

HARTOG, THE PROMOTER, IS HERE PREPARED TO BEGIN WORK IN EARNEST FOR UPBUILDING OF GREATER EUGENE

(From Thursday's Guard.)

John H. Hartog, Eugene's new promoter, arrived last night, accompanied by his two little girls, and stopping at the Smeede Hotel for the time being.

When a representative of The Guard called on him today he had just taken the trolley ride past the University and was highly enthusiastic about the beautiful hills around which Eugene is set. Asked about his plans for the advancement of Eugene, he said:

"I have no plans as yet, although I have thought of a thousand and one things that might be done, for during the past six weeks there has been one thing uppermost in my thoughts, and that was how to proceed with my new task. But what is the use of outlining any plans until I find out what the Commercial Club wants? In order to satisfy the board of governors and the subscribers, it is necessary to find out their wishes."

When asked if he did not have some general plan, Mr. Hartog replied:

"No; there is no plan of promoting a community which can serve for all. Each place needs a campaign to suit its own particular needs and situation. But I can tell you this: I never dream of grand visions and wonderful accomplishments. The thing to do is to get busy and attend to the little things as they come up; boost Eugene to the outside world and get the Eugene people in such a frame of mind that each one is a booster on his own hook. I can get the people, but before attempting to bring them I must be thoroughly acquainted with the conditions here, for there is no greater mistake than bringing anybody here through misrepresentation."

The Guard representative spoke of magazine advertising and Mr. Hartog replied that he was in favor of it, provided the advertiser was in a position to answer all of the inquiries in a thorough manner, as otherwise the greater part of the money invested was thrown away. He showed a sample of his own style of advertising matter, consisting of a letter signed by a newcomer and printed in some foreign language in which the new arrival tells how he found the land and corroborating the statements sent out by Mr. Hartog.

"That kind of a letter, sent to people of the same nationality, who are in the humor for moving to the Pacific Northwest, will bring more result than many an expensive advertisement which may not happen to reach the very people you are after," he added.

