ROBBERS SHOOT OLD MAN GARL AT NATRON

(From Wednesday's Guard.)
Urus Garl, an old man living alone at Natron, was shot and severely wounded in the shoulder by two robbers about midnight last night. The robbers entered the house and awoke the old man, ordering that he give them his money. Garl, scarcely awake, demurred, whereupon one of the robbers fired at him with his pistol, striking him in the shoulder. They then secured the old man's money, amounting to a few cents more than $50, and left the house. Garl's cries for help aroused the neighbors and soon a crowd of men was on the scene. When the old man told his story a search for the robbers was at once begun and Sheriff Fisk telephoned for the sheriff and Deputy Hammond left here about 2 o'clock this morning. After their arrival there they at once began a thorough investigation of the affair, and remained in the vicinity a part of the day, but as far as learned they have found no clue to the robbers. Owing to the wretched telephone service between here and Natron it was almost impossible to get the full and correct particulars of the shooting early in the day and it was necessary to await the return of Sheriff Fisk and Deputy Hammond. What few particulars of the affair were learned were substantially as follows:
Garl is aged about 60 years and is considered simpleminded or half-witted. He lives alone in a small house about a quarter of a mile from the residence of Bert Smith, for whom he has been working for some time past, being engaged in cutting wood. He has resided in that vicinity for the past fifteen years, making his living by doing odd jobs for farmers. The money which the robbers took represented his savings for the past several years, and the old man seems to feel worse over that than his wound. Garl says he was awakened about midnight by two men in his room. They held revolvers in his face and told him to get up. He did so and the men ordered him to give them his money. It seems that he sleeps with his clothes on. He turned his pockets inside out, emptying them of the money, $50.50, which they contained. One of the men then shot, the bullet entering Garl's left shoulder, making only a flesh wound. The robbers then left, warning their victim that if he attempted to leave the house before morning he would be killed. He was not so easily frightened, however, and soon lit his lantern and went to the home of Bert Smith to whom he told his story. The neighborhood was aroused and a search made for the robbers, but without success.
Garl says he does not think he would recognize his assailants if he would see them again, as it was dark at the time. He says one was tall and the other short, but is unable to give any further description of them. Dr. Jayne, of Springfield, was called and dressed the man's wound, which is not serious. Bert Smith brought him to Eugene, arriving late this afternoon, and he was placed in the Eugene hospital for care and attention.
Sheriff Fisk and Deputy Hammond were unable to obtain any clue to the identity of the robbers and returned home, arriving soon after noon.

Leonard Tabor, formerly of Ma-pleton, who is now attending the osteopathic college at Kirksville, Mo., writes the Guard that he will be home soon to spend the summer and that he is looking forward to the cool nights and the pleasant days of home.

Considerable excitement was caused in the vicinity of the residence of Roy Johnson at the corner of East Fourth and Pearl streets last night, soon after 8 o'clock by a woman in the house crying for help in a piteous voice. This was kept up for several minutes, and the neighbors, thinking there was a murder being committed, telephoned the fire engine house. Fireman Chas. Croner hunted up his brother, Night Officer Croner, who proceeded to the scene of the disturbance. There were no sounds when he arrived there, but when Chief Farrington came a little later an entrance to the house was affected. Johnson and his wife were found sitting in the dark, but denied that anything had happened. Johnson seemed to be drunk and was perhaps abusing his wife, but she denied it.

S. H. FRIENDLY WILL ENLARGE HIS STORE

S. H. Friendly, the dry goods merchant, has leased the south room of the Pickett block, now owned by R. M. Pratt and adjoining the store on the north, and will occupy it with his men's furnishing goods department. The change will be made about the first of July, at which time extensive improvements to the room which will be started at once, will be completed. It is the intention to cut a big archway in the wall which separates the store from the new room, and the entire stock of men's clothing and furnishings will be moved. Up-to-date fixtures will be installed and one of the most complete clothing stores in the valley will be the result of the change. That department, as now, will be under the able management of Carl Washburne, who thoroughly understands the business, and who through his good taste in buying correct clothing and furnishings, has built up such a wonderful business which that department enjoys.
The space now occupied by the men's department will be devoted to the ladies' cloak and suit department, under the management of Miss Blakely, who has had charge of that department for several weeks past.
Mr. Friendly is to be congratulated upon his enterprise in making these improvements. His business, through up-to-date advertising and reliable business methods, has made a phenomenal growth during the past few years, and the increase justifies this enlargement.

