

EUGENE'S NEW HOSPITAL ENTIRELY COMPLETED

THE EUGENE GENERAL HOSPITAL.

The Eugene General Hospital has been entirely completed and is now ready for patients. The building was opened for public inspection yesterday and a reception to the people of the city was held during the afternoon. Everybody who visited the institution admired the building and the completeness with which it is finished.

The building is located on the east side of College Hill, on a part of the old Humphrey place. It is a frame structure, two full stories high, with an attic and basement, 40x96 feet in dimensions, exclusive of the large porch in front, which is 12x30 feet in dimensions. The exterior of the building is covered with cement over brick walls, giving it the appearance of a brick structure. John Hunzicker was the architect and W. H. Alexander the contractor. The workmanship is of the best and reflects great credit on the architect, the builder and all who were in any manner connected with its construction.

In the basement of the building is the heating plant, the store room, laundry rooms and the kitchen. On the first floor are the reception hall, the house physician's office, the matron's room, the head nurse's room, three large wards with six beds each and a number of private rooms. On the second floor are only private rooms, some of them having private baths, separate toilets, etc. The operating rooms are in the north end of the building on this floor, and are fitted up with the latest appliances and fixtures known to surgical science. The walls are enameled throughout and the floors are of raccolith.

The entire building is lighted by electricity, and gas is also being installed. The building is heated by steam.

The woodwork on the interior of the building is very beautiful, and the exterior, as seen by the picture, is finished so as to give a handsome and pleasing effect. The furniture was furnished by the Campbell-Fellman Company, of this city, and is the best ever installed in any Northwest hospital.

The institution is a credit to the city and to the company of local citizens which built it. Eugene is proud of it.

WILLS MONEY TO GRESWELL CHURCH AND SOCIETIES

N. A. W. HOWE BEQUEATHS $2000 TO METHODIST CHURCH AT GRESWELL AND $200 EACH TO MISSIONARY AND CHURCH EXTENSION SOCIETIES.

The will of Norman A. W. Howe, the pioneer who died at his home at Creswell on January 25, was admitted to probate late yesterday afternoon. The estimated value of the property of the estate is $19,000. As provided in the will Mr. Howe's wife, Ann Elizabeth Howe, and his grandson, Louis H. Johnson, were appointed executors of the will, and F. E. Snodgrass, L. L. Goodrich and C. L. Scott were named as appraisers of the property.

The will, which was executed on April 6, 1895, provides as follows: After funeral expenses and debts are paid, the sum of $200 is bequeathed to the church extension society of the Methodist Episcopal church, and $200 to the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the church, to be used on the Pacific coast.

The sum of $300 each is bequeathed to his grandchildren, Lillian and Eugene Rhinehart, children of his deceased daughter, Clara. One-third of all the real and personal property that may be left after the above legacies are paid is bequeathed to his wife, Ann Elizabeth Howe.

All of the balance of property, both real and personal, is bequeathed to his children, Louise H. Johnson, Eugene L. Howe and Charles S. Howe.

A codicil to the will, executed November 14, 1902, directs that the executors shall sell the farm consisting of 200 acres and known as the Funnell farm, at public or private sale, as the executors may deem best, with order of the court; that the proceeds of the sale, not exceeding $2,000, be given to L. H. Johnson, trustee, in trust for the Methodist Episcopal church of Creswell, and said sum be invested by the trustee in such a manner as will in his judgment yield the greatest income and that said income be paid over to the trustees of said church as often as once a year for the benefit of the church.

HENEY HAS MADE GOOD

(Forest Grove News, Rep.)
As promised, Francis J. Heney gave United States Senator Charles W. Fulton a jolt in a speech made in Portland Tuesday night. All during the Hall trial, however, there has been but little to directly connect Fulton with the charge made by Heney, but it is conclusive that Fulton has aided in shielding criminals. The numerous letters exchanged between the senator and those indicted might not disclose enough evidence to insure an indictment, but they have been printed and read by the people, which is enough.

