BERTUCCI GIVEN SENTENCE OF TWO YEARS IN PRISON

At nine o'clock this morning in the circuit court, Andrew Bertucci, who was indicted yesterday for soliciting prostitution for a woman at Cottage Grove, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two years in prison.

Clyde Woolwine, indicted yesterday for fornication, also pleaded guilty this morning and time for sentence was set for Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Liquor Indictments. Yesterday afternoon the grand jury indicted Ernest Coleman for selling liquor in violation of the local option law. Coleman is charged with selling the booze at Springfield. A bench warrant was issued for him last evening and he was arrested and placed in the county jail.

Another indictment was returned by the grand jury this forenoon, but as the person indicted is not yet in custody the name is not given out. It is said that this person is also charged with selling liquor. A bench warrant was ordered and bond placed at $500.

John Ingham Sells HIS FINE FARM (From Monday's Daily Guard.) John Ingham has sold his fine stock and grain farm eight miles southwest of Eugene, to Louis Montgomery, a capitalist, of Portland, who took possession of the place today.

The price paid for it is withheld from the public, but it is understood that it is far above what Mr. Ingham paid for the place. The farm contains 740 acres of land, between 300 and 400 acres being in cultivation. Mr. Montgomery will, it is understood, engage in the business of raising blooded horses and other stock and will make extensive improvements on the place, erecting large barns and probably a bungalow where he and his family will reside during the summer.

This is one of the finest farms in the county, and Mr. Montgomery is to be congratulated upon securing it. He will be a valuable acquisition to Lane county as a citizen, and the people of the commonwealth welcome him to their midst.

Mr. Ingham has moved to town and will hereafter live at his residence, 746 1/2 street.

PORTLAND MARKET REPORT Portland, Oregon, March 5.—The hide market, shows no change from the semi-demoralization of the past two months, and local dealers are inclined to take anything but an optimistic view of the situation. One jobber said today:

A month ago when the market reached a point where further depression seemed impossible, we hoped and expected that conditions in the financial and industrial world would be so far improved by this time as to inject some new life into the hide trade, but we have been disappointed.

The features of the market is the almost complete absence of demand. It is easy to buy hides, but to sell is another thing, so that quotations now, when the market normally should be a live affair, are little more than nominal. The hide market seems to be slower than any other in recovering from the depression wrought by the money squeeze last fall. At this time of the year there should be life in the trade, but there is not, and I can account for this condition in no other way than that there is still a serious lack of confidence in the business world.

Salmon Market Strong. With the opening of the Spring buying season near at hand the jobbing trade of the country faces one of the strongest situations on salmon the country has known in years. The market appears to have grown steadily stronger since the opening of the year, and notably within the past two weeks. In the Eastern Trade publication Frank A. Alpin, of the J. K. Armsby Company, is quoted as saying:

"We have passed through two years of the greatest consumption of this important food product that the world has ever seen. Undoubtedly this tremendous increase, was influenced by the very low prices named by the Alaska Packers Association on their 1905 pack of red. It is hardly reasonable to suppose in the face of this increased consumption that a slight advance will have a material effect toward reducing the demand, as any reasonable advance on today's market will not affect the retail price throughout the country generally."

California Butter is Here.

Quite a large shipment of California butter arrived on the San Francisco steamer which was unloaded this morning. The better market in the south has not yet seen the arrival of incoming arrivals and prices have been rising downward very fast. The supplies which came here are of fancy quality and are quoted by the receivers around 30 and 31c a pound. The receipts from there thus far, however, have had no effect on local conditions except to cause the crammers to men here to prepare for the invasion by dropping the price yesterday. Outside of this the market could scarcely be finer. Receivers are able to dispose of all arrivals from country points which are of good quality and city makers say their supplies are no greater than demand—in fact they were in this position even before the drop of yesterday.

Plenty of Fish For Lent.

There is plenty of fish for the Lenten season in sight at the moment and local supplies were never better for this time of the year than today. There is an increasing run of chinook salmon according to reports that came from the lower river this morning. The fish are generally of large size. Practically all of them are going into the fresh fish market because values are so high to admit storage or canning. This will likely force the price down here. This is the first time for this period of the year that smelt have been shipped to this market from Astoria. Some arrivals are now coming from the city by sea, it being stated that the fish are running in one of the small creeks near that city.

Tomato Shipments are Liberal. Shipments of tomatoes from Mexico are coming quite freely into the local market at the present time. Shipments are generally in fair condition. Those coming via steamer are selling at $2.75 while those shipped by express are finding a call at $2.00 and $3.25. The latter are shipped somewhat ripper than those coming by water.

Onions Are Firm But Unchanged.

There is quite a firm tone on the local onion market. Receipts from the country have been nominal of late but there is no scarcity of supplies along the street—commission houses having full stocks which they are holding generally around $2.75 and $2.00 per hundred pounds. The Japanese onion have not yet arrived here and none are shown in this market from the east. However, both the northern and southern markets have ample supplies at this time to fill all their trade requirements and are not disposed to pay the higher prices asked for Oregon. Notwithstanding this growers are quite sure they will be able to get their own figure before the old crop is superceded by the new. They count on a temporary shortage between the two seasons which would allow them to market the few remaining cars at more favorable values.

Brief Notes of the Trade.

Dressed mutton remains quiet, with prices fully maintained. All lines affected. Eggs are showing a disposition to hold steadier with values ruling between 18 and 18 1-2c.

Asparagus arrivals from the South are coming somewhat more freely but prices are holding stiff.

Sprouts are higher because of an advance in the southern price. Arrivals of cauliflower from California are in good shape and prices are advanced.

Continued heavy arrivals are shown in oranges but outward movement is good and prices are fairly steady at the recent decline.

Some of the better grades of apples are firmer, with a few sales at an advance of 2 1/2c a box. General market unchanged.

Jap oranges are selling steady at former prices. Quality of tangerines getting better.

Portland Market Report. The local livestock market was reported steady in all lines today, with no changes from the quotations that have ruled for several days.

Prevailing prices are: Cattle—Best steers, $4.25 @ $4.50; medium $3.50 @ $4.00; cows, $2.25 @ $3.50; fair to medium cows, $2.75 @ $3.25; bulls $2.00 @ $2.75; calves $3.75 @ $4.50.

Sheep—Good $5.50 @ $6.00; lambs $5.75 @ $6.50. Hogs—Best $5.25 @ $5.50; lights, fats and feeders, $5.00 @ $5.25.

Creamery Butter, 30 @ 32 1-2c. Eggs—15c. Chickens—13c at 14c. Wheat—Valley $2; Bluestem $2c. Oats—Per ton $26 @ $28.

Barley—Per ton $27 @ $29. Hay—Timothy, $18; cheat, $14. Grain Hay—$14 @ $15.

Mohair—Choice, 29 @ 30c. Wool—Valley, 16 @ 18c. Hops—Prime 4c @ 5 1-2c. Potatoes—40 @ 45c.

Onions—$2.25 @ $2.50. Chittim bark—4 @ 5 1/2c.

With the coming of spring, squirrels, rabbits and mice, rats regularly appear to devastate the bridge of growing grass. Early in the season, when their natural food is scarce, their numbers may be greatly diminished by a systematic warfare upon them. Every female killed before the young are born, reduces the number of pests at least ten later on.
