

MRS. GUNNESS GUILTY OF MANY MURDERS

Laporte, Ind., May 6.—A gang of men excavating on the Guinness farm Mrs. Guinness was one of the most within six feet of the place where yesterday four bodies were dug up, and upon digging three feet down struck a wooden box, which fell to pieces. Further search revealed the body of a man face downward. The body of the sixth victim was unearthed about 11 o'clock, and this afternoon another body was found. The first of these two was the body of an adult and had been buried probably two years. The latter was that of an adult, but the sex was not determined because the body had been dismembered.

From out of the tangled and sensational evidence which indicates Mrs. Guinness was responsible for at least five murders before she and her three children were incinerated in the fire which destroyed her home on the night of April 28, and that she is still alive and in hiding, probably in Chicago. This theory is strengthened by the fact that the head of the body of the woman found in the ruins of the Guinness home after the fire is still missing, although every effort has been made to find it. Unless the head is found today the officers will make a postmortem examination of the remains of Mrs. Guinness and subject them to more careful analysis to learn whether the woman was herself killed or substituted the body of one of her female victims for herself and then set fire to the house to cover up the crime. In case it is proved that Mrs. Guinness substituted the body of another woman for her own, it is likely that she is also guilty of the murder of her three children.

LaPorte, Ind., May 5.—That Mrs. Guinness was responsible for at least five murders before she and her three children were incinerated in the fire which destroyed her home is now the theory of the local authorities, who are attempting to solve the mystery of the barnyard burying ground found on her pretty farm, one mile north of the city, today. Ray Lamphere was told this evening of the day's gruesome find.

"My God! Five bodies? What wouldn't that woman do!" exclaimed Lamphere, who is awaiting grand jury action on the charge of first-degree murder. The dim lighting of the cell in which he has been confined since his arrest following the fatal fire, revealed the spasm of crossed his features.

MARTIN ALLEGED TO HAVE KILLED MINING PARTNER

Portland, May 6.—A special dispatch to the Telegram from Lewiston, Idaho, says that Edwin H. Martin, under arrest in Portland for the alleged murder of Nathan Wolff, was suspected of the murder of his partner in February, 1905, in the Thunder Mountain mining district, where his parents had purchased an interest in a mining claim. The body of his partner was not found, and Martin was released the following October. While confined in jail he endeavored to secure liberty by burning the jail building. After his release he came to Lewiston, and was afterward arrested in Moscow and Wallace on charges of insanity, being discharged as his derangement was caused by the excessive use of drugs.

No trace of the partner in the mining claim was ever secured.

ADMIRAL EVANS' BATTLESHIP FLEET SWEEPS PROUDLY THROUGH GOLDEN GATE CHEERED BY MULTITUDES

REAR ADMIRAL EVANS.

San Francisco, May 6.—The first of the functions connected with the coming of the Atlantic fleet was a breakfast given in honor of the secretary of the navy, Victor H. Metcalf. About fifty guests assembled in the red room of the St. Francis hotel, including Secretary Metcalf, the governors of several states, executive and reception committees, and the California Promotion Committee. Governor Sheldon, of Nebraska, presented to Secretary Metcalf a monster petition signed by officials and commercial organizations of Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippines, representing the sentiment of 280,000 citizens, asking for the permanent establishment of a fleet in Pacific waters of twelve battleships.

thousands of people eager to witness the arrival of the fleet and welcome it into the world-famed harbor of San Francisco, to be reviewed two days hence by the secretary of the navy in honor of the completion of the first great stage of their tour around the world, and to be entertained for ten days or more in the most elaborate and picturesque fashion that the residents of the city, with an immense fund at their disposal, have been able to devise. The sixteen battleships, now the renowned Atlantic fleet, were accompanied by six hardy little destroyers and a squadron of auxiliary and dispatch boats, and sailed into the harbor shortly after noon today.

No accurate estimate of the vast throng which gazed in awe upon the beautiful marine picture could be made. It is not alone the outpouring of nearly every resident of the city who was able to drop work or pasture long enough to catch a set out upon its epochal journey to the Western seas.

Today the city gave itself over entirely to the welcome. Affairs of the outside world held no interest that could match with the coming of the fleet.

Thirty vessels were in the imposing line, stretching far out toward the dimly distant Farallones, that swept within the gateway. Fourteen vessels of the Pacific fleet, eight of them heavily armored cruisers, joined the Atlantic fleet in what was the 'greatest parade of warships our navy has ever known. Through the crowded harbor the combined fleets, under the command of Rear Admiral Evans, who yesterday flung his flag again to the breeze from the main truck of the Connecticut, threaded their way to the anchorage grounds, their progress being heralded by never-ceasing blasts of steam whistles, float and the ringing of bells ashore.

No sooner had the fleet reached its final anchorage than a committee, carrying Mayor Taylor and the officials of the reception committee, put off to welcome Admiral Evans to San Francisco.

The ceremonies aboard the Connecticut were brief and informal.

The fleet got under way at the lightship, where it had been at anchor all night, and headed for the Golden Gate shortly after 11 o'clock this morning and at noon had nearly reached the headlands at the harbor entrance. The hills about the city were black with hundreds of

FEUD LEADER KILLED IN KENTUCKY

Lexington, Ky., May 5.—A telegram from Jackson today says it was reported there that Ed Callahan, former sheriff and feud leader, who was stabbed by his brother-in-law, John Spyer, yesterday, one arm being almost severed, is dead.

Callahan and Spyer fought in Callahan's store in Crockettville, 28 miles from Jackson, and Callahan's son, William, shot and killed Spyer when his father was stabbed. It is hard to secure authentic news from Crockettville because of its location. It has no telegraphic connection.

SUSPECT MARTIN'S RECORD UNSAVORY IN NEW YORK

Portland, May 6.—Nothing of a startling nature developed today in the Martin case, but the police are more than ever confirmed in their belief that he killed Wolff. Martin is plainly showing the effects of the action of the police in shutting off his supply of drugs, and it is expected he will make some sort of a statement very soon. Today, however, he denies his guilt in every particular.

New York, May 6.—Edward H. Martin, under arrest in Portland for the alleged murder of Nathan Wolff, figured largely in the newspapers of this city several years ago. While stationed here with his regiment he got into difficulties over his financial affairs and his connection with the army ceased soon thereafter. About the same time he announced that he had married Gussie McKee, a young woman who conducted a race-betting establishment for the exclusive accommodation of women. She died a year or two after her marriage to Martin, and following her death Martin left the city for the West.

Immediately after his arrest, yesterday, Martin was taken to the detectives' room in the upstairs portion of the Municipal Court building, by District Attorney Manning, where, in the presence of nearly all the detective force, he made a statement which embodied his history from the time of his arrival in Portland until his acquaintance with Wolff and the actions which caused

Frank Wyman, Orchard's attorney, last night petitioned for a reprieve, as the board, which had been called to meet tonight, was advised that its session could not be held. The governor then assured Wyman that Orchard would not be hung until the board of pardons had heard his case.