Hickory Bark Cough Remedy, made by the Hickory Brak Remedy Company, of Salem, Or., guaranteed to be pure; guaranteed to cure your cough or money refunded. Guaranteed to make a friend of you. For sale by Hull's Red Cross Drug Store and first-class dealers everywhere.

H. E. Owen, one of the street car conductors, who has been suffering for some time with rheumatism, leaves tonight for Beswick, Cal., where he will take treatment at the springs for his ailment. His many friends sincerely hope that he may fully recover. He will be accompanied by his uncle, Nes Owen, and they may make a trip to Los Angeles before returning home.

Eugene clearing house certificates representing between $500 and $600 were burned at the county clerk's office this forenoon by Trustee Lee in the presence of the presidents of the four Eugene banks. There remains but $100 of the certificates and they cannot be located by the banks. Perhaps some one is keeping them for souvenirs of the 1907 panic.

COMMERCIAL CLUB BOARD DISCUSSES MANY MATTERS

THREE HUNDRED DOLLARS APPROPRIATED FOR ADVERTISING EUGENE IN EASTERN NEWSPAPERS—DECORATIONS FOR COMING CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION

The board of governors of the Commercial Club met last evening, all being present except Mr. Friendly, who was in Portland.

The matter of participating in the Rose Festival at Portland was further discussed and correspondence on the subject was read and considered.

It was decided to select the evening of February 17 for the proposed visit of the Cottage Grove Commercial Club to Eugene.

Attention was called to the fact that of the $1275 expended since the promotion work started all but $29.75 was spent here, thereby really turning the money subscribed right back into the community that gives it.

Plans for advertising in Eastern city newspapers and in Eastern trade papers were submitted, and the sum of $300 appropriated for that purpose, final details to be submitted at the next meeting of the board. This advertising will be done now, while the East is wrapped in snow and ice and before the tourist trade takes effect.

An invitation from the Salem board of trade to send delegates to a love feast and commercial reunion on February 18 was acted on favorably and the manager instructed to attend, while at the general meeting of the club five more delegates will be selected.

The coming Christian Endeavor state convention was discussed, and also the need of proper decorations of our main streets; this matter was ordered taken up with the Merchants' Protective Association, as coming directly in their line.

Portland, Feb. 6.—The egg market, which was more or less unsettled yesterday because of the uncertainty of the weather conditions, for the immediate future, was weak again today on the return of warm weather. Yesterday some dealers held for 27 to 28 cents for Oregon ranch stock, but it is understood that no important sales were made at those figures. Today's prices were 25 to 26 cents, and at these prices the market was not active. Egg stocks generally are large, and the receipts today were considerably in excess of the demand.

There was no change of importance in the poultry market, which usually is not active until later in the week. While receipts of hens and chickens were not large, they were rather heavier than the requirements for the day.

In the orange market just now there is a serious shortage in large sizes, while the supply of the smaller grades is sufficient for the present. There is a chance, however, for a shortage in all grades in the near future, for the movement of the fruit from the south is almost at a standstill. One carload is on the way to this market, but when more will come is not known. The interruption in shipments is due to the bad weather that has prevailed in the orange districts for some time past. Prices here today were unchanged.

One car of lemons was received here today. The market is slow to steady, with no change from the quotations in force last week.

The Pearson-Paga Company received one car of sweet potatoes, which hold firmly at $3.25 per hundred. The market is strong here and in the south. A car of Jersey Island celery is due tomorrow.

W. B. Garke & Co. will this month make the last shipment for the season of apples to the Vladivostok market. This consignment will be about a carload, and it will probably leave within a week or ten days. Only the best late-keeping varieties will be included in the shipment.

The local apple market improves in a slow but steady way, though the prices have undergone no change for a week or more. The latest addition to local stocks was a small shipment that came in from Coos Bay.

