The exhibit of the work of the public schools, now shown in the high school, is proving most conclusively the wisdom of the present school management. Those of us who are out of our teens are forced to wish we might begin all over again when we see what the boys and the girls of today are able to do with their hands. Note books from all the grades from the first to the eighth show at a glance the character of the work and testify to the advantage of the present method of keeping all work together, and in this permanent way giving a training in accuracy and neatness not always possible with the scratch tablet system. As a record for the teacher, the parent and the pupils themselves this system is certainly worth while. Of even greater interest because of recent introduction is the work of the department of drawing, and that of sewing. The exhibit of drawings and color work occupies the wall space of the assembly room and of the three recitation rooms on the second floor of the high school. It is a revelation of the earnestness with which pupils have seized upon the opportunity of expressing themselves by means of their hands. Not always is real artistic ability evident, but for all it is a means of observation and a means of expression. As for the sewing, one must see that to appreciate what this training must mean to the future of many homes.

After all, the things of greatest interest are to be found on the first floor of the building. Bird houses galore occupy every available spot in hall and recitation rooms, bird houses so varied in plan and construction that a village of them would certainly show no monotony, and there is surely a house for every pair of birds that may wish to set up housekeeping in Eugene. Before you tire of these you are attracted by the fragrance of the bread which crowds the desks in one room. The mere fragrance is so delicious that one longs for a task such as the judges have had. Yet one cannot envy the judges the difficult task of adjudging a prize in this instance. The exhibit is one that every mother and father should see.

A few of Mrs. Cheshire's friends spent this afternoon with her in sewing articles for the new hospital. Mrs. Cheshire served a dainty luncheon.

The Wednesday Afternoon Whist Club will meet with Mrs. Jena Willoughby next week in the last meeting of its series.

On next Thursday, the 12th, will occur the annual business and social meeting of the First Congregational church. This meeting, with its roll call and gathering of the church family, is always a pleasant event in the life of the church.

test and Mrs. L. M. Travis the second. The following guests were invited: Mesdames L. M. Travis, L. R. Edmunson, John Buoy, Geo. McMorran, H. D. Jones, F. W. Osburn, E. O. Potter, J. W. Hobbs, Wm. Preston, J. W. Quackenbush, P. K. Hammond, J. K. Pratt, Watson, J. Goldsmith, J. W. Kays, J. W. Shumate, J. M. Woodruff, H. C. Mahon, E. E. Mink, C. W. Miller, Florence Blodgett (Marshfield), W. F. Osburn, Misses Dunn and Quackenbush.

Mrs. W. P. Boynton entertained this afternoon for a few of the young women of the University Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. J. W. Kays entertained a few of her friends Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Sykes, of Roseburg. Sewing and conversation occupied the afternoon, at the close of which the hostess, assisted by Miss Myrtle Kays, served a dainty supper.

The students of the high school are preparing for a burlesque county fair to be held on Friday and Saturday evenings of next week.

Rev. and Mrs. D. C. Kellems tendered a reception to the divinity students and faculty last evening at their home on Mill street.

The rooms were beautifully decorated in the school colors, and Oregon grape and daffodils. Misses Minnie McMahon and Helen Green assisted Mrs. Kellems in receiving and provided a very unique and interesting art guessing contest for the evening's entertainment. Light refreshments consisting of punch, wafers and candy, added to the enjoyment and the expressions of good will from the many guests proved this to be one of the best entertainments of the season.

NARROW ESCAPE IN BURNING DORMITORY

El Paso, March 7.—Fire last night destroyed the boys' dormitory and boarding house in the New Mexican School of Agriculture at Mesilla Park while many were sleeping, and there were many narrow escapes. Camden, N. J., March 7.—Three robbers, who successfully robbed the postoffice at Pedrickton and Bridgport last night, were surrounded by a farmers' posse today near Woodbury and a pitched battle ensued. 112 BODIES HAVE BEEN IDENTIFIED

Cleveland, March 5.—Up to noon today 112 little bodies had been identified among the pupils of the Lakeview school in Collingwood, who lost their lives in the fire which gutted the building yesterday. Twenty-four hours have passed, but the exact number of fatalities is unknown and may reach 170. How many bodies are still in the ruins, if any, has not been determined.

The search of the ruins is still proceeding, and so far 128 bodies have been recovered and of these 56 it is generally admitted cannot be distinguished one from another, and their names must be ascertained from the list of the missing. There will be a great public funeral tomorrow. County Coroner Dr. T. A. Burke today began a thorough investigation of the causes leading to the terrible holocaust. There will also be an investigation by the board of education and other officials. So far there is no definite conclusion as to the cause of the fire or where the blame, if any, is to be placed. It is generally admitted that if the building had been of approved fireproof construction the calamity could not have been averted looked at from this standpoint. Also it is now believed the fire did not originate from the furnace or from the explosion of a heat boiler. From testimony so far adduced it started under the stairway leading from the basement to the first floor of the building. Janitor Fred Herler stoutly maintains there was no waste or rubbish there.

CHILD FATALY BURNED AT PLAY