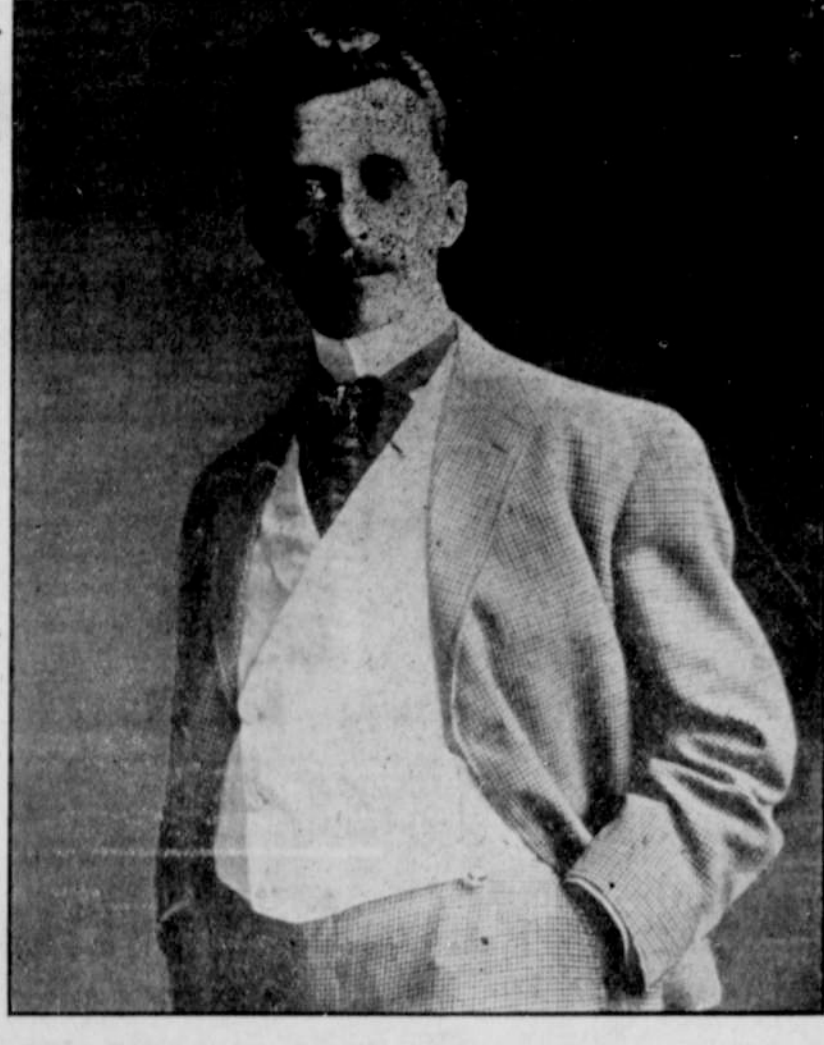

It goes without saying that our new manager of the Commercial Club promotion work is pleased with his new home and spoke admiringly of our splendidly paved streets, our up-to-date stores, our modern electric cars, but after all, the one thing he referred to more than any other was the superb surroundings of our city.

Mr. Hartog's Portland Speech
At a recent banquet of the Portland Commercial Club, Mr. Hartog was one of the speakers. He said in part:

"Now, since I was engaged to come to Eugene, I have made a nuisance of myself buttonholing everybody I met, asking about Oregon, and to my utter amazement, I heard nothing but good. Even a Californian told me that the summers in the Willamette valley were the most delightful on earth."

"While enroute to Portland last Sunday there was no such thing as reading, for from daybreak to sunset I was hypnotized watching the beautiful country. Thus far the most beautiful trip in my memory was along New Zealand's fern-clad mountains, but Sunday I discovered a trip which beats even that."

"As we approached Ashland we

came past such beautiful orchards and lovely farms that I had to admit that this was the first time that the beautiful Pacific coast pictures I had seen in Chicago lay before me in reality, in all their glory and beauty.

"And as I quizzed people all along the line, nobody had a bad word or even an insinuating remark to offer. Everybody I spoke to seemed a booster. The Ashland man made me taste the splendid water at the station and spoke in glowing terms of Eugene. The Rogue river resident answered my questions by saying that the Willamette valley was a garden spot. The passengers told me about Portland's beauties, and the Portlanders tell me about Eugene's up-to-dateness."

"What an awakening! Where do you get that spirit? How do you foster it? Is it not delightful to have the people of your state all boosting their whole state? It is one of the most convincing inducements for a newcomer to stay here."

"Think of what persistent advertising will do among a people who are so willing to help your boosting."

"I have come across people here who asked me whether Eugene was east or south and how far Eugene was from Portland. I guarantee that they will know all about Eugene before many moons. Others I have met are not sure whether there is a State University at Eugene or not. Think of the possibilities for advertising not only among the Eastern and European people, but right here among our Portlanders."

"I was at luncheon today at your University Club. Was there any picture of your splendid University? No; but I went to buy some views of Oregon scenes, but in several places visited could not find any views of Eugene nor of your own State University. We'll change all that. My word for it, I realize that in order to make the University known I will have to start right at home, right here. And when I get you Portlanders interested and proud of what you have in Eugene, just think of the help your co-operation will be to my work."

"Now you go abroad and tell of your magnificent location, your wonderful park, your fine drinking water, but I hope to see the day when you will all talk about the one thing you are all interested in, one thing you should all be proud of and help advertise by words of praise, and that is the University of Oregon."

"And then your beautiful valleys. Is it not peculiar that a man, interested as I am in advertising, should live to my age and not know of the beauty of these valleys until Sunday, November 10th, 1907?"

"If we can put the facts before the people east of us, even across the Atlantic ocean, how can they but have a desire to come here and help build up an empire in beautiful Oregon?"

"In all the world I tell you in all sincerity I have not feasted my eyes on any such scenes as I beheld in your valleys. The only difficulty I see in the way is how to impress on others that which I feel."

