

CATARH BLOOD UNHEALTHY SYSTEM DERANGED

The entire inner portion of the body is covered with mucous membrane. This membrane is abundantly supplied with blood vessels, veins, arteries, and capillaries. Each of these is constantly supplying to this tissue the blood to nourish and strengthen it and keep the system healthy. When the blood becomes infected with catarrhal matter it is not able to furnish the required amount of healthful properties, but feeds the parts with impurities which cause the membranes and tissues so that they become irritated and inflamed, and Catarrh, with all its disagreeable and dangerous symptoms, is established in the system. There is a constant ringing in the ears, a thin, watery discharge from the nostrils, the breath has an offensive odor, a slight fever often accompanies the disease, and gradually the entire health becomes affected and the system upset and deranged. In its earlier stages, when Catarrh is confined to the nose and throat, sprays, washes, inhalations, etc., are soothing and in a way beneficial, because they are cleanly and usually antiseptic, but such treatment has no curative effect, because it does not reach the blood.

S.S.S. PURELY VEGETABLE

To cure Catarrh the blood must be purified, and this is just what S. S. S. does. It goes down into the circulation and attacks the disease at its foundation; it removes the cause and makes the blood pure and healthy. Then the blood vessels are filled with fresh, reinvigorated blood, which is carried to all the mucous surfaces and linings, the inflammation and irritation are corrected, the symptoms all disappear, the health is improved and Catarrh is permanently cured. Back on Catarrh and any medical advice free to all who write.

NEWS LETTER FROM

VIDA AND VIGINITY

CORRESPONDENT TELLS OF SPORTSMAN'S RIDE ON BACK OF BEAR

(Special Correspondence.)
Vida, May 11.—Travel up the McKenzie is picking up. Several parties are at Gate Creek hotel fishing, thought it is not very good yet. The McKenzie river fish hatchery is in excellent shape. C. T. Peck, the superintendent, is looking for a very large run of salmon this year, and as he is a thorough and practical fish man, we look for a large output of young salmon fry.

Last summer, while with a party of California sportsmen, we were camping at Clear Lake, the head of the McKenzie river, some 80 miles east of Eugene, and fell in with another party of campers who were spending an outing there, enjoying the splendor of the beautiful scenery, which abounds around Cedar Lake. Now we were informed by a gentleman up there that it was quite frequently the custom of deer on a hot day to protect themselves from the flies to stand in the mist of the McKenzie Falls, which are about a mile below the lake. This looked very good to one of the other parties as a likely place to kill a deer, and being very enthusiastic he invited me to go with him. We rowed across the lake a distance of about 1 1/2 miles. When we reached the falls we soon located a place of concealment, a very comfortable spot to await the approach of a deer. The sun was beating down very hotly and I soon fell asleep, and the first thing I remember was that my newly formed friend was nudging me, and soon after the funniest incident happened, though my friend says he could not see the funny part. With him it was exactly the opposite, full of excitement, thrilling adventure and what he termed a very narrow escape from a horrible death. When I awoke from some three or four vigorous nudges, and after I rubbed my eyes I looked in the direction he was pointing and the object which caused him to arouse me was plainly enough in view to prove to an experienced eye to be a deer, standing in the mist. He said: "Now just watch me kill that deer," and with that, after pointing the gun in every direction he invited me to be fired; but as I expected, the deer, not being hit and unwilling to lie down and die, it came bounding out, followed by a spotted fawn. Now my friend dropped his gun and took after the fawn, and then the race was on. He chased it around trees, over logs, through the bushes, up the mountain side, and I actually believe he had one chance in a thousand to catch it had he not through sheer exhaustion and fatigue allowed one of his feet to become entangled in some brush, which turned him, I think, a triple somersault, and by the time he got up and straightened out the object of his pursuit was long from his vision. Well, he stood there panting and puffing and looking bewildered and disgusted, when all at once he seemed to brighten up, and with a lot of peculiar gesticulations and a look of intense concentration upon his face he pointed at a clump of brush and said: "There, I noticed a hole in the bushes, and I presume he thought the fawn was after was in there. Now where those bushes were in commotion lay a large pine log. He crept up the log, crawling down it, and when he was about ten feet away from the moving bushes he made a run and lunged right onto those bushes. He hit upon the back of a large bear which was eating berries, and was concealed by the bushes and such. This poor frightened bear, being a poor bunched grass kind, with a roar began to make tail tracks for the timber, he having never been ridden before, and not being used to such a attack, and seemed to gather speed that would have left a race horse far in the rear on a mile race. All the time my friend was still clinging to the back of this bear, not for the purpose of trying to capture it, or to break it to ride, but for the simple reason that he was so badly frightened he had lost his wits. I don't know when he would have let go his tightly grasped hold had not the fur pulled out and allowed him to roll off. I went up to where he was, and the whitest fellow you ever saw. Why, he was whiter than snow, and talk about having an acute chill—do you know his knees were knocking together so badly he could scarcely stand, and speaking was out of the question? I got him back to camp and at camp he stayed. He was so badly scared he would dream at night about his famous bear ride and would wake us all up with his unearthly yells. I think the poor bear died shortly after from sheer fright.