Onion Growers Still Bullish.
"I can see nothing in the condition of the southern onion market to warrant paying more than $2.50 for Oregon products at this time," said a local dealer today. "But many of the growers still maintain their bullish views. They demand $3. They may get that figure, but it is doubtful, despite the fact that the San Francisco market is now fairly firm and stocks here limited. It must be remembered that Eastern onions are now going to the Southern markets, and it will be but a short time before there are supplies from Japan, to say nothing of the early California offerings that will be ready for the market next month."

Hops and Prohibition.
North Yaluma, Feb. 4.—The hop-growers of this state at the coming general election will have a power they have never had before, and as a result something in the nature of a combination between the hop producers and the liquor interests in Washington is not an impossibility and perhaps not improbable.

In four counties of that state they will be able to elect representatives to the legislature who will go pledged to support legislation demanded by them. In others they may be able to combine with other forces and in this way secure friends in the next legislature. It is apparent that the liquor interests, especially the brewers of the state, will really combine on any proposition looking to mutual strength, because the brewer has always found the hop-grower an enemy to prohibition. In Washington the liquor interests have always been active at election time, and an able lobby is always maintained at Olympia during the law-making season.

The organization of the Washington Hop-growers' Association at Puyallup last week in which over 100 of the leading producers in the state took part, promises to revolutionize the industry in this part of the Northwest. At the meeting the state was divided into three sections and growers here are now perfecting an organization of a branch to have charge of the work in Western Washington. The association will at once affiliate with the Pacific Coast Hop-growers' union.

The reduction of the hop acreage and the elimination of the middleman are urged as two fundamental elements looking to the perpetuation of the industry. An effort has been made to secure a pledge from growers to reduce acreage and plow up yards where good results have not been secured. In every field of more than five acres there will be reduction.

PRIMARY LAW AND STATEMENT NO. 1

Eugene, Or., Feb. 3, 1908.
Editor Guard—In an editorial in the Eugene Register entitled "The Logic of It," the editor seems inclined to the view that Statement No. 1 does not conform to that part of the direct primary law that holds that there must of necessity be political parties, and that it is not fair to the legislative candidates of the different parties to exact from them the pledge to vote for that person who shall receive the largest number of votes for the office of United States senator, irrespective of party; in other words, that all the Republicans who shall be elected shall vote for that candidate of their own party who shall have received the endorsement of his party, and in like manner the Democrats shall support the man who has received endorsement at the hands of the Democratic party.

I wonder does it occur to the editor of the Register that the people might endorse a Republican for United States senator and at the same time elect a Democratic legislature, or vice versa? Such things have occurred as a dominant political party losing at the polls. The same people who elected Geo. E. Chamberlain, governor of Oregon can elect a Democratic legislature. Suppose such should be the case. Would not another "The Logic of It" editorial have to be written?

The writer hereof, while not claiming perfection for the primary law, and who recognizes the fact that Statement No. 1 is binding in a moral way only, devoutly hopes that neither of the pledges may ever be eliminated from the law, whatever other changes may of necessity have to be made. It seems to us that whatever may be the political complexion of the legislature, it is its moral duty to elect as senators the people's choice, irrespective of his political faith. We hold that only that part of the law which renders doubtful its operation should be revised, and that no changes should be made which shall place in jeopardy the chances of a man who shall have received at the hands of the people an endorsement as their representative.

The law seems pretty good to us as it now stands; but we believe it can be made more effective were it made to provide that any measure which has been enacted by the legislature (except in extreme cases, where its operation would work injury), and also to provide that the law enacted by the people shall be inoperative because of any such condition that the legislature shall apply what may be necessary to render it operative and re-enact the law. I. R. G.

Samuel W. Gerlin, of Dexter, was in the city Tuesday on business.

