A Knotty Problem

The killing of young Mitchell by his demoted sister adds another horror to the evils which have followed in the train of the Holy Roller craze.

Mob rule is nearly always an expression of the inadequate reach or lax enforcement of the law, and it is not always to be condemned; rather it should be taken by officials to mean that there are existing conditions that they should bend their energies to correct.

The problem of dealing with such religious movements as Holy Rollerism, Dowdism and the worst phases of Mormonism is still unanswered.

Tanner and His Pardon
The Oregonian takes the Guard to task because we criticized Judge Tanner's betrayal of his friend and partner for the sake of securing a pardon for himself.

have been guilty of. The fact is well known, however, that both Mitchell and Tanner were concerned in the illegal practices for which the former was indicted and convicted.

Admitting that Mitchell and his fellow offenders were as black as the Oregonian delights to paint them, there is always something to admire even in the villain brave enough and true enough to his fellow rascals to take his punishment like a man.

In contrast to Tanner, Pater, et al. the character of the late Senator Mitchell stands out in luminous contrast. His fall was from a higher estate, and his heart broke and health failed under the burden of disgrace.

It Does Not Pay

Senator Chauncey M. Depew, from being the pet of society, an almost indispensable factor at the great metropolitan functions, is a heart-broken, nerve-shattered old man, wearing out his useless remaining days in a farm home near the great city in which he was such an important figure for many years.

The Guard has a force of men busy this week installing the largest and best newspaper press ever brought to Western Oregon with the exception of one in Salem.

England occupied Egypt in 1876 to put down a mild form of revolt and has held it ever since, although the Khedive is the nominal ruler.

Senator Pettus, of Alabama, was 83 years old Friday, and a pretty good man he is, too. He is a candidate to succeed himself, and Senator Morgan, aged 82, would also stay in the senate one more term. Very healthy down in Alabama, and not much chance for a young man, at least no chance to represent her in the senate.

Oregon needs a Pacific coast port and may have a good one at Coos Bay, as the result of the deal by which the Spreckles have sold their Oregon interests to the Southern Pacific.

When Bryan was nominated for president in 1896 the opposition newspapers asserted that in six weeks after the election he would have to fall out of a four-story window to get a six-line paragraph in the daily press.

Congress has appropriated three million a year for packing house inspectors, and next session it will require probably six million more for another lot of inspectors to watch the first lot—and thus the machinery of government grows more complicated and fat jobs multiply.

The Cannon boom for president seems the outgrowth of the "anything to beat Bryan" idea.

Free feeding is likely to become a habit with a lot of San Franciscans. At the whole country crying for workingmen its up to some 15,000 or 20,000 residents of the devastated city to get in and drill.

An exchange wants everybody to "boycott" the "six-bit" insurance companies. Don't do it; simply quit patronizing them.

An examination of George Mitchell's brain shows him to have been sane. His act in destroying the viper Creffield was more conclusive proof of his sanity and courage as well.

By Seattle's method of figuring, Portland claims a population of 252,300. Seattle claims 292,000. Of course in both instances the actual population is much less.

When Democracy Will Die

During the opera bouffe closing exercises of congress an original poem, "When Democracy Shall Die," was read in this house by Representative John Wesley Gaines.

When the lions eat grass-like an ox, And the fish worms swallow the whale; When the terrapin knit woolen socks,

And fathers are found on hogs; When Thomas swims in the air, And elephants root upon trees; When insects in summer are rare, And saff never makes people sneeze;

Twenty Year Battle
"I was a loser in a twenty year battle with chronic piles and malignant sores, until I tried Bucklin's Arnica Salve; which turned the tide, by curing both, till not a trace remains."

BOY RUN OVER BY WAGON AND KILLED

Saturday's Daily

Jesse, the four-year-old son of Henry Sweeney, residing west of Springfield, just across the Willamette river, was killed by being run over by a wagon yesterday evening about five o'clock.

The boy was playing in the county road when a man named Stover drove along with a load of slab wood from the Booth-Kelly mill at Springfield on his way to Eugene.

The boy had been sick for a long time and yesterday was his first day outside of the house. The parents are prostrated over the terrible affair.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Valley chapel, with interment in the Laurel Grove cemetery.

W. V. CO. AT WAR WITH PAPER CO.

A press dispatch from Albany reads: The Willamette Valley Company and the Lebanon Paper Company, two of the largest corporations doing business in Linn county, are now at war.

The complaint filed yesterday asserts that the floating of wood down the canal does great damage to the canal and the company's plant in Albany. The wood is allowed to stand in the stream, it is claimed, and permits a glutinous substance which is carried to Albany and comes in contact with the propelling machinery at the plant and greatly affects its serviceability and deteriorates its efficiency.

JOAQUIN MILLER ARRIVES IN EUGENE

Saturday's Daily

Joaquin Miller, the famous poet of the Sierras, arrived in Eugene from Oakland, Cal., this afternoon to see his brother, George Melvin Miller, and to visit the scenes of his boyhood days.

Miller doesn't look a day older than he did 15 years ago and is the same picturesque character. He still wears his hair to the shoulders, and his flowing gray beard and the big curl in his mustache are exactly the same as they have been for these many years.

GEORGE MORRIS INJURED AT DRAIN

George Morris, of this city, who has been working on the new hotel at Drain for some time past, was severely injured this morning by falling off a scaffold. He was tearing down the scaffold when it gave way, precipitating him to the ground.

A Tragical Finish
A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Sea which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruinous deluge, devastating an entire province of land. In like manner, Roullet's Iver, of Vancouver, Me., permitted cold to go unnoticed until it had finished only averted by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes: "New Discovery cured me up to die of inflammation, caused by the cold; but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life." Guaranteed to cure cough and cold, at W. L. Lano's drug store. See and Trial bottle free.

Miss Lillian Buckner, the widow who recently sold out to Miss Hager, is disposing of her household goods and will go to Albany with her.

E. E. Crump's little son is ill from being poisoned by eating apples which had been sprayed with spraying material having passed through the apples. The boy resides on Lawrence street.

The cement blocks for the new building of the Rankin building are being made at a local factory.
