PORTLAND MARKET REPORT
Portland, Or., Jan. 29.—Onion prices have reached $3.25 per 100 pounds along Front street. This is an advance of 25c over all former quotations. Several firms say they are getting this figure while others are charging $3. However, those who are now charging $3 were formerly selling at $2.50 when others were asking $3. Receipts of onions in this city are very small; growers letting go of very few sacks. Only one lot of any consequence was reported sold at country points during the past 24 hours, this being moved at $2.50. There are many of fers being put out by buyers at this figure, but growers are not disposed to treat with them. Most of them are holding for $3 or better. One or two buyers are said to be offering $2.60 at country shipping points without success.

Little Doing in Poultry.
Poultry stocks on the street today were comparatively light, as is usual at this time of the week, and trade was of small volume, with prices practically the same as at the close of last week. Hens and chickens sell at 11 1/2 to 12 1/2 cents a pound, and live ducks at 10 to 17 cents. There is little or no demand for either turkeys or geese. Strictly fancy veal is worth 9 1/2 cents and fancy block hogs sell at 6 1/2 cents and 7 cents.
In both lines considerable under-grade stuff is being recorded, for which top prices cannot be secured.
Eggs are weak at 25c to 28 cents.

Chinook Salmon in Market.
Small quantities of Chinook salmon are now being taken from the Columbia river. Until now the market has been practically bare of this fish for several weeks, and it will be some time yet before there will be any large supply. They sell at 12 1/2 cents a pound, heads on.
The supply of steel-heads is still fairly and the price today is 9 1/2 cents.
Other fish are unchanged. The oyster market is reported duller than usual at this time of the year, with prices unchanged.

Apples Firm and Active.
A strong tone prevails in the local apple market, induced by the steady and active demand for good fruit, and the decrease in the supply of under-grade products. Prices in general are about the same as for several days past and most of the offerings now in the market are good to choice.
There is a fair shipping demand for good apples, but dealers say that present stocks are none too large for home needs and the chances are that few if any will be sent to other markets.

Butter Market is Weaker.
A weaker tone is shown in the local butter market. City creamery men still state that they are able to clean up their best quality at ruling prices but there is tremendous pressure on account of the great accumulations from outside makers.
The creamery situation is weak, but no immediate changes in values are anticipated but the trade is of the opinion that the next movement of prices will be downward.

Brief Notes of the Trade.
No smelt being caught in the Cow-litz.

A car of celery was among the day's rail arrivals from the south.
Market firm.

Poultry remains scarce and in some instances prices are higher.

Several cars of bananas arrived in. Were mostly green, but in good shape. Scarcity of ripe stock along the street at the present moment.

Egg market is still tumbling; lower prices being in effect today.

Sale of hops continue quite liberal, with growers seemingly anxious to get at the low prices now ruling.
However, dealers are making every effort to land contracts on the coming crop around 11 c a pound.

Potato market is steady with dealers willing to buy ordinary quality around 50 @ 60c per 100 pounds.
Some small demand for seed coming from the south.
Portland Livestock Market.
The livestock market generally is firm, with no changes from the quotations that prevailed yesterday.
Cattle—Best steers, $4.00 @ 4.25; medium, $3.50 @ 4.00; cows, $2.50 @ 2.75; bulls, $1.50 @ 2.50; calves, $3.75 @ 4.25.
Sheep—Good shorned, $4.25 @ 4.75; full wool, $5.00 @ 5.50; lambs, $5.25 @ 6.00.
Hogs—5.00 @ 5.50; lights, fats and feeders, $4.75 @ 5.25.

PORTLAND MARKET REPORT

OLD PEOPLE'S HOME HAS TWO INMATES

Mrs. Sears, the old lady mentioned by The Guard yesterday as entering the Christian old folks' home in this city, having come up yesterday afternoon from Corvallis, is the second person to enter the institution since it was opened a short time ago, the first being Mrs. Todd, who is 95 years old and probably the oldest person in Lane county. She has resided in Eugene for a number of years.
Mrs. Todd was very glad to see Mrs.
Sears come, as she often became very lonely at the home with no one but the matron there. Soon after Mrs.
Sears' arrival the two old ladies found out that they were blood relations, being third cousins, a fact that they did not know before.