RESTORE MOTTO

TO METAL MONEY

Washington, May 12.—The senate committee on finance today unanimously reported the bill already passed by the house providing for the permanent restoration of "In God We Trust" to the gold and silver coins of the United States. The motto was directed to be omitted from the coins by order of the president.

PRESIDENT CASTRO HAS POUTING SPELL

Washington, D. C., May 11.—The capital city is smiling today at the efforts of President Castro of the little republic of Venezuela to "insult" the United States. Castro has always been taken more as a tropical joke than as a real live, South American president, and when it was known that he had failed to comply with the usual rules of diplomacy and send a message of congratulation to President Roosevelt on the occasion of the ceremony of the laying of the cornerstone of the building for the bureau of Central and South American republics, the delegates from other countries than Brazil laughed.

"Guess he'll send a fleet of bombers next," says the man who battles the fleet in the Pacific side," facetiously remarked a prominent South American official. And thus the fun at Castro's expense went the rounds of the South American diplomatic corps.

KLAMATH WOOL SELLS FOR FIFTEEN CENTS

Lakeview, Or., May 11.—The annual shearing season has begun and the wool clip promises to be very good. The sheep are coming in from the desert in fine shape, and the loss during the winter was destroyed quite a number of sheep during the season, but storms were not responsible for any loss. Lake county derives a big revenue each year from the wool and while the price is not so good this year as it has been for a few years, it will yield a big revenue for the county. Buyers here have been offering 15 cents a pound for this year's clip. Last year and the year before the average price was 20 cents.

RURAL CARRIERS OF STATE AT ALBANY

Albany, Or., May 11.—The annual convention of the Oregon letter carriers will be held in this city May 29 and 30. Over 100 delegates are expected and the local association is planning to welcome them in royal fashion. Governor Chamberlain and Tom Richardson of Portland will be invited to deliver addresses.

John H. Goin of the local association holds the position of secretary and treasurer of the state association and is directing the preparations for entertainment.

SPokane FINANCIER DIES OF PARALYSIS

Spokane, May 12.—Theodore Galland, president of the Northwest Loan & Trust Company, died suddenly this morning of paralysis, which followed stomach trouble. He was formerly manager of one of the biggest brewing companies of the Northwest.

The B. S. Kelsay residence property in the Kelsay addition in the southern part of the city was sold at the sheriff's sale yesterday. L. Simon, the plaintiff in the suit against Kelsay, bid in the property at $3390.

PORTLAND MARKET REPORT.

Portland, May 14.—"Proof of the fact that hardships sometimes work benefit is to be found in any part of Oregon just now," said a local produce dealer, who has been in the country the better part of the past two weeks.

"It has often been remarked that in growth and development Portland was way ahead of the rest of the state; that while the city has risen to important rank the country has remained undeveloped, scratched in patches, so to speak; its agricultural sources given but scant attention.

"High wages rates in other lines of industry and an aversion to farm work on the part of labor have been almost wholly responsible for the fact that for years past it has been difficult and in many cases impossible for the farmers of the state to properly plant, cultivate and harvest their crops. The graingrowers and owners of hay ranches in the eastern part of the state can testify to this, and the situation has been exactly the same with the fruit and farm interests generally in the valley. Now things are different.

