SURPRISE PARTY AT GATE CREEK HOTEL

(Special Correspondence.)
Vida, March 11.--A surprise party of grown-ups and youngsters swooped in upon the occupants of the Gate Creek Hotel the other evening, to their amazing surprise and delight, and without a doubt it was a great surprise to the proprietors and guests--one that was well gotten up and carried out, since the surprise party had allowed neither word or sign to escape to arouse the suspicions of those they wished to surprise that anything unusual was to become a reality. The first inkling that a surprise was in order was a lot of grotesque faces peeping through the windows and a lot of little masqueraders pouring in through the doors.
The younger element were all masked, representing clowns, fairies, Teddy bears, goblins, squaws and papooses and many other things. It was great fun seeing them acting their respective parts, which they did in a manner that would have done credit to a grown-up. Lots of guessing was done as to whom the masqueraders were, but all to no avail. The older ones did not come in until the younger ones discarded their masks. The surprise party was ushered over to the hall, where they were entertained by music on the phonograph and dancing. A fine lunch was served and all enjoyed a very delightful evening, one in which the little folks seemed to have the time of their lives.
Lodge Meeting.
Gate Creek Union, No. 287, Order of Washington, met last Saturday night in its hall to discuss the action taken by the supreme union in turning over their certificates, assets, etc., to the Western Indemnity Company, of Chicago, which company agrees to assume all responsibility and to pay all claims coming due to policy holders under the Order of Washington. Thorough and lengthy speeches were made and every little detail was gone over, and discussed in regard to the change, and the prevailing attitude assumed by the members present was that of a pleasing nature, since we were all of the same opinion and the change was entirely satisfactory to all, as it undoubtedly gives us greater strength, better protection, a greater scope, and extends our field for member getting. We are all pleased at the way in which the Western Life Indemnity Company pays all claims, both matured and death policies--that is, in one payment, now. Under the laws of the Order of Washington the claims were paid on the installment plan, paying a certain sum each month until the whole amount had been paid. Quite a few outsiders look at the change in the light that the Order of Washington was "busted," and that the policy holders' certificates were no good. That is entirely wrong, since our certificates are just as good as gold, and when they mature we will get every cent. The Western Life Indemnity Company has