REPORT OF DISTRICT S. S. CONVENTION

Held at Franklin Friday and Saturday of Last Week—A Successful Meeting.

(Special Correspondence.)
Franklin, May 28.—The Junction District Sunday School Association met at Franklin Friday, May 24, at 2 p. m., and was called to order by the president of the district, O. Bennett.
The devotional service was led by R. C. Beaman, of Franklin.
"The Responsibility of the Sunday School to the Community" was the first topic taken up during the afternoon, led by Dr. Parks, with Rev. D. E. Baker, L. Lemmon and others taking part in the discussion that followed.
The evening session began at 7:30 with a song and prayer service led by the Sunday schools of Franklin.
The address of the evening was made by Rev. J. M. Morris, of Eugene, his subject being "The Model Teacher."
At 11 a. m. Saturday Rev. D. E. Baker addressed the convention, talking for his subject "Sunday School Evangelism."
At noon Saturday the convention sat down to a dinner provided by the Franklin people.
Several important questions were taken up by the convention, and in the discussion that followed it was plainly evident that the Sunday school workers in the district were very much in earnest with their work. Several on the program could not be there on account of sickness.
Among those who took part in the convention work and were so helpful were: Dr. and Mrs. Parks, William Pitney and Mrs. Stroms, of Junction; Rev. J. M. Morris and Rev. D. E. Baker, of Eugene; C. J. Hurd, of Santa Clara; Mr. Bristol, of River View; L. L. Cobb, of Elmira; L. Lemmon, of Fern Ridge; B. C. Beaman and J. P. Kirk, of Franklin, and Mrs. Mitchell, president of the county association.
Miss Hazel Moffitt, of Junction, gave a very interesting account of class organization as tried in the Christian Sunday school at Junction City.

Mrs. Pristow, of River View, and Miss Bradley, of Elmira, told of their experience in primary work. Mrs. Mitchell gave an account of the state work.
The secretary's report showed sixteen Sunday schools in the district. All but three of these reported. In the district there are 105 officers and teachers; total membership of schools, 1,059. There were 55 additions to the churches from the Sunday schools. Amount contributed for all purposes, $372.
C. J. Hurd, of Santa Clara, was chosen president of the district, and J. M. Day secretary for the coming year.
A vote of thanks was tendered Orrin Bennett for his services as president of the district during many years. Mr. Bennett has moved out of the district, and his work here will be remembered gratefully.
Santa Clara invited the association to meet at that place next year, and the invitation was accepted. The convention was then closed with the song, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

BORN.

At Goshen, Oregon, May 18, 1907, to the wife of George Beckwith, a 10 1-2 pound daughter.

E. J. McClanahan, who has just returned from a trip to Los Angeles, says the southern metropolis is a very busy place and is constantly growing. His son, E. E. McClanahan, is doing well and now weighs over 180 pounds. San Francisco, Mr. McClanahan says, is in a frightful condition in almost every respect. Banks refuse to loan money, building operations are tied up and the street car strike paralyzes business.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I beg to announce that I have purchased of Wm. Staiger, of Salem, Or., his business and entire stock of materials, which is without doubt the largest, best finished and selected stock in the state, and consists of Scotch, Swedish and Eastern granite and Vermont marble; monuments, tablets, etc., of nearly every design. I have some exceptionally good things to offer the people of Eugene and Lane county at this time. I can make prompt delivery. Besides the stock on hand I have also on the new and coming by rail Scotch and Vermont granite.
Now is the opportunity to make a good selection for summer and fall delivery, and have your work well set before the rainy season.

LITTLE GOOD LAND REMAINS
Greater Portion Open to Entry at Roseburg is Already Acquired.

Roseburg, Or., May 27.—Since the publication in the newspapers of May 11 of news from Washington to the effect that approximately 91,500 acres of land adjacent to the Ashland and Siskiyou National forests, in this district, would be released from withdrawal for forestry purposes and restored to entry August 22, the local land office has been flooded with requests for information concerning these lands. It should be explained that but a small part of the lands thus released are vacant and subject to entry under these orders. Within this area are 12,160 acres of school land, 37,880 unsurveyed, and 27,520 acres of the California & Oregon Railroad grant. Of the remainder of the 960 acres, probably 75 per cent had been entered by private claimants before the withdrawal, and they were, of course, the more accessible and desirable lands. Probably not more than 8000 acres of land available for entry is included in the area released by this order, most of which is of different quality or so inaccessible as not to be very valuable.
The other recent releases in this district of lands that had been withdrawn for forestry purposes may be similarly disseminated for the purpose of actually made available for entry.