"In all parts of the state there is what might be termed an awakening of interest in the soil, and this development can be traced directly to the late financial crash that was responsible for so much actual and imagined hardship a few months back. Wages have been cut to some extent and opportunities for work in mills and camps have been largely curtailed. While wage reduction would always seem to be regrettable, the fact is that a result of the late money squeeze thousands of men who heretofore shunned farm work have turned to the farms, and with the change that has come it might be said that a new era in Oregon development has set in.

"Farm labor, which has been scarce for years, is now fairly plentiful. Farmers say they can now get the help they need for $30 a month and board, and they are taking advantage of the situation that has come about.

"Having unfavorable weather conditions, which are not to be expected, there will be larger farm crops generally in this state this year than ever before. And this is not all. In all sections of the western half of the state fields have been extended by the clearing away of underbrush and timber, so the crop-producing area is being enlarged. The acreage of practically all farm crops will be larger than ever before this year, and the promise is for bigger production.

"This will not necessarily mean overproduction, except in a few cases like hops. If it simply means that Oregon is destined for a few years to produce the bulk, instead of a fraction of the crops the people of the state need.

"A fact to be kept in mind in this connection is that the stockraising industry is coming to be recognized as an important one in this state. From this time on, more hogs, cattle, and sheep will be grown and fattened for the Portland market than ever before, but it will be years before Oregon will be able to raise livestock sufficient for the demands of this market. With agriculture taking on new life and the stockraising industry coming to the front there is prospect for development in Oregon."

SPRINGFIELD WON FROM ALBANY BUNCH

It seems that Springfield's winning streak cannot be broken this year, as they have won every game so far. Yesterday Ed Smith's bunch took the Albany ball tossers into camp to the tune of 7 to 5. Charles Tallafiero, the big Springfield idol, pitched his usual steady game. At the beginning of the game it looked as though Albany would win, but the Blues soon got down to work and stopped their progress. The day was an ideal one for baseball and a large and enthusiastic crowd was in attendance. Albany pulled off one very clever play, which was the feature of the game. Next Sunday Springfield will play the hard-hitting Coburn team.

Poultry Market is Quiet.

While there is no real pressure in the poultry market at this time, stocks are not cleaning up quite as readily along the street as could be wished. There is an increasing supply of broilers and fryers, but to date all supplies have been absorbed at the quotations printed in these columns.

Dressed meats were in light supply during the 24 hours, but the market was not overstrong and prices showed up no change for the day.

California Red Onions Arrive.

The expected shipment of new California onions arrived on the steamer this morning. Supplies were not in extra good shape, but found a fair demand at $3.50 @ 3.75 per 100 pounds. Bermuda onions are still in liberal demand, with former prices maintained.

The California steamer brought in quite liberal supplies of carrots, beets and other sacked vegetables, supplies of which have been quite short in this market of late.

Because of the quite liberal offerings, prices are down in the cherry market. Both white and black stock now shown.

Shipments of new California potatoes in this direction are increasing with lower prices ruling for today. Shipments of old Oregon to-day, bid in the property at $3390.

Brief Notes of the Trade.

According to the local auditors, farmers are not quite so willing to sell their old grapes since the recent reports of damage to the coming crop was printed.

Strawberries are selling at all sorts of prices in the local market today. "Dollars" are ranging from $1.25 to $1.60 per crate of 15 boxes, while California Jesses are from $1 to $1.25 for fancy stock. Poor stock sells too low to quote. Oregon berries hold up.

Cucumbers from local hotbeds are in large supply, and the price is down 25c. Range from $1 to $1.50 per dozen.

A shipment of bananas from Central America arrived in rather good condition this morning. Good condition, however. Demand is very good.

Orange market is still advancing for navel, with supplies very light. Another advance of about 10c per 100 pounds shown in the price of beans today. Small whites and large ones are now quoted stiff at $4.75. Spot stocks very light, with further increase in eastern demand.

While the receipts of eggs at this time are not heavy, they are fully able to supply the demand at 18c @ 18 1/2c, and anyone can today purchase supplies along Front Street at these figures. During the past 24 hours large supplies of eggs have been offered the boosting dealers at 18c a dozen, but they would not accept them.

Portland Livestock Market.

Cattle and hogs continue in strong demand and reports to commission men from all parts of the state are of this nature. The sheep market shows a disposition to yield. The demand is still fair, but hardly sufficient to take up the current receipts, which for some weeks back have been heavy.

There is good demand for lambs, but they are not so plentiful as they were at the yards. For calves today the demand was quieter than for some days past.