SUSLAW LAUNCH WRECKED AT THE MOUTH OF RIVER

CLAUD YATES' GASOLINE BOAT MEETS WITH DISASTER—SCHOONER COQUILLE WATER-LOGGED AND PUTS INTO COOS BAY—ROAD WASHED AWAY BY RIVER

(Special Correspondence.)
Mapleton, Feb. 5.—The schooner Coquille, which sailed from this port a few days ago loaded with lumber, sprung a leak and water-logged. She was towed into Coos Bay yesterday. It is not known yet how much she is damaged. M. E. Sauter, of Acme, has a large interest in her.

Launch Wrecked.
Yesterday Claud Yates, in charge of the launch Lena, towed a snow loaded with lumber to the mouth of the river, intending to land it below the jetty. When opposite the end of the jetty his engine stopped and before he could get it started the launch drifted onto the north spit and last night the sea broke it all to pieces. She was owned by Charles Sauter and was valued at about $500.

River Cutting Road Away.
The river is cutting the bank very bad at Hollenbeck's, half a mile above Mapleton. The road is damaged to such an extent that teams are obliged to travel through the field. Some of the people have subscribed quite liberally to letty it. They have the piles the river and Benedict's pile driver was brought up last night to drive them. They have to get it fixed before another freshet, and expect the county court to appropriate money for part of the expense.

Shipping Notes
The tug Roberts was brought up from Gardiner Saturday, loaded with coal-storage and canned salmon at William Kyle & Sons' cold storage plant at Florence, and was on the way to Coos Bay again Sunday. The L. Roscoe, with the same kind of a cargo from the same place, sailed Monday for Coos Bay.

The Washalore is on the way from San Francisco to this port and should be here today.
Mr. Clough is putting up a good-sized building just south of Joe Morris' store, but no one seems to know what it is going to be used for.
Last week we had some of the coldest weather of the season. Aside from bursting some of the water pipes no damage was done.

NEW HARDWARE COMPANY AT JUNCTION CITY

The Junction City Hardware Company filed articles of incorporation with the county clerk this afternoon. The incorporators are Edward Bailey, Forrest Miller and Richard Pope. The capital stock is $9000, divided into 90 shares of the par value of $100 each. The object of the corporation is to deal in hardware, furniture, etc. The new company has bought the Miller & Mays hardware store at Junction City. They are well known in the county, Mr. Bailey being a farmer residing west of town and the other two gentlemen having been identified with the business interests there for some time. Interests there for some time past.

The grandmothers of the old Dutch Dunkard families in Western Pennsylvania have made and used "Hickory Bark Cough Remedy" and raised their families on it for a hundred years. Now you can buy it of your dealers. Ask for it and use it, because it's pure; because it will stop your cough; because it is the best cough remedy made today. Try it. For sale by Hull's Red Cross Drug Store and all dealers everywhere.

N. Christensen, of Florence, returned home this week, after spending some time in Eugene, attending to business matters.

GOOS COUNTY SECURES NEXT DISTRICT FAIR

At the annual meeting of the Second Southern Oregon District Agricultural Society, held in the office of Secretary F. G. Miceli, in Roseburg, this afternoon Coos county, by a vote of 5 to 3, secured the privilege of holding the district fair this year, says the Roseburg Review. There were present at the meeting, besides Mr. Miceli, who represented Curry county, by proxy, Amos Wilkins and H. F. Hollenbeck, representing Lane county, and J. C. Aiken, W. W. Cardwell and C. W. Parrott, representing Douglas county. Mr. Aiken held the proxies of the two Coos county commissioners. He cast his own vote and the two he controlled for Coos county. Mr. Miceli and Mr. Parrott did likewise with their single vote, while Mr. Cardwell voted for Lane county with the two commissioners from that place.

Election of officers resulted as follows: C. W. Parrott, president; H. F. Hollenbeck, vice president; R. C. Dent, second vice president; F. G. Miceli, secretary; J. M. Williams, assistant secretary; J. H. Booth, treasurer; executive committee, Parrott, Dent, Amos Wilkins; finance committee, Parrott, Hollenbeck and John Bear.