Now is the opportunity to make a good selection for summer and fall delivery, and have your work well set before the rainy season.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS FROM ABROAD

Concord, May 23.—An interested crowd of spectators, mostly Christian Scientists, gathered in the Merrimack county court house today attending the suit brought by the "next of friends" of Mary Baker G. Eddy against Calvin Frye and other Christian Scientists for an accounting of Mrs. Eddy's property.
Judge Chamberlain announced regarding the motion made on Monday that he rule on Mrs. Eddy's competency, that he would not try the main question at this time, but directed that arguments be confined strictly to the question of intervention by the trustees.
General Streeter, of counsel for the defendant, stated that the suit was brought without Mrs. Eddy's consent, and asked that the trustees nominated in her recent deed of trust be substituted for the complainants in the present suit. The trustees asked this as a matter of legal right, General Streeter said, as they appeared in court under authority of Mrs. Eddy's deed. He asserted that if the deed is valid, Mrs. Eddy's property has all been transferred to the trustees, and they ask to be allowed to carry it on. If Mrs. Eddy's competency is attacked then that question must be decided first, and if the nominal complainant (Mrs. Eddy) is not incapacitated, then the "next friends" have no standing in court. It depends entirely: with the court whether the "next friends" suit shall be allowed to proceed, and in deciding the question the court should be guided by the best interests of the persons bringing the suit as the "next friends" do so at their own risk and must defend the propriety and necessity for such action at any time called upon, as they are now doing.
Mr. Kelly, counsel for the plaintiffs, said that General Streeter had not challenged the good faith of the plaintiffs in any of the documents filed by him.
Streeter replied that he was laying down the general principle of law applicable to the case.
Jefferson City, Mo., May 24.—Commissioner Anthony, appointed by the Missouri supreme court to take testimony in the ouster suit of the estate against the Standard Oil Company, today made his report to the court. He holds that the evidence introduced is sufficient to oust the Standard Oil Company and its tributary companies from Missouri.

Attorney-General Hadley filed a suit in the supreme court two years ago charging that the Standard Oil Company, the Waters-Pierce Oil Company and the Republic Oil Company were in a trust and parties to a conspiracy to control the price of oil and petroleum products in Missouri, and limit competition in the oil business. More than a year was occupied in taking testimony, witnesses having been examined in New York, St. Louis and other cities.
In Commissioner Anthony's report the charges are confirmed "that the companies secured control of 90 per cent of the oil business, depriving the people of free, full and wholesome competition; that the oil companies misled the public into the belief that they were separate and distinct corporations, when in fact the agreement made them one corporation."

San Jose, Cal., May 25.—Eight or ten are believed to have been burned to death by a fire shortly after 3 o'clock this morning in the rear of Frederick Browne's commission store on North Market street, near St. James. In a few minutes the fire spread to G. W. Lafferty's livery stables and the Union lodging house above the stables. If these rooms forty sleeping lodgers were awakened by the noise of the terrified horses in the stable below. All the horses, twenty in number, were burned to death.
In spite of the efforts of the firemen the flames leaped to the upper portion of the building, and that all the occupants of the rooms were not caught in the death trap seems a miracle. Rushing into the halls in their night garments they groped their way in the choking, blinding smoke, led by the voices of the firemen, who had hastened to their rescue.
Later four bodies were recovered from the ruins, and it became known this afternoon that fifteen men who slept in the lodging house are missing, but some of these may be out of town.
Two bodies were identified as those of George Hearn, of Los Angeles, and John McDonald, of this city, in the employ of the water company.
There were many narrow escapes.
Two cans filled with inflammable materials soaked in oil were found and are believed to indicate that the

A Stable Distance.

Two travelers were journeying along a dusty road on a hot day toward Squashville, where they expected to satisfy their thirst and their hunger and to put up for the night. A native approached, driving a weary team.
"How far is it to Squashville?" they asked.
"About two miles," he replied, squinting back over the road as though measuring the distance.
Encouraged by the progress they had made, they joggled along hopefully until it seemed as though they must have gone six or eight miles when they met another stranger.
"How far is it to Squashville?"
"About two miles," he replied carelessly.
"Sure?"
"Course I am. I live there."
Another long and weary walk, seemingly of several miles, followed, when they met a third man.
"How far is it to Squashville?"
"Two miles," replied the stranger.
"Well, thank goodness," said one, "we are not losing anything."