"My advertising campaign in the Sacramento valley resulted in bringing people clear across from Europe, bound directly to the little town of Colusa. And we can bring them much easier to Lane county, for if my newcomers are half as enthusiastic as I am, they will bubble over with anxiety to have their friends come, too."

"And as they will all come to Portland first, it behooves us to secure your co-operation. We need you. But you also need us. If through the Oregon Development League we could erect a museum of exhibits at your union depot, it would keep many a traveler from going across the line into California."

AMATEUR ATHLETIC RULES ARE ADOPTED

New York, Nov. 28.—After a long discussion at its meeting held Monday the Amateur Athletic Union finally decided on the status that college athletics are to hold in amateur athletics in the future. By the resolution, which was finally passed, it is decreed that college athletes may only register with the union from two places—their college and the homes of their parents or guardians. An attempt was made to confine college athletes to their colleges, but the delegates believing that this change was altogether too drastic, the resolution was amended to include their homes.

Sports at Seattle Fair.
James E. Sullivan was unanimously re-elected president, and John J. Dixon secretary and treasurer. John J. O'Connor, H. G. Penniman, Dr. George Orton and Everett C. Brown were elected vice-presidents.

Mr. Sullivan, in his annual address, favored dealing with college athletes in a liberal spirit. Athletic championships at expositions were commended by the president, and he particularly recommended favorable action on the proposed Pacific Northwest division, advanced by J. S. Goldsmith, in relation to the sports at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition at Seattle in 1909.

New Records for the Year.
The annual report of the record committee, authorizing records for the past year as follows, was approved:

999-yard run—M. W. Sheppard; time, 2:01 4-5.

Four-mile run—George V. Bohannan, Irish-American A. C.; time, 20:11 1-8.

100-yard hurdle, 8 flights, first hurdle 20 yards from the start—J. S. Hill; time, 0:12 1-5.

100-yard hurdle, 8 flights, first hurdle 15 yards from start—J. S. Hill; time, 0:12 1-5.

100-yard hurdle, 10 flights—S. C. Northridge, Iowa A. C.; time, 0:12 1-5.

60-yard hurdle, 5 flights, 3 feet 6 inches—S. C. Northridge; time, 0:08 1-5.

Pole vault, for height—12 feet 5 1/2 inches; W. R. Dray, Yale.

Pole vault, for distance—28 feet; M. J. Sheridan, N. Y. A. C.

Throwing 16-pound hammer—173 feet 7 inches; M. J. McGrath, N. Y. A. C.

Throwing 12-pound hammer—190 feet 9 inches; L. F. Talbot.

Throwing 56-pound weight—38 feet 8 inches; J. J. Flannagan, Iowa A. C.

Shot-putting by Ralph Rose, California—8-pound, 67 feet 7 inches; 12-pound, 55 feet 11 1/2 inches; 14-pound, 51 feet 6 1/2 inches; 13-pound, 43 feet 9 1/2 inches; 21-pound, 49 feet 3 1/2 inches; 28-pound, 34 feet 5 1/2 inches; 16-pound, 49 feet 7 1/2 inches.

C. M. Daniels, New York A. C., was awarded swimming records from 25 yards to one mile, including 31 intermediate distances, his one-mile record being 23:40 3-5, with 87 turns.

STORY OF BIG GAME ON THANKSGIVING DAY

Portland, Nov. 28.—Before one of the largest crowds which ever attended a game in this city, the University of Oregon won the annual Thanksgiving day contest with the Multnomah Club eleven by a score of 10 to 5, the scoring being done on a place kick and two touchdowns and a goal.

All three of the plays had origin in fumbles, which put the ball in the hands of the opposing team.

In the early part of the first half Multnomah fumbled and the varsity boys got the ball on the club's twenty-five-yard line. From there Moulton, left guard, landed the ball between the posts on a place kick. A few minutes later the club again fumbled on their twenty-yard line, and Oregon scored a touchdown by circling the left end, Moulton kicking goal. The half ended with the ball in the center of the field.

