

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Healthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood. It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

JURY AWARDS $800 DAMAGES TO KINCAID

(From Friday's Daily Guard.) The jury in the case of the city of Eugene vs. R. Kincaid, in which the defendant took an appeal to the circuit court from the decision of the commission of awards in the proposed opening of Olive street, returned a verdict last evening about 5:30 o'clock in favor of the defendant for $800.

The commission awarded Mr. Kincaid $505. It will be remembered that a former commission made an award of damages in his favor of $1350, but the city authorities not being satisfied with the report, appointed a second commission. It was from the decision of the latter that Mr. Kincaid made his appeal. Woodcock & Potter and Williams & Bean were the attorneys for the defendant and City Attorney S. D. Allen for the city.

The case of the State vs. Ernest Coleman, charged with perjury, alleged to have been committed in connection with the liquor case against him at this term of court, was dismissed upon motion of the prosecuting attorney.

A motion for a new trial in the case of the Jap was argued yesterday and Judge Harris took it under advisement, but today he denied the motion.

The fall sentence in addition to the heavy fine will probably be the means of stopping the sale of liquor in Eugene for a time at least.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT. Metcalf was asked his views as to the value to the naval service of submarines, and replied he would prefer the answer to be made by the experts of the department, as his action in recommending the vessels showed he thought them necessary.

Metcalf mentioned Representative Butler, Robbins, Loudenslager, Wiley, Hughes, Sperry and Senators Bulkiey and Grandegee; that he thought Butler and Loudenslager called after the awarding of the contract and that the others had called before the contract was signed; that no suggestions were made in any way. They simply felt, they said, it was due the interests of the government to have two companies build boats.

Both Metcalf and Capps said they knew of no excessive profits being realized on submarines.

The supreme court has handed down a mandate in the case of William H. Ireland vs. Albert J. Ward, in which the circuit court awarded Ward $5,000 damages for the alienation of his wife's affections.

INVESTIGATION OF ELECTRIC BOAT COMPANY

Washington, D. C., March 19.—Congressman Lilley presented to the committee today affidavits signed by Clement E. Adams, dated at Bridgeport, Conn., March 13, 1908, in which Adams said that J. F. Archibald, in the summer of 1906, representing himself as the war correspondent of Colliers' Weekly, and stating he had been appointed by President Roosevelt to visit the Pacific coast cities and towns and report on the condition of coast defenses, that he had addressed the board of trade and other organizations on the advantages to be gained by the United States in purchasing submarines; that congress had been petitioned by these organizations through Archibald's efforts; that Archibald informed Adams he was the author of a newspaper article criticising the Lake submarine boat at the instance of Lawrence Y. Spear, an officer of the Electric Boat Company.

Accompanying the affidavit was a letter from the president denying that Archibald was ever appointed or employed by him, or so far as he knew, appointed or employed by any one connected by the administration; that Archibald had approached the president, saying he was about to investigate the question of submarine defense and would like to send a report to the president; that he expressed a willingness to hear from Archibald and later transmitted to the secretary of the navy a letter from Archibald on this subject, which was the president's custom in receiving such reports and communications.

The secretary of the navy and Admiral Capps appeared before the submarine investigating committee today. They presented documents and records on the subject.

President Roosevelt's letter was as follows: "The White House, Washington, D. C., March 18th. "Mr. Dear Mr. Lilley. Referring to our conversation of this morning, Mr. Archibald was never appointed or employed by me, nor so far as I know was he ever appointed or employed by any one else connected with the administration. Some time about a year ago he came in and saw me for a few minutes and said he was going to make an investigation of the question of submarine defense on the Pacific coast, and particularly, I believe, in reference to Puget Sound, and that he was immensely interested in the subject, having been a war correspondent for various papers, and that he would like to send me a report of what he found. I answered him that of course I would be very glad to receive such a report from him or any other man who might investigate the subject. He sent a letter on the subject a few weeks later which I transmitted to the secretary of the navy. I have transmitted dozens of similar letters from men who have told me of investigations that they have made or of facts which they had found or suggestions which they believed were important. It is the usual course; it was followed in this instance exactly as in all similar cases.

"Sincerely yours, "THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

Metcalf was asked his views as to the value to the naval service of submarines, and replied he would prefer the answer to be made by the experts of the department, as his action in recommending the vessels showed he thought them necessary. Metcalf stated that the contract for the Lake Company's boat was entered into on certain guarantees. The company's bid was $525,000, and the department agreed to pay $450,000 for one boat, no money to be paid until the boat was fully tested and had developed the speed of the best submarine owned by the government; that the contract had been let after the attorney-general had decided that the secretary of the navy had authority to enter into such contract; that the matter was submitted to the attorney-general at the request of former Senator Thurston, the representative of the Lake Boat Company; that a number of congressmen had called upon him regarding the opinion of the attorney-general.

Metcalf mentioned Representative Butler, Robbins, Loudenslager, Wiley, Hughes, Sperry and Senators Bulkiey and Grandegee; that he thought Butler and Loudenslager called after the awarding of the contract and that the others had called before the contract was signed; that no suggestions were made in any way. They simply felt, they said, it was due the interests of the government to have two companies build boats.

Both Metcalf and Capps said they knew of no excessive profits being realized on submarines.

The supreme court has handed down a mandate in the case of William H. Ireland vs. Albert J. Ward, in which the circuit court awarded Ward $5,000 damages for the alienation of his wife's affections.