The home has been open for several weeks, only the smaller building of the two owned by the church being occupied at present. The Klosch Tillamook Club of the University occupies the larger residence, and will continue to do so until the end of the present year, after which it will be turned over for the use of the home.

Dr. Lows, the optician, will be in his Eugene office all next week. If you have headaches, have him test your eyes. Eighteen years experience.

C. C. Baber, of Junction, was looking after business interests in Eugene yesterday.

Eric Nelson, of Astoria, is in the city on business.

EXPERIENCE OF UTAH POULTRYMAN

E. P. Snelton, a chicken raiser of Cache county, Utah, relates his poultry experience in the following article:
I have been repeatedly asked, does poultry pay when you are obliged to buy the necessary supplies for egg production, such as beef scraps, oyster shells, varieties of grain etc?
The following figures are taken from an accurate account of outlay and income.

The amounts received for eggs and poultry sold each month are as follows. Variations are caused by the prices and amount of poultry sold:

December, 1906	$41.16
January, 1907	27.00
February, 1907	27.57
March, 1907	27.50
April, 1907	25.00
May, 1907	25.00
June, 1907	28.50
July, 1907	42.10
August, 1907	54.40
September, 1907	60.80
October, 1907	19.40
November, 1907	37.15
Total	$423.58

Expenses as follows:
Feed ..... $121.90
Oyster Shells ..... 5.35
Beef Scraps ..... 11.65 Express ..... 27.48
Five gals. Lee's Lice Killer ..... 4.00 Kerosene ..... 8.00
Lime ..... .85
Kreosol Dip ..... 2.00
Two quarts crystal carbolic ..... 1.00 Egg cases ..... 20.00
Total ..... $205.23
Leaving a profit of $218.35.
Our eggs and poultry were sold in Salt Lake to a reliable cafe.

At the beginning of December, 1906, we had 150 hens. They were placed in five pens. One coop is ten feet wide, forty feet long, four feet high at the back and seven in front. This is made of double lumber all throughout, with tar paper between; also paper between the sheeting and shingles. It faces south with four six-light windows, 12x14, with an opening of the same size covered with single burlap for ventilation.
This coop is divided into two pens, ten feet square.

In pen No. 1 were twenty-four hens and a cockerel, pure bred White Wyandottes.
In pen No. 2 were twenty-five half-breed Wyandottes; in pen No. 3, twenty-five half-breed White Leghorns and in pen No. 4, twenty-four pure-bred single-combed White Leghorns and cockerel.

The fifty remaining hens were mongrels, kept in a similarly constructed coop 10x20. These coops had a run attached to pen and chickens had the range of the orchard in summer and mild weather.
The Wyandottes laid fairly well during the winter; the half-breed Wyandottes paid for their feed; the half-breed Leghorns paid one and a half their feed, while the pure bred White Leghorns brought the profit.
The mongrels, cared for just the same, and in as good a coop, laid an average of four eggs a day. We kept daily account of eggs laid in each pen.

When spring came, for a few months the mongrels laid as well as the pure bred, but as the hot weather came on the egg yield from them seriously declined, while the purebreds kept the egg basket supplied until the molting season came.
Now in reference to feeding. At night we feed a mixture of whole grains or equal parts of corn, wheat and barley, more than they can consume. In the morning they are given the roots in the morning they will have something to scratch for among the straw. About nine o'clock they are fed oats in troughs; at 1 o'clock two parts cracked wheat and one part beef scraps and one part cracked corn fed dry. We do not feed corn in summer time. We keep oyster shells and charcoal in the hoppers before the mail the time with plenty of fresh water and clabber milk if possible. Nothing will equal the milk for egg production.

We aim to keep the coops in as perfect sanitary condition as possible using dropping boards, which are cleaned twice a week. Every two weeks a disinfectant is used—Lee's Lice Killer, kerosene, Kreosol dip, carbolic acid, and quantities of air-laked lime, and frequently given a coat of whitewash. We send to Kansas City for oyster shells, beef scraps and charcoal.