In the second half Oregon fumbled directly after the kick-off and the ball landed in the club's hands. The club drove the ball fifty-five yards across the varsity goal line by straight line bucks and plunging, never losing it until a touchdown was made. Rader, full back, failed to kick the goal.

During the rest of the game Multnomah kept continually forcing the ball into Oregon territory, only to have it punted back every time.

The game ended with the ball in Oregon's territory.

Sextet of Oregon Stars.
Out of the mainstrom of a monotonous and weary struggle, and was beaten down only to rise again and continue the fight, the work of six students stood out. They were Anspischer, Kuykendall, Moores, Zacharias, Pinkham and Clark. Hope never died in the breasts of these men and they assaulted the clubmen's line as fearlessly at the end of the game as they did at the beginning. And sharing with them in their honors in the Titan-like struggle that went on for almost two hours, were Stett, Walker, McMillan, Rader, Long, and Pratt for the clubmen.

It was the work of these men that made the sullen retreat of Multnomah a thing wonderful to look at. They fought like madmen.

Total Receipts $5200.
The threatening weather had something to do with keeping the people at home, yet it is estimated that 5500 saw the game.

While it is too early to give the exact amount of money taken in, it will figure almost $4500. Of this amount $800 will go the Multnomah Club for expenses. This will leave about $4000 to be divided between the University and Multnomah Club. The extra 50 cents charged for seats in the grand stand goes to the club and will amount to perhaps $400.

What the Referee Said.
It was one of the best games I have ever been my fortune to witness. If anything, I believe Oregon excelled the splendid defensive work exhibited against the University of Washington. Youth will tell, and the younger team demonstrated this plainly this afternoon. Multnomah has a very strong, heavy team, but displayed lack of practice. I believe the result demonstrates the relative merits of the teams quite clearly.—John Owsley, referee.

O. A. C. DEFEATED LOS ANGELES TEAM

Los Angeles, Nov. 28.—The football eleven of the Oregon Agricultural College today won the championship by defeating St. Vincent's college by a score of 10 to 6. A touchdown and a goal from the 30-yard line in the first fifteen minutes of play accounted for Oregon's success.

In the second half the St. Vincents outplayed their opponents, but were unable to score. In this half Oregon secured the ball on St. Vincents' two-yard line, but were unable to buck their way across the goal. Oregon generally had the best of the line playing, St. Vincents being unable to make consistent gains through the line. Most of their gains were made on forward passes, quarterback kicks and an occasional end run.

IDAH0 AND U. OF W. PLAY THE GAME

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 28.—Idaho and Washington fought to a standstill this afternoon, neither eleven being able to score. Idaho had the best during the first half, puzzling Washington by their style of play.

The Washington's tackling was miserable, and Idaho made substantial gains time and again after shaking off the purple and gold warriors.

In the second half the ball was in Idaho's territory most of the time, but Washington was unable to push the ball over the chalk line for a touchdown. Grimm, of Washington, made three attempts at field goals, but all were failures. Small starred for the visiting team, while Grimm put up the best game for Washington.

Other Scores.
Butte, Mont., Nov. 28.—Butte retained championship of the high schools of the Pacific Northwest by defeating Billings today by a score of 27 to 0.

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 28.—Spokane High, 17; Tacoma High, 4.

Baker City, Nov. 28.—Baker City High, 5; Portland High, 0.

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 28.—Seattle Athletic, 10; Spokane Athletic, 0.

COTTAGE GROVE ITEMS OF INTEREST

A. L. Woodward commenced Monday morning driving logs on the upper Coast Fork. The river at that time was at a good logging stage, though later the water receded. However, it is thought that there will be water enough for the rest of the winter log driving.

The police department has commenced a campaign against the town dogs. The brutes are not particular whose lawn they mar, wherefore the marshal has taken the matter in hand. He says it may be necessary to use his Smith & Wesson broom, though that extreme measure has not yet been adopted.

