payments of the banks to depositors arranged by the clearing house, began this morning. Notes guaranteed by the banks were cashed by the clearing house bank in the U. S. mint.

The bed of Mokelumne river, in the vicinity of Woodbridge, has fallen twelve feet since the earthquake, and Tracy Lake, San Joaquin county, is drying up. The falling of the water in both cases benefits the farmers.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Secretary Taft wired James D. Phelan, chairman of the finance committee at San Francisco, this morning saying: "There is left available of the government appropriation not over $700,000 which may be expended only for rations, quartermaster's and medical supplies and transportation of troops, through the lawful agents of the war department."

GEER GAINS ON WITCOMBE FOR GOVERNOR

Salem, Or., April 30.—Official returns thus far received at the office of the secretary of state reduce the supposed plurality of Withycombe over Geer by 100. In the published returns Withycombe was credited with 158 in Grant county, whereas the official returns give him but 58. The published returns last Wednesday showed Withycombe 500 ahead, with Crook, Harney and Malheur not heard from. The later unofficial returns from Crook gave Geer 18 more, while Malheur gave him 82, or 100 net gain, reducing the plurality of Withycombe to 400. The discovery of the error of 100 knocks off that amount from Withycombe's plurality and leaves him a margin of only 300. Harney county gave Geer 57 and Withycombe 40, thus cutting his apparent plurality to 253.

The counties from which official returns have not been received by the secretary of state are Coos, Curry, Crook, Lake, Harney, Klamath, Malheur and Marion. There is, of course, the possibility that the official returns contain other errors, for many of the reports passed through several hands and were repeated once or twice over long-distance telephones so that there were opportunities in plenty for some one to read a number incorrectly or misunderstand it when read to him. However that may be, it is apparent that Geer has run Withycombe a very close race for the nomination for governor.

The Eugene local will hereafter circulate with a new object, between this city and Portland.

SHAVER DIES FROM HIS WOUNDS

Salem, Or., April 30.—John R. Shaver, sheriff of Clackamas county, who was mortally wounded by Frank Smith, the desperado, at Woodburn last Friday night, died at St. Mary's hospital here this morning at four o'clock. The sheriff withstood the operation and rallied, and his recovery was hoped for, but complications set in which resulted in his death. The body was taken to Oregon City today.

MORE PARTICULARS OF SMITH'S FINISH

Oregon City, May 2.—The following additional particulars of the killing of Desperado Frank Smith are given by eye witnesses:

The bandit was flushed behind a log in the densest part of the thicket. The dogs were in leash by Draper, when they ran upon the log behind which the bandit crouched. The hounds stood hesitatingly for a second, baying loudly and sniffing the air. Draper chanced to look below and saw the bandit. "Are you Smith?" he asked, covering him with his revolver. "I am," said the desperado, as he reached for his revolver. "Then throw up your hands," said Draper, as he pressed his weapon close to the bandit's head. He fired almost instantly, the bullet entering the bandit's temple. Smith lived for half an hour, though unconscious. The bandit's body was taken from the brush to the railroad tracks and removed to New Era. As soon as a conveyance could be procured it was removed here. Hundreds of people lined the route.

The killing of the desperado was the climax of a sensational chase, which lasted from early in the morning. He was surrounded in the thicket where he met his death by 100 or more men. Three dozen sticks of dynamite were set on fire and hurled into the brush, in the hope of driving the fugitive from his hiding place, and volley after volley of rifle shots were sent into the brush, and the crowd called upon him to come out and surrender. He steadfastly refused. Once he emerged from the edge of the thicket, but instantly returned to his last hiding place. He was found un wounded.

SMITH'S CAREER. Smith started on his last chapter of crime that ended in his death at Troutdale, April 22, where in the early morning hours he robbed the post-office and store. He came to Portland, where he was arrested the same day.

On April 23 he made a sensational escape from the city jail by climbing a water pipe and going hand over hand across a wire stretched 40 feet above the ground to the Worcester building, eluding the officers and escaping from the city.