Quotations ruling in the livestock market today are:
Hogs—Best, $6.25 @ 6.35; medium, $5.75 @ 6.00; feeders $5.25 @ 5.50.
Cattle—Best steers, $5.00; medium, $4.50 @ 5.75; common, $3.50 @ 3.75; calves, $4.50 @ 5.50.
Sheep—Best sheared wethers, $4.75 @ 5.00; mixed, $4.50 @ 4.75; spring fawns, $6 @ 6.25.
Portland Quotations.
Creamery Butter 20c.
Eggs—18c 1-2c
Chickens—12 1/2c @ 14c
Wheat—Valley $9c; club $9c.
Barley—Per ton—$27 @ $28.
Oats—Per ton—$26 @ $27.
Hay—Timothy, $17; cheat, $15.
Grain hay—$15 @ $17.
Mohair—Choice, 17c @ 18.
Wool—Valley, 11c.
Hops—Prime, 4 @ 5c.
Potatoes—45c per cwt.
Onions—$3.00.
Cascara (chittim bark)—3c @ 3 1/2c per pound.

CONTRACT FOR CONSTRUCTION OF WATER SYSTEM

(From Thursday's Daily Guard.)
At a meeting of the city council in committee of the whole last night the engineering firm of McArthur & McClain was given the job of constructing the city's pipe line from Hitchcock creek and F. C. Kelsay's land, and was employed as consulting engineer. Contracts are being drawn up today and the work of making the preliminary survey will probably begin tomorrow and will be rushed to completion.

McArthur & McClain are University of Oregon students and have been engaged in similar work for several years, among their contracts being the construction of the sewer system at Springfield, which was entirely satisfactory to the people of that city. Their work in constructing the pipe line for the new gravity water-works will be entirely under the supervision of Engineer Kelsay, who will furnish all the plans and specifications for the work, and who will take out the pipe line and give his personal attention to the work until it is completed. Mr. Kelsay, it will be remembered, was employed by the city council a couple of years ago to furnish plans and specifications for a municipal water system, when the question was first agitated, and there was considerable trouble in collecting his fee from the city, but it finally resulted in his securing the entire amount asked for. The matter of going ahead with the plan was held up from time to time, but it now appears as if the long-cherished plans of the municipal ownership adherents are soon to be carried out.

Contract Signed.
The fire and water committee of the council and Mayor Matlock and City Attorney Bean to whom the matter of drawing up the contract was referred, met in the office of the city attorney this forenoon and formulated the contract. It was drawn up and late this afternoon signed. The terms as agreed upon in the contract in brief are as follows: Engineer Kelsay is to make the preliminary surveys of Hitchcock creek and two or three other creeks to ascertain whether or not sufficient water can be secured from them. This work is to be commenced at once and completed within ten days. McClain & McArthur are to be employed by Kelsay to do the actual surveying work. If the survey proves these streams will furnish all the water desired, Kelsay's employment is to be continued as consulting engineer until the completion of the construction work and he is to make all plans and specifications. For the first or preliminary survey he is to receive $250, and if the report is accepted he is to be paid for his entire work an equal to 2 per cent of the actual cost of the plant. The first payment is to be made at the time the final surveys are completed, and at the submission of the approximate cost of the plant. This payment is to be one-half of one per cent of the cost. When full detail plans and specifications are completed he is to receive a like payment, and for his services for supervising the contract during the construction work he will be paid one per cent in ten installments.

McClain & McArthur are employed as resident engineers to do the actual construction work on the ground and to furnish Kelsay with surveys and details. They are to be paid the same price and in the same manner that Kelsay is to be paid.

The committee reserves the right to cancel the contract at any time and if done before any of the steps mentioned are completed, the adherents shall be paid only for the work accomplished, except it is agreed that Kelsay shall be paid the $250 for the preliminary work. The contract is of course conditional upon the sale of the $300,000 bonds recently voted.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT

Notice is hereby given that J. C. Morgan, administrator of the estate of I. O. Morgan, deceased, has filed with the County Clerk of Lane County, Oregon, his final account thereon; and an order has been made and entered of record directing this notice to be published Saturday, the 13th day of June, 1908, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day, for the hearing of objections, if any, to said final account and settlement thereof. Dated this 8th day of May, 1908, at Eugene, Lane County, Oregon.