John Truand and his brother Jesse are preparing to set out a pear orchard of about thirty-five acres. John's lot is about eleven and a half acres in size, and the other twenty-two. The division is a line through the orchard, so that from the road the orchards will appear as one. The variety planted will be the Comice and another of the popular high-priced varieties.

E. T. Judd, William Schulerich and C. R. Grieson guided by the fruit inspector of Lane county, made a trip to London Springs Tuesday last where they addressed a gathering of people of that neighborhood. Mr. Schulerich talked on the dairy, Mr. Judd on the draft horse, and Mr. Grieson on apples and pears. The attendance at the impromptu meeting was good, and great interest was aroused.—Western Oregon.

CONSTRUCTION OF HILLSBORO ELECTRIC LINE AT ONCE

Construction of the United Railways' Interurban line will be pushed through to Hillsboro at once. The steel is arriving, a large supply of ties on hand, and nothing but the worst kind of weather will stop winter work on this project. The company is financed and will go ahead with its entire project regardless of financial conditions, just as soon as its amended franchise is finally disposed of by the council so that it can get the use of a few blocks remaining necessary to make connection with its private right of way outside of the city limits.—Portland Telegram.

PREMIUM ON MONEY SLUMPS IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 28.—Yesterday being the day before a holiday, money brokers expected to reap a harvest by selling currency, but were disappointed. There was a large demand for currency to meet payrolls and for other purposes, but the banks supplied practically all the cash that was needed. The premium rate fell to three-quarters of one per cent., lending weight to the statement of bankers to a short time ago that the premium would soon disappear entirely.

SPRINGFIELD HOLDS ELECTION MONDAY

TAXPAYERS' TICKET, HEADED BY M. M. PEERY, NAMED—OTHER ITEMS FROM EUGENE'S NEIGHBOR

At a convention held at the town hall at Springfield Monday evening a ticket was nominated for the coming municipal election, which will be held on Monday, December 2. It will be known as the "taxpayers' ticket." The officers that will be met at the close of the term will be mayor, three councilmen, recorder and treasurer. For these different offices M. M. Peery was nominated for mayor, Harry M. Stewart and John Kestley for councilmen for two years, L. M. Beebe recorder and B. A. Washburne treasurer, to serve one year each.

Owing to the refusal of John Kestley to accept the nomination for councilman on the taxpayers' ticket, Geo. Perkins, who is nominee on the citizens' ticket, will be endorsed and his name will appear on both tickets.

A number of our citizens went up to the head of the race Sunday to watch the Booth-Kelly loggers break the big jam of over 4000 logs. The recent high water brought the big birch of logs out of Fall creek and other creeks along the line and they were brought down to the boom at the race with a rush. A large force of men worked all day Sunday and Monday and succeeded in breaking the jam and got the logs all into the race in safety.

The Springfield Commercial Club has adopted the slogan, "The biggest town on earth for the size of it." All letter heads and envelopes that will hereafter be sent out by our business men will bear this inscription. Let everybody remember that Springfield is the biggest town on earth for the size of it.

Traveling Agent E. A. Colony is temporarily taking charge of the work at the Southern Pacific depot at Springfield until the permanent agent arrives. D. H. OREGON HAS MUCH TO BE THANKFUL FOR

(Special Correspondence.)
Portland, November 28.—The substantial condition of the Pacific Northwest is illustrated in a most convincing way by the wheat and flour shipments of Columbia river and Sound ports. For the ten months beginning January 1st and ending October 31st, there were exported from Portland and Puget Sound ports (including Seattle, Tacoma and other points), a total of 8,893,480 bushels of wheat, and a total of 3,561,726 barrels of flour. The exact figures are:

Portland—5,380,050 bu. wheat; 1,168,886 bbls. flour.

Seattle, Tacoma and other Sound ports—3,513,430 bu. wheat; 2,392,840 bbls. flour.

