

MANY EMPLOYEES OF BOOTH-KELLY CO. QUIT WORK

A report from Springfield is to the effect that quite a number of the employes of the Booth-Kelly sawmills at that place and at Wendling and a larger number of the employes of the logging camps up the Willamette and McKenzie rivers have quit work because of the existence of prohibition in Lane county. It is said that many more of the mill hands will quit tonight when they receive their pay.

It is a well-known fact that a large number of loggers are drinking men and those who think they cannot get along without liquor are not going to work where they can secure none.

These men quitting may inconvenience the Booth-Kelly Company to a considerable extent, but the company is now paying good wages and may be able to secure a better class of men to fill the places of those who quit.

PORTLAND MARKETS.

Portland, July 5.—Front street markets in general are very similar to those of a week ago. The quality of late arrivals of eggs has not been of the best, owing to the very hot weather, and this has affected the market to a certain extent. Besides causing shippers to lose it has forced the retail trade to buy more sparingly.

Poultry is just about holding its own with receipts not so heavy. The trade is not so anxious to buy. Future operations depend on what shippers send to market during the next few days.

This is not dressed meat weather and shippers cannot be too careful in consigning at this time. Prices are practically the same as a week ago.

HOLY-ROLLERISM BARED IN COURT

Seattle, Wash., July 3.—Holy Rollerism, the leperous cult conceived and expounded by Edmond Creffield, was laid bare before court and jury during the day's proceedings in the Mitchell-Creffield murder trial today. All the unnatural and hideous phases of the sensuous creed were exposed as tending to mitigate young George Mitchell's offense against the law when he shot down the man who had ruined several homes and a score of lives under the cloak of religion.

The story was told by O. V. Hurt, of Corvallis, whose life was ruined and family broken up by the Creffield craze, and the witness' voice was frequently choked with emotion as he proceeded. The witness said:

OBEYED HIM LIKE CHILDREN.

"Creffield would say, for example, as I told young Mitchell, 'Esther Mitchell, you do this,' and she would do it. 'When they got together for religious services all would lie on the floor. Creffield would walk about among them and sometimes roll about, too. While lying this way they were supposed to receive messages from God. Creffield would keep telling them to pray and shout with all their might or God would smite them.

"These things happened mostly at my home, when I was away, prior to the time Creffield was sent to the penitentiary.

"Esther Mitchell came to me one day and said she had received an inspiration from God that he would smite me unless I made my peace with him. She warned me not to attempt to go to town that day, as I had been in the habit of doing.

"When I talked the matter over with George Mitchell I told him they were all in a religious frenzy, and that all of them had been driven crazy by Creffield. I told him that my wife, Mrs. O. V. Hurt, my son, Frank, and my daughter, May Hurt, had all been sent to the asylum as a result of their associations with Creffield. I told him that his sister, Esther, had been staying at the Boys' and Girls' aid society at Portland because of her mental state. I told him that his sister was completely 'off' on account of her religion.

"At one time as Creffield's power grew, they offered a sacrifice of two dogs and a cat. I heard there had been talk of offering up a little girl as a sacrifice. Creffield made them turn the pictures of their homes to the wall, saying such things partook of vanity and the world. About this time the sheriff of Linn county came to my home and took Creffield away to be examined as to his sanity. They did not send him to an asylum, and he came back.

MRS. PIPES HOME FROM EUROPE

Tuesday's Oregonian: Mrs. Susie Fennell Pipes, a daughter-in-law of Martin L. Pipes, the well known Portland lawyer, has just returned home from a year's visit to Berlin, Germany, where she further studied violin under the direction of Theodore Spiering, and the many Potland and Eugene friends of Mrs. Pipes are glad to know that she has returned the perfect picture of health, and that she has been successful in her musical studies. She is again her charming, piquant self. Mrs. Pipes studied with Spiering, who is an American, in Chicago, and she was fortunate enough to win one of his famous scholarships, a most envied honor, considering that as a violin teacher Spiering is one of the most celebrated in the world. In Berlin Mrs. Pipes played at several of the Spiering private musicales, and met such musical celebrities as Sowodsky, to whose little son she gave violin lessons, Ysaye, Joachim, Carreno, and others.

June 14 Mrs. Pipes sailed from Hamburg in the Deutschland for home, and during the voyage across a concert was given, under the direction of Charles M. Schwab, the Pittsburg millionaire in steel, to raise a fund for the sailors' widows of Germany and this country, and the sum of $600 was netted. Among those who contributed to the program was Mrs. Pipes, who kindly played a suite by Eduard Schutt. She was cordially received.

Some Values of Irrigation

Sagebrush land in Baker county practically worthless before water was put on it, is now bringing $30 to $75 an acre with water rights.

Travelers over the McKenzie road for years have seen an instance of what water does. Pitching rapidly down after leaving the summit of the Cascades in a few miles one reaches the level, elevated Eastern Oregon plateau, and a desolate land it is, volcanic and scrubby pine. But put water on it and see the transformation! Squaw creek and Tumalo creek, rushing swiftly away from the snow fields of the Three Sisters to join the Deschutes, have had their waters put on the seemingly barren, worthless land, and then it blossoms as the rose—the change looks little short of miraculous so valueless does the land appear.

Lumber Demand Better

The San Francisco fire was not required to make the lumber market active—it was good before. Here are some figures that show what the country is doing in that line:

In January, February, March and April the Northern Pacific railroad shipped 28,497 carloads against 22,108 in both 1905 and 1904. The Great Northern 6039, against 7391. The Canadian Pacific 1143 against 1599. In all by the three railroads 29,930 carloads in those months of 1906 against 31,098 during the corresponding months of both 1904 and 1905.

From Portland 3886 carloads were shipped, against 4238 in the previous two years.

A Tragic Finish

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Sea dyke, which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruinous break, devastating an entire province of Holland. In like manner Kenneth McIver, of Vanceboro, Me., permitted a cold to go unnoticed until a tragic finish was only averted by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes: "Three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflammation, caused by the neglected cold; but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life." Guaranteed best cough and cold cure, at W. L. DeLano's drug store, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Joe Bing

In the March number of the Woman's Home Companion there was printed on the last page, "To Drive Dull Care Away," a little verse by John D. Larkin which has been more widely copied in the press of this country, not to mention other countries, than anything that has appeared for many years. This was it:

Joe Bing he cut ten cord o' wood
From rise to set o' sun;
He cut it, an' he piled it, too,
Yes, sir; that's w'at he done.
To cut ten cord of wood, I vow,
Is one tremenjous chore—
Joe Bing cut his behind the stove
In Luscomb's grocery store.
Joe Bing he cut eight load o' hay
I swan, an' raked it too,
An' in twelve hours by the clock
He was entirely through.
He could, I guess, before he slept,
Cut jes' as many more—
He cut it where he did the wood,
In Luscomb's grocery store.
Joe Bing he plowed four acres onct,
He plowed it good an' neat;
An' fore the sun had near gone down
The job was all complete.
The hosses never turned a hair,
Wan't tired, ner leas' bit sore.
He plowed it all in one short day—
In Luscomb's grocery store.
Joe Bing he made five dollars onct
By simply pickin' hops:
He done it all in just a day
With time for sev'ral stops.
He could as well a kept it up
A dozen days or more.
Where was it done? The same ol' place—
In Luscomb's grocery store.
