Cross-examined Palmer was forced to admit that the Tidewater Lumber Company, of Tacoma, had received more care during 1906 than the Reliance Company, of Tacoma, the latter mill having twice the capacity of the former, and being owned by Charles Patton and his associates.

Patton charged yesterday that the lumbermen were forced to pay the trainmen bribes for empty cars.

Ralph Brynd and Warner Waite have purchased T. M. Wolf's stock of goods and took possession last Monday. Rudolph is in charge of the store and Warner remains at his old position with the Hurd Lumber and Navigation Company.

Married—In Portland, Oregon, Sunday, January 6, 1907, Dan Cassidy and Miss Avis Dickerson, both of Portland. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cassidy of the Bay View hotel in Florence, and the bride is a Portland girl with whom the groom became acquainted in Los Angeles, Cal. They will reside in Portland.

Some three years ago the Hurd Lumber and Navigation Company had about five hundred thousand feet of logs cut on Hadsall Creek and rolled into the creek by a contractor. These logs remained in the creek until a few days ago, the water not being high enough at any time to float them out. Last week by setting a crew of men to work to drive these logs during the freshet the owners succeeded in getting all but about seventy-five of them out into the river, where they can easily be delivered at the mill.—Florence West.

Joe Morris, Jr., and wife were at Mapleton over Sunday, preparing to move to their new home at that place. Mr. Morris informed us that he intends to move there from the ranch next week.

ROBBERY OF HARDWARE STORE AT JUNCTION CITY

J. H. Miller's hardware store Junction City was broken into three men last night and robbed about a dozen safety razors and few knives. One of the burglars captured by Flint Baker, night clerk at the Junction City Hotel, succeeded in making his escape before an officer arrived. Sheriff received the particulars of the robbery by telephone this morning, at once began to work on the case but so far has no trace of the burglars.

Young Baker, upon going into the street for some purpose, saw a man in the doorway of the hardware store and as he acted in a suspicious manner, drew closer to see what he was doing there. Before he reached the store the man began to run and down an alley. Just then two other men came out of the store and ran.

Makes Daring Capture.

Baker went back to the hotel and got his pistol and went down the alley in the direction which the robbers took. He suddenly met one of the face to face and ordered him to throw up his hands, which he did. He then marched him to the police office and began to telephone for the marshal and the robber, seeing that Baker was not an officer, attempted to escape through the rear door of the office. Baker stopped him, but the robber then made for the front door and after a struggle succeeded in escaping from his captor. Baker threatened to shoot the fellow several times, but the threats had no effect, as he seemed to think the gun was not loaded or Baker did not have the nerve to shoot. After the robber's escape Baker fired three shots at him, but missed his mark, and the robber disappeared in the darkness.

Working on Safe.

An investigation of the robbery showed that a panel in the front door of the store had been broken open by the robbers effecting their entrance that way. The razors and knives were all the goods that were missing, although the safe would have been broken open had they not been interrupted, as they were working on it at the time of discovery. The fellow who Baker caught was young and handsome, and he could easily identify him if caught again.

Most everyone in Coburg is doing with bad colds, including the writer who has been sick for the past few days.

S. Robertson and others of this city have built a gasoline launch which is now afloat in the McKenzie river, which they intended to equip for a sporting boat.

The McKenzie and Willamette rivers have been on a rampage here, the bottom land between these two rivers has been entirely inundated and considerable damage has been reported.

The bridge gang of the Southern Pacific company who are now at work clearing away the old wood bridge south of this city, are advancing rapidly, and it is expected that the steel bridge will soon be under construction.—Harrisburg Bulletin.