Smile and Look Pleasant.
The heavy movement of grain for the tremendous crop of the present year has been temporarily delayed by the financial situation, but is now on, and the months of November and December will make the record shipments of all history. There are twenty-three vessels in Portland harbor at this time, including the steamers and sailing vessels, and their principal cargo will be grain and flour. The equipment in Puget Sound ports is similar to that here. A few months must necessarily make the financial situation in this part of the United States better than it ever has been before, and in the face of figures such as these it is impossible for anyone to present a substantial reason for a continuance of the present inconvenience as to actual cash.

Be an Optimist.
The output of lumber from the sawmills and shingle mills, as well as the products of box and furniture factories, and all industries using native woods has been greater during the present year than ever before.

fore, and the cash for this is constantly coming in.

The live-stock industry has had a good year, the wool clip has been enormous, while fruit in 1907 has added to the wealth of Oregon and more than during prosperous 1906. No figures are available on the dairy products of Washington, but Oregon has jumped from nothing ten years ago to 5,000,000 five years ago, and $17,000,000 during 1907. The progress in irrigation has never been so marked as during the ten months just passed, both in government and private products.

More homebuilders have come into the Pacific Northwest than ever before, one system of railroads reporting for Oregon points alone 230 colonists for every day between September 1st and October 31st. Many of these new settlers have come to the state with from $2,000 to $30,000 and have invested it—the result will be a great increase in the productivity of both states.

Nothing to Kick About.

Building operations throughout Oregon and Washington have been without precedent, and while there are numerous skyscrapers, office buildings and apartment houses, the building of homes has led. More money has been placed in industrial plants and transportation facilities than through any other avenue. Wholesale and retail trade has been unparalleled, surpassing even the large sales of 1906, and this during the weeks when our banks, like those all over the United States, are paying in clearing house certificates. The products of the farm and orchard are bringing the highest possible price, and that conditions will be normal and that substantial prosperity will reign here within the next 90 days is absolutely assured, if people can only get into the habit of looking through optimistic glasses, and there is not a single sound reason why anyone should be pessimistic. How they can be other than confident it is impossible to conceive.

LAID OFF ONLY DURING WINTER

Carl Rankin, chief engineer on the survey of the Inverness-Kamath road, was in the city awhile last evening, returning to Eugene on the local, says the Albany Democrat. He is disposing of all the mountain outfit remaining. The winter before an attempt was made to cache some of the things and keep them in the mountains until spring, but they did not keep well, so it was decided to dispose of everything and buy new when work is resumed, as it probably will be. The inference in the Eugene papers that this is an abandonment of the project is not correct. It is simply the stopping for the winter. Harriman has taken off all engineers until the present financial flurry is over, that is all. The survey will probably be resumed and there is a good deal ahead.

One of Mr. Rankin's pleasant experiences was the meeting of Mr. Harriman last summer on his trip through the country, the distinguished railroad magnate stopping at the camp for awhile to inspect the work being done.

GOOD STREETS FOR COTTAGE GROVE

The Cottage Grove Commercial Club sent a delegation to the good roads convention at Portland last week that has come home with practical plans and specifications for the economical improvement of Main street. Councilman Comer, who heard all the lectures by the road experts, declares that main street has a foundation for a magnificent thoroughfare. What more is needed is a coating of crushed rock about three inches thick, which must be thoroughly packed by rolling. All the depressions will be filled and a proper covering for the high places. When that is done there will be a smooth, even surface. The next to go on is two coats of hot coal tar. This rolled and packed down hard will make a good standard bitulithic road, and it won't cost half as much as to dip the packed roadbed as it now exists. Mr. Comer's visit to Portland will be worth dollars to Cottage Grove, besides the good roads that will be built.—Western Oregon.