April 24 during the midnight hours he robbed a jewelry store at Oregon City and at 3:30 a. m. shot and killed Night Policeman George Harker, who was attempting to arrest him, and escaped.

April 24 Smith broke into the post-office and store at Canby, secured $1 in cash and some razors, and again escaped.

April 28 he encountered a posse on the railroad track near Woodburn and mortally wounded Sheriff John R. Shaver, of Clackamas county, and Captain O. D. Henderson, of Woodburn, both dying at a Salem hospital of their wounds. Smith, although fired at by other members of the posse, made good his escape.

May 1 Smith was shot and killed by Harry Graber, a member of the posse that had surrounded the desperado in a strip of woods near New Era.

Postmaster Robbed

G. W. Fouts, postmaster at River-ton, Ia., nearly lost his life and was robbed of all comfort, according to his letter, which says: "For twenty years I had chronic liver complaint, which led to such a severe case of jaundice that even my finger nails turned yellow; when my doctor prescribed Electric Bitters, which cured me and have kept me well for eleven years." Sure cure for biliousness, neuralgia, weakness and all stomach, liver and kidney and bladder derangements. A wonderful tonic. At DeLano's drug store. 50 cents.

Roseburg Review: Chas. H. Fisher left for Eugene Sunday, where he has purchased a half interest in the Eugene Guard newspaper business, and will take charge of the editorial management of that paper on May 1st. Mr. Fisher is one of the best known and ablest newspaper men in Oregon and will doubtless give the Guard a decided impetus in its struggle with the newspapers of the Eugene-Willamette valley.

DEMAND BETTER 'PHONE SYSTEM FOR EUGENE

At a meeting of the Merchants' Protective Association Monday night the matter of securing a better telephone service for Eugene was discussed and a committee appointed to meet with J. H. Thatcher, superintendent of the Northwest division of the Pacific States Company's lines, and demand a better system than the one at present. The committee consists of the following: G. W. Griffin, F. J. Berger and W. S. Moon. When the new system was installed in this city a few months ago it was expected that the service would be better, but instead it is worse, as all users of telephones can testify. The reason for the bad condition is not known, but the Merchants' Association proposes to look into the matter and if better service cannot be had they will invite other companies to put in a system here. At the meeting the merchants were very emphatic in their demands for a better system.

INSURANCE RATES.

The matter of the recent increase in fire insurance rates in Eugene was taken up and a committee consisting of Allen Eaton, A. J. Toime and David Link was appointed to investigate the reason. If it is because of a defective wiring, as reported, the association will see that a change is made at once in the manner of wiring the business buildings.

MADE IN OREGON FAIR.

A committee was appointed to take up the proposition of co-operating with Portland and other cities in Oregon in the "Made in Oregon" exposition at Portland during the latter part of the present month. If the manufacturers of Eugene are willing to make a display of their products at the exposition the merchants will make arrangements to exhibit them in a proper manner. The committee consists of the following: J. W. Kays, F. R. Wetherbee, F. J. Berger, B. F. Goodpasture and T. C. Bradley.

JAPANESE RAILROAD HANDS ROBBED

One of the cars occupied by the Japanese railroad hands who are now laying the heavy rails in the Eugene depot yards was entered by some one this forenoon and $12.50 in cash and a pair of glasses stolen. The Japs discovered their loss at noon and reported the matter to Chief of Police Farrington, who has been looking for the guilty person or persons, but is unable to find them. The Japanese cook says two hobos asked him for something to eat earlier in the morning and he thinks they are the guilty ones. Entrance to the car was effected through the end window.

NATIONAL AID FOR SAN FRANCISCO

Washington, May 2.—Newlands introduced a resolution in the senate today calling for consideration by a committee of the plans for extending national aid in rebuilding San Francisco. The resolution calls for the appointment by the president of a national board to formulate plans.

Note and Comment

Complaint comes to the Guard from several sources as to the water company's charges, especially lawn and irrigation rates. One user says the new rates will increase his water bill twelve dollars a year where before the election they promised a reduction. He is now training in Socialist ranks, says the city cannot put in its own plant too soon.