RECOMMENDED SUIT TO RECOVER LAND

Washington, Nov. 27.—It is the opinion of B. D. Townsend and his assistant, McBlair, that the Oregon & California land grant problem can best be solved by bringing suit in court to compel forfeiture of the grant, on the ground that the company has violated the terms of the law under which the grant was made. To simplify matters, they recommend that congress pass a resolution specifically authorizing the introduction of forfeiture proceedings. It will then remain for the court to decide on the merits and to determine what part of the grant shall be forfeited. No difficulty is likely to be experienced in securing the passage of the necessary resolutions.

The Townsend recommendation is yet to be approved of by the attorney-general and by members of the Oregon congressional delegation before whom it will be laid the latter part of this week.

The total assessment in Marion county is over $21,000,000, an increase of $3,000,000 over last year's.

Several thousand dollars have just been dug up under an old hotel that was burned by the big San Francisco fire, some boys being directed by a seers.

AN OLD MAN ROBBED NEAR COTTAGE GROVE

Guard Special Service.
Cottage Grove, Or., Nov. 28.—Andrew Walker, an old man and a stranger here, passing through the country on foot, was held up by three negroes and two white men two or three miles south of here today about noon and robbed of $205. The robbers held him up at the point of a pistol and he could do nothing but disgorge. Walker hurried back to Cottage Grove and notified the officers. City Marshal Snodgrass and Warren McFarland took out after the robbers and at 3:30 this afternoon a report came that they had captured them and were on their way here with them.

COYOTES KILLED NEAR COTTAGE GROVE

The coyotes are having a hard life hereabouts because of the roving habits of the McFarland Bros' hounds, says the Cottage Grove Western Oregon. A few days ago the dogs started something on Mosby creek and the howl was heard by William Van Gordon, who took a stand where he thought the varmint might pass. Sure enough it was not many minutes before a wolf at his best gait was about to pass—but a long shot cut short his career. A minute later the dogs were upon it, but they were too late for a scrimmage. The coyote was very large, so great that the hunters think he may have been a cross between the common coyote and a timber wolf. On Thursday last the same dogs started a coyote on R. H. Kenady's place south of town. They came up with it at Curtin Spur, where they killed it.

IDAH0 FARMERS SAID TO BE WICKED HORSE THIEVES
Moscow, Idaho, Nov. 28.—Henry J. Bauer and Edgar Kent have confessed to being members of one of the bands of horse thieves that have been worrying the officials of Northern Idaho for several months. The prisoners have named several of the most prominent ranchers in this section of the state as leaders of the gang. Frank White and George Foreman, both well-known farmers, have been arrested.

The men who confessed declare that White picked out the horses to be stolen while Foreman was engineer-in-chief of the gang's operations, furnishing the brains and money of the organization. Glen Gordon, who was arrested last summer, is said to have run the animals into British Columbia. The outfit operated in Idaho, Washington, Montana and Canada. Bauer is constable at Juliette.

The report having gone out that Governor Gooding was about to call a special session of the Idaho legislature for the present financial situation and to take up the question of tax-paying, the executive has announced that he does not believe an emergency exists demanding such action on his part, but if an emergency should arise he would not hesitate to call the members together.

MANY PLAGUE DEATHS DUE TO RELIGIOUS BELIEF

Lahore, Nov. 28.—Efforts of the Indian government to stop the ravages of the plague up to the present time have been hampered by the refusal of the Mohammedans to evacuate the infected villages because forbidden by the Koran to "flee from the wrath of God," and fully a quarter of a million deaths from the plague among Moslems are due directly to this belief. But now the heads of the Moslem faith, urged by the British government, have issued a proclamation pointing out the untenability of this idea, declaring the Koran expressly enjoins the Mohammedans to evacuate places smitten by Allah with this disease. The government is publishing the proclamation broadcast.

HAD NOTHING TO BE THANKFUL FOR

Appleton, Wis., Nov. 28.—"I have lived for thirty-six Thanksgivings and never had anything to be thankful for, so here goes—nothing," reads a note left by Joseph Meislem, proprietor of the Manitowish Hotel, who at 6 o'clock today blew the top of his head off with a double-barreled shotgun, discharging both barrels.