And about Socialism it has got an undesired hard name through the almost necessity in European governments of overturning the established order of things through shedding of blood—still it is about the only way men have come to freedom. We of this country, where for four years blood was shed as freely as if it were water to secure the liberty of four million slaves should not, cannot condemn white men in every part of the world for seeking to enlarge their liberties.

The slayer of Outlaw Smith did not take the trouble to tell him to throw up his hands. He shot, and shot to kill on sight. The better way. The man's life was forfeit—there was no use giving him the opportunity of shedding other blood.

E. Bostwick will close his lodging house over White's grocery store and will remove to The Dalles.

CHARLES SCHADE DIES AT WALTON

Well Known Civil War Veteran and Socialist Expires April 28th

Charles Schade died at his home on Chickahominy creek, near Walton, Lane county, Or., April 28, 1906, at 2 o'clock p. m. He had been in poor health for a long time and his death was not unexpected. He was born in the city of Langenza, Prussia, December 6, 1830, and came to America in the spring of 1851. In 1856 he went to Dane county, Wis., where he spent his time farming until the Civil War broke out, when he enlisted in Company E, 1st Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, on April 17th, 1861, and served three months. He was mustered out in Milwaukee, August 21, 1861, and after about two weeks' stay at home he re-enlisted in Company G, Thirtieth U. S. Infantry, and was sent to Alton, Ill., to guard prisoners. Not liking that kind of soldiering and detesting the men and officers with whom he had to associate, he deserted his regiment May 3, 1862, and made his way back to Wisconsin, and on the 16th he enlisted again, this time in the Nineteenth Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, under the assumed name of Charles Wild. He was discharged in May, 1863, and went back to Wisconsin and went to farming with very good success until 1872, when he came to Oregon and settled on French Prairie, near Brooks station, but failing health set him to roaming again, and once more he returned to Wisconsin and stayed with relatives and friends. That was in 1875. After he became able to travel again he went to North Dakota and there, through droughts and other causes he lost $2500 in money and eight years' hard labor. He then returned to Oregon and settled on the place of his late residence in the fall of 1887. In North Dakota, July 4th, 1886, he was married to Miss Smith, and to them two children were born. The wife and children survive him. He was a very broad-minded and intelligent man, was above all petty jealousies, and I do not think he had an enemy. He was a charter member of local Walton Branch, 13, Socialist party, of Oregon, and was quite an able Socialist writer. He was a grand old man.

REFUGEES ARE NOT NOW NUMEROUS

Half a dozen belated refugees reached Portland this morning over the Southern Pacific from San Francisco and were taken in hand by the relief committee at the Union depot, says yesterday's Portland Journal. The majority of them went on to other points and needed no assistance beyond meal tickets while in the city. The great rush of refugees is over. The only free transportation they can obtain at the Bay City is that issued to residents of the Northwest by the Oregon relief committee there.

There continues to pour into the city former residents of San Francisco who are leaving the town for other points until their town is once more a fit place in which to live. These have ample means to care for themselves. It is estimated that about one-third of the total number coming to Portland remain in the city. The hotels are full of San Francisco people, many of whom are endeavoring to rent or lease apartments for a length of time.

Lorane Items

Lorane, May 3.—Addison and Ross have moved and are now running their sawmill.

Quite a number from here attended the Odd Fellows' anniversary at Cottage Grove last week.

Ladies' Aid Society held its first meeting in the M. E. church last Saturday afternoon. All present manifested a desire to help in this worthy cause.

Mrs. Madge Addison has gone to visit her parents, who live near Oakland.

All next week Dr. Lowe, the optician, will be in his Eugene office. If you have head and eye ache, red, sore and inflamed eyelids, have him test your eyes, as defective sight is the cause of 90 per cent of the above ailments. Correctly fitted glasses will cure them. Glasses ground for complicated eyes. Free tests.

Judge Chrisman today appointed William Miller administrator of the estate of his father-in-law, Frederick Gossett, who died at Pleasant Hill December 10, 1905. The probable value of the estate is $700. B. E. Spencer, W. W. Brown and Roy E. Lane were appointed appraisers.
